GRAND JURY INDICTS 11 IN GAMBLING PROBE

All Male 'Jury' Gets in Step With All That's Chic To Judge Woman's Club Fashion Show Tuesday

As September rushed in the Fall season, so does our fashion-minded Mayor Frank Dusch rush into Cherry-Pearson's as he makes ready for the gala fashion show that will be sponsored by the Woman's Club of Princess Anne County and the W. G. Swarts department store of Norfolk, on September 6th at 3:30 p. m. at the Cavalier Beach and Cabana Club.

Mayor Dusch will serve on the "Fashion Jury," which will be composed of thirteen prominent gentlemen of Princess Anne County and Virginia Beach. The club invites the Mayor and other members of the "jury" for their spirit of cooperation.

Mirth and merriment with maddening will interest and entertain all who attend the fashion show, as the event takes its theme, "The Touch of Magic," as portrayed by charming and fastidious models. They will display fashions for Fall and Winter, designed by Ruff, Abrams and Franklin, suits and dresses.

Also many other American and foreign designers, such as Schiaparelli and Martin. These have been carefully selected by Mrs. Mary Howell, fashion coordinator of Swarts.

Mrs. Alice Brewer White, dean of Tidewater women, and Mrs. J. H. Burrell, Jr., as "models" will serve as "models" in the show.

In her usual dynamic manner she will present a show that will be interesting and move as swiftly and smoothly as the wand of a magician.

The "Merry Matrons" — Mrs. J. H. Burrell, Mrs. Joseph Cavell, Mrs. R. E. Owen, Mrs. B. E. Tyne, Mrs. George Aldridge, Mrs. C. B. Penold, Mrs. G. K. Willis, Mrs. H. F. Ames, Mrs. E. C. Van Buskirk, Mrs. Frank Kellam, Mrs. H. E. Savage, and Mrs. Virginia Holland.

"Campus Charmers" — Miss Susan Forbes, Miss Lorraine Cox, Miss Dickie Ann Woodward, Miss Marsha Murphy, Miss Noel Duncan, Miss Anita Brothers, and Miss Keith Wilder.

Fashion Jury

The all-male "Fashion Jury," in addition to Mayor Dusch, comprises Dr. Edward Myers, former Senator V. Alfred "Jack" Elderberg, prize announcing juror; Frank Kellam, line appraiser; Ashley Haycox, figure checker; Claiborne Bryant, surplus evaluator; Harry Price, inspector of weight; Wiley Harrell, beauty consultant; Hal Snellings, publicist; Thomas Christman, glamour scout; Leo Hooley, charm expert; Bob Cherry, fashion computer; and George Mullin, measurement manipulator.

A TOUCH OF MAGIC

In the top photo Virginia Beach's Mayor Frank A. Dusch is shown selecting clothes he will model in the forthcoming Princess Anne County Club fashion show "Touch of Magic" to be held at the Cavalier Beach Club. Helping the Mayor in his selection is Robert Cherry, of Cherry-Pearson's. In the lower photo are three lovely models who will appear in the show. They are, left to right, Mrs. William Ferrell, Mrs. Luther B. Marshall and Mrs. Maury Rignato. (McIntosh Photos)

The proceeds from this event will be used for charitable and welfare work engaged in by the club throughout the area. Tickets are $1.00 and may be obtained at Ingram's Pharmacy, Cherry-Pearson's, the W. G. Swarts Company, and at the door. All members of the club also have tickets for sale.

MAIMOTH PARADE TO BE FEATURE

BEACH PREPARES TO GIVE LEGION ROUSING WELCOME

Members of the American Legion, Department of Virginia, are coming to Virginia Beach next week for their annual State meeting with headquarters at the Sir Walter Hotel.

Officials of the Princess Anne Post 113 of the American Legion, who are hosts to the State meet, are predicting a record number of 3000 Legionnaires for the convention.

Convention dates are September 9-11 and a highlight of the three day meeting will be the attendance of Seaborn Collins, national commander of the American Legion.

National Commander Collins will open the meeting on the morning of September 9.

On Saturday, September 10 two events are scheduled that are expected to attract the attention of most of the delegates. Saturday morning a baton twirling contest is set for the boardwalk at 24th street and Oceanfront.

Saturday afternoon a giant parade is scheduled for 5 P. M. Various police departments, city officials, military leaders and Legion dignitaries are listed to take part in the parade.

The parade will form at ninth street and Atlantic Avenue. The parade will move north on Atlantic Avenue to 31st street then turn west to Baltic Avenue and south to 30th street. The reviewing stand will be located at 25th Street and Atlantic Avenue.

L. Eldon James, departmental commander, will preside over the convention. William P. Kellam, of the local post, is general chairman of the convention.

Jaycees Hope to Bring "Miss Virginia" Pageant to Va. Beach

The Virginia Beach Jaycees were well represented at the Junior Chamber's state quarterly work conference in Richmond August 26, 27 & 28. Of approximately 31 achievement awards presented to the 73 local chapters in the state, the Virginia Beach chapter received three awards.

The local chapter also presented to the state organization a plan by which the Virginia Beach Chapter would assist the state Jaycees in obtaining the Miss Virginia Pageant Franchise if possible, and in return would be allowed to hold the state contest at Virginia Beach for the next five years if successful. The plan received the full endorsement of the assembly.

Schools Open September 9

School bells will ring on Friday, September 9 for Princess Anne County and Virginia Beach youngsters and school officials throughout the county and city are all set to greet the children on that day.

The only hitch in school plans locally is the delay in completing the new Lankford Elementary School on Lankford Road. Frank W. Cox, school superintendent, has estimated that the new facility would be delayed approximately six weeks.

In the meantime, students of the new school will house counsel in children residing in North Virginia Beach, Rudco Heights, Bay Colony, Birdneck Point and Linleer.

Cox announced that youngsters who are to report for classes of the new Lankford school should report at 11 o'clock on Friday morning at the Cooke School. Those children who will regularly attend the Cooke School are to report at 9 o'clock.

North Beach Annex Petition Denied by Court

A three judge annexation tribunal dismissed a petition of North Virginia Beach residents seeking to have that area made a part of the City of Virginia Beach last week.

The court ruled on a motion by attorneys representing Princess Anne County who contended that the North Virginia Beach move circumvented provisions in the State law against two annexation efforts in a five-year period in the same county.

Eastwood D. Herbert, attorney who represented North Virginia Beach interests, noted an exception to the unanimous ruling by Judges Floyd E. Kellam, of the Princess Anne Circuit Court, Judge Jordan Temple, of Prince George County, and Judge Gus E. Mitchell, of Halifax County.

Herbert stated that the exception "leaves the door open" but that any future action would depend on a decision by the Board of Supervisors.

Text of Grand Jury Report

Honorable Floyd E. Kellam, Judge, Circuit Court of Princess Anne County, Princess Anne Court House, Virginia.

Dear Sir:

This Grand Jury, pursuant to your charge of August 4, 1955, having completed its investigation, submits the following report. May we say at the outset that while the task assigned to us has been a most difficult one, it has not affected our determination to follow your instructions to the best of our ability and, without fear or favor, in accordance with our oath.

We have endeavored to secure sufficient evidence to indict all of those we could find who were connected in any way with the violation of the gambling and liquor laws. Our energies, however, have been directed mostly in apprehending the "big shots," who are directly responsible for these violations.

We have examined 34 witnesses and have issued 19 indictments. We have endeavored to secure sufficient evidence to indict all of those we could find who were connected in any way with the violation of the gambling and liquor laws. Our energies, however, have been directed mostly in apprehending the "big shots," who are directly responsible for these violations.

We have indicted evidence that, prior to and during this inquiry, open gambling and the sale of liquor by the drink existed in Princess Anne County and the City of Virginia Beach.

Our investigation discloses that strangers were not only allowed in several places without question, but were invited to gamble.

Our investigation further discloses that teen-age youths (16 years of age or exact), were welcomed into at least one of the (Continued on Page Four)

More Flood Disaster Aid Urgently Needed for Northeastern States

"We are thankful that the people of Virginia Beach and Princess Anne County are not the 'out of sight, out of mind' sort," said a local Red Cross spokesman yesterday, while discussing the present emergency disaster fund drive to alleviate suffering in the flood-battered Northeastern section of the United States.

"While no one of us can imagine just what horror and hardship the hurricane-bred storms brought to those people, we have the capacity to open our hearts to aid in their fight for rehabilitation."

"Contributions are coming in—but not nearly as rapidly as we had hoped. No one knows how much aid will be needed to care for the evacuees, but we are certain that it will run far beyond early estimates. We hope that our local folks will not let these flood victims down," the spokesman continued, adding that funds may be sent to the local chapter simply marked "Disaster Fund, Red Cross, Virginia Beach."

Following a flying tour of the disaster area, Joseph R. Stewart, chairman of the 1956 Red Cross Campaign for Members and Friends, described as "horrible and shocking" flood devastation in the northeastern states.

"We know that the job is going to cost more than was first thought," he said. "Thousands of persons lost their means of livelihood when the floods swept away many factories. I cannot see how those industries will be able to start again for many months."

Mr. Stewart, who also is a member of the board of governors, said that because of the critical unemployment situation the Federal Government, Red Cross (Continued on Page Four)

19 Presentments Made Charging Gaming and Illegal Sale of Whiskey

Eleven persons were charged with gambling or illegal whiskey operations in nineteen indictments returned by the special criminal investigating grand jury called by the Princess Anne County Circuit Court early in August.

The jury's report made late Judge Floyd E. Kellam climaxed grand jury in looking into alleged gambling and illegal whiskey operations in the county and Virginia Beach.

Judge Kellam ordered the immediate arrest of all those persons indicted by the grand jury. Several were arrested late Tuesday night and early Wednesday.

Tuesday's session of the grand jury was the longest it had held during the entire month. The session, with brief recesses, lasted almost twelve hours.

In the seven-day jury's report to the judge they also recommended, among other things, that a reorganization of county and Virginia Beach police should be considered.

Judge Kellam complimented the jurymen and told them that he was set to be $2,500.

Alfred M. Miller, charged on two counts of keeping a gambling bank in the Pine Room. The dates for the separate charges were fixed as July 29 and 30. Arrested Tuesday night, Sullivan posted a bond of $1,500 which also had been stipulated by the judge.

James E. Calkins, charged on two counts of keeping a gambling bank. The indictments did not specify the place but fixed the dates as July 29 and 30. His bond was set to be $2,500.

Alfred M. Miller, charged on two counts of keeping a gambling bank in an undisclosed place on July 29 and 30. Bond set to be $2,500.

George Hurley (alias George Dode Hurley, alias George Hurley, alias George Hurley), charged on two counts of keeping a gambling bank. The indictments did not specify the place but fixed the dates as July 29 and 30. His bond was set to be $2,500.

wanted them to "stand by" in case their services should be needed.

The jury was called into session in early August, as the result of a Norfolk newspaper story with pictures relating a visit by two news reporters to night spots in Princess Anne County and Virginia Beach where open gambling was being conducted.

Judge Kellam, after receiving the report, praised the work of the jurymen. He said their work would long be remembered. Jury Foreman C. Edgar Winn said that special credit should go to Jurymen W. W. Connell, Jr. and J.C. Kincaid. This pair made several personal investigations which disclosed valuable evidence.

The indictments and bonds were late as follows:

F. D. "Spot" Ferguson, two counts of keeping a gambling room in the plush Surfcomber Restaurant's Pine Room on the North Virginia Beach ocean front. Bond for Ferguson, who police said has long been associated with club operations in the area, was fixed at $2,500.

Marr Expresses Full Cooperation

John E. Marr, who was chosen as the Democratic nominee for Sheriff of Princess Anne County in the July 19th primary election, said Wednesday that he read closely the findings of the grand jury in Princess Anne County.

Marr said: "I have read the findings of the grand jury of Princess Anne County and noted the need to bring about better law enforcement in the county. If I become sheriff of Princess Anne County on January 1 it will be my purpose to cooperate fully with other law enforcement agencies to see that all laws are properly enforced and to give every consideration to the recommendations contained in the grand jury report."

'Lost Weekend' in Store Unless Proper Precautions Are Taken

"Don't let the long weekend ahead become a 'lost weekend,'" was the advice this week of Dr. Mack L. Shanholts, State Commissioner of Health.

Cautioning Labor Day vacationers, Dr. Shanholts said that "with a little advance planning and a lot of caution, your Labor Day weekend can be a gain to you in health and relaxation rather than a loss in lives."

Some important health and safety rules for the September 3-5 holiday were listed by Dr. Shanholts to insure everyone a happy homecoming. His suggestions were:

1—Make sure the eating and sleeping places you patronize are clean and safe. Food poisoning can unexpectedly upset any vacation and the best prevention is to eat food, freshly cooked or canned food. Stay away from high protein foods unless you know they have been properly prepared, covered from flies, and refrigerated. All milk and water should be safe to drink and if there is any question whether the milk has been pasteurized and refrigerated or whether the water comes from approved sources, it is best to use bottled drinks while on the road.

2—Take something gradually. Increase the time of exposure to the sun each day. Too much exposure results in severe sunburn which requires the care of a physician. Cloudy and windy days can also cause much discomfort. Sunstroke or heat exhaustion can be avoided by covering the head and avoiding unnecessary heat, too much eating or drinking, and strenuous exercise.

3—Always have a companion when swimming, also when you are tired; watch for rocks, holes, and treacherous undertows, and walk after a meal before entering the water.

4—Take no chances in small boats. When fishing, watch that dangerous fishhook.

5—Exercise should be taken gradually. Not overdoing it, you will avoid aching muscles, turned ankles and heart attacks.

6—Carry with you an insect repellent to help relieve the annoyance of the various outdoor insects. Those who like to wander in the woods should watch for ticks, for these tiny insects are disease carriers and should be removed immediately.

7—Be aware of the various poison plants growing in the woods and along roadsides. Poison ivy, poison oak and poison sumac all cause intense skin irritation.

8—Carry a first aid kit and handbook with you on your vacation trip. With treatment of minor wounds and cuts, and frequently for other minor ailments, you can avoid a trip to the doctor.

First of the 1955 cars—this new Lincoln PREMIERE coupe is entirely new from the ground up. The unusually low silhouette of this new Lincoln series highlights a new kind of styling—large and spacious, yet lithe and graceful. Its overall length is 18½ feet, more than 7 inches longer and 3½ inches lower than 1955 Lincolns. Developing 285 horsepower, its new, low-friction V-8 engine has 9 to 1 compression ratio and delivers 401 ft.-lbs. of torque, assuring outstanding performance. Lincoln is first to introduce a group of safety features including retracted steering column and safety-flex steering wheel, triple-strength safety door locks and optional safety seat belts.

New Lincoln Will Make Debut In Dealers' Showrooms on 8th

The 1955 Lincoln—after more than three years of intensive styling, designing and engineering development—will make its debut in dealers' showrooms across the nation on September 8.

First of the 1955 models, the new Lincoln is described by divisional engineers as:

All new—engine, body and chassis.

Styled with a new, low silhouette which highlights its 18½ feet overall length.

More than 7 inches longer, 3½ inches lower and 2 inches wider than the 1955 Lincolns.

Powered by a new 286 hp V-8 engine of 360 cu. in. displacement and 9 to 1 compression ratio—the most powerful and durable engine Lincoln has built in its 32-year history.

Up 14 percent in performance from 0 to 80 mph.

First to introduce a group of regular equipment safety features designed to help protect both driver and passengers—a safety-flex steering wheel, safety door locks, safety mirror, non-reflecting instrument panel and seat belts (as optional equipment).

Available in two series: the Lincoln Capri and the more luxurious Lincoln Premiere.

The only COMPLETELY new car in the fine car field.

Lincoln-Mercury dealers from all parts of the country who previewed the 1955 Lincoln at a national meeting in Detroit last month have flooded the new Lincoln Division with orders for the new cars.

NEW PREMIERE SERIES

"Despite its much greater size, the 1955 Lincoln still is a driver's car with high torque power and greatly increased performance available at all driving speeds," Ben D. Mills, vice president of Ford Motor Company and general manager of the Lincoln Division, declared. "While we have improved the ride, we have not lost Lincoln's famous handling characteristics."

Lincoln for 1955 includes five models in the two series. The wheelbase has been increased from 120 to 126 inches and the overall length from 218.6 inches to 223.8 inches. So low that the average person can look down on the top, the new Lincoln is only 60½ inches in height.

It is in the entirely new styling that Lincoln's new look is most apparent. Lithe and graceful in appearance, its sharply angled headlamps blend into the hood and horizontally textured grille like the styling of the experimental Lincoln Futura. Parking lights and turn indicators are housed in the upper impact bar of the grille.

Along the sculptured side of the car, only a slender spear of chrome, low on the body, provides ornamentation. The word "Lincoln" on the front fenders and either "Premiere" or "Capri" on the rear fenders near the tail lights, provide the only other contrast to the classical, molded side.

By blending Lincoln's familiar tail lights with the unique jet-pod rear bumper guards (which double as exhaust outlets) the new Lincoln achieves a low, wide and ground-hugging look from the rear, heightened by the horizontal texture of the recessed deck area and massive rear impact bar.

SEVENTEEN SOLID COLORS

From behind the new safety-flex steering wheel, the driver notes that Lincoln's low, sloping hood, high fenderline and low-lying, sweep-around windshield achieve a new forward visibility which adds greatly to driving ease. The new windshield has more glass area than any other car in Lincoln's field. And through the large, curved rear window, the driver has full rearward vision and easily can see both rear fender ends as guides for parking.

The Capri series includes a four-door sedan, while the Premiere line includes a coupe, a four-door sedan and a convertible. A range of 17 exterior solid colors, 36 two-tone colors and 29 interior color and trim combinations provide the widest choice Lincoln has ever offered.

The interior luxury of the new Premiere series even surpasses that of the Capri. Only the finest grades of top-grain leather, hand-worked to softness, form the base for the 27 interior color combinations in the Premiere series. Fine leather bolsters contrast texturally with Lurex tweed seats touched with interwoven metallic threads.

Matelasse and broadcloth trim is found in the Capri series as well as combinations of argent-weave and several shades of chevron rayon.

The interior hardware of the new Lincoln is in the best of taste. The instrument panel includes a speedometer, clock, temperature and other gauges mounted directly in front of the driver in a hooded frame. A new feature is the mounting of power window lift control switches in the extension of the instrument panel convenient to the driver's left hand.

Lincoln's new "travel-tuner" radio has "down" and "country" switch bars which tune in either direction automatically. Front and rear speakers can be individually controlled and an electrically powered antenna can be raised or lowered from inside the car.

A completely new ventilation system increases by 50 percent the air taken into the car for ventilating, heating and defrosting. The Lincoln dual-control heater combines an underseat heater with a front compartment heater which can be operated separately to get the desired degree of warmth. And a new, improved air-conditioning system, delivering 13 percent more cooled air to passengers, is optional equipment.

FIVE SAFETY FEATURES

Lincoln this year has made both its new "in-line" power steering (performs 80 percent of the turning effort) and its improved, smooth turbo-drive automatic transmission, standard equipment on all cars.

Premiere models also have as standard equipment (optional on Capri models) a new four-way power seat which adjusts up, down, forward and back at the touch of a single control and power window lifts.

Lincoln's power brakes, an extra-cost option, are of a new fixed-anchor design which simplifies adjustment. The driver needs only to pivot his heel from gas pedal to the wide, low-level brake pedal for smooth stops. The effort required is cut almost in half when compared with regular brakes.

As the result of four years of research, including full-scale car crash tests on the Ford Motor Company's test track in Dearborn, the new Lincoln is the first to offer the following group of safety features:

A safety-flex steering wheel with 3½ inches of energy-absorbing "cushion" between its outer rim and the recessed top of the steering column; safety seat belts for both driver and passengers, anchored securely to the reinforced floor pan; new safety double-clip rotor type door locks which withstand three times normal impact in collisions; a textured-finish vinyl covering for instrument panels to reduce reflection and vinyl coating for rear-view mirrors to reduce shattering.

An improved "boulevard" ride has been achieved in the 1955 Lincoln through a new chassis, including a new frame, 13 inches longer and three inches wider than last year's and an improved suspension system which still retains Lincoln's fine handling characteristics under all road conditions.

Friends School Faculty Will Attend Parley

The annual conference on Friends Education will be held at Pendle Hill, Friends School for graduate study near Wallingford, Penn., this year September 4 to 8. Members of the Virginia Beach Friends School faculty attending are Mrs. Anne Lippincott, kindergarten teacher; Mrs. Anna Belle Croonenberghs, first grade teacher; David Price, second grade teacher; and Mrs. Louise Wilson, member of the school committee.

The program planned for this year promises to be one of rare opportunity. Workshops and informal discussions have their place in the program as well as many fine talks. The conference opens on Tuesday, September 4 with the first address, "History

An improved "boulevard" ride has been achieved in the 1955 Lincoln through a new chassis, including a new frame, 13 inches longer and three inches wider than last year's and an improved suspension system which still retains Lincoln's fine handling characteristics under all road conditions.

Lincoln's new "travel-tuner" radio has "down" and "country" switch bars which tune in either direction automatically. Front and rear speakers can be individually controlled and an electrically powered antenna can be raised or lowered from inside the car.

A completely new ventilation system increases by 50 percent the air taken into the car for ventilating, heating and defrosting. The Lincoln dual-control heater combines an underseat heater with a front compartment heater which can be operated separately to get the desired degree of warmth. And a new, improved air-conditioning system, delivering 13 percent more cooled air to passengers, is optional equipment.

FIVE SAFETY FEATURES

Lincoln this year has made both its new "in-line" power steering (performs 80 percent of the turning effort) and its improved, smooth turbo-drive automatic transmission, standard equipment on all cars.

Premiere models also have as standard equipment (optional on Capri models) a new four-way power seat which adjusts up, down, forward and back at the touch of a single control and power window lifts.

Lincoln's power brakes, an extra-cost option, are of a new fixed-anchor design which simplifies adjustment. The driver needs only to pivot his heel from gas pedal to the wide, low-level brake pedal for smooth stops. The effort required is cut almost in half when compared with regular brakes.

As the result of four years of research, including full-scale car crash tests on the Ford Motor Company's test track in Dearborn, the new Lincoln is the first to offer the following group of safety features:

Robertson Asks 'Liberal' View in Hardship Cases

A request for "liberal" dealing with draft hardship cases on Virginia family farms has been made by Senator Robertson (D-Va.).

"I see no good and sufficient reason to hold in active duty for two years a boy who is urgently needed on his father's farm," and Testimonies of the Society of Friends," given by Henry J. Cadbury, chairman, American Friends Service Committee, and an authority on the New Testament. On Wednesday the schedule will include "Friends Worship," by Rachel R. Cadbury; "Organization and Procedures of the Society of Friends," Thomas S. Brown, Westtown School, and followed in the evening by "The Spiritual Message of the Society of Friends," by Howard H. Brinton, Director, American Friends Service Committee, Pendle Hill, and recently returned from China.

Thursday, the final day of the conference, the schedule will include "The Quaker Approach in the Classroom," by Moderator E. W. Johnson, principal of Junior High School, Germantown Friends School; "Implications of Friends Principles for Education," Burton F. Fowler, principal emeritus of the Germantown Friends School, and group discussions based on panel discussion, elementary and secondary levels.

The Virginia Beach Friends School will open September 19, with kindergarten, first and second grades. School will be held in the Meeting House, now under construction on Laskin Road.

Robertson said. In a letter written to Secretary of the Army Brucker, the Senator said he was familiar with the problem of making ends meet on family farms in Virginia and that he is sure the same problem exists nationally.

"I write to express the hope," Robertson said, "that you will be willing to instruct your camp commanders to deal liberally with the hardship discharge applications of draftees who are urgently needed on their father's farms."

"As you of course know, the hands of the draft boards with respect to the deferment of boys to do farm work are tied by Section Service instructions issued at a time when there was urgent need for a large standing Army, and never since modified."

Robertson added that he realizes "that we have unmanageable farm surpluses and that our farmers are still producing above domestic needs."

"But the average farm in Virginia," he said, "is less than 100 acres in size, is not fully mechanized, and the owners of such farms can only make both ends meet when the necessary farm work can be done by themselves and their children."

The Senator said that "in addition to the fact that, with the exception of the Air Force, military personnel is being substantially reduced, we now have a Reserve Training Act under which all men now drafted will have to continue reserve training whether they stay on active duty for full period of two years or not."

"Therefore, I see no good and sufficient reason to hold in active duty for two years a boy who is urgently needed on his father's farm."

Recent pay raises are a sign of increased purchasing power—and also a sure sign of increasing prices.

SHOULD NOT BE FORCED

Back in 1953 the City of Virginia Beach attempted to annex that area to the north of the city limits known as North Virginia Beach. At that time the merits of the case were heard by a three judge tribunal and the suit was dismissed by the special annexation court.

The 1953 annexation attempt by the City of Virginia Beach was vigorously opposed by leading citizens of the area proposed to be annexed. These citizens, by and large, expressed the desire to remain a part of Princess Anne County and did not want to be a part of Virginia Beach. The court, no doubt, was impressed by this desire on the part of these people, although that was not the only factor considered in the 1953 case.

The following year after the city had made an attempt to annex North Virginia Beach taxes in the county were substantially raised and this began a move by many of the same residents of the area who opposed annexation in 1953 to ignite a movement to petition the city to annex the area. A special three judge tribunal last week dismissed the case without hearing the merits holding that the case two years ago was heard and ruled on at that time and that nothing had changed the situation in the past two years. The court actually dismissed the case on a point of law involving a five year period passing before the same area's annexation plea could be heard.

The Norfolk Virginian-Pilot pointed out in an editorial the past Monday that the area proposed for annexation is a contiguous and compact subdivision of the Virginia Beach area. The editorial suggested that the case be heard by the Supreme Court stating that that court had, in the past, shown wise judgment in annexation cases in brushing aside technicalities of the law in order to do substantial justice in this field. The Virginian-Pilot editorial further stated that "where two Virginia communities are living happily side by side and want to be joined, the law should give its blessing."

We quite agree with the Virginian-Pilot in that when two Virginia communities are living side by side and want to be joined, they should be allowed to do so. In the case of North Virginia Beach signatures of 51 per cent of the voters in the affected area were obtained to bring about the second annexation hearing for the area within the past two years. The court, however, took the view, no doubt, that the vigorous objections by these same people two years ago certainly could not be overlooked.

The Sun-News believes that the proposed annexation of a part of Princess Anne County by the City of Norfolk should also come under the same line of reasoning the Virginian-Pilot has pinpointed. That is, the views of the people in the affected area in the Norfolk case should be considered and that view, we feel sure, would be that they want to remain a part of Princess Anne County.

The Sun-News further believes that if the question of annexation of this part of Princess Anne County were put to a vote of the people of the City of Norfolk those people would vote overwhelmingly against annexation of this territory by the City. As the Virginian-Pilot said: "where the areas want to be joined, the law should give its blessing." By the same token when the areas do NOT want to be joined they should not be forced into such a union.

VACATION or NIGHTMARE?

Ever think of Labor Day Weekend as a nightmare?

Probably nobody does—just this side of it. Beforehand, for most of us, it has all the appearances of a vacation oasis, a much anticipated break from the everyday grind.

Whether in terms of a family outing, a fishing trip or any number of holiday activities, you no doubt look to this Labor Day Weekend as a time for fun. And quite naturally you want to pack as much fun into the weekend as possible.

It's a brutal fact, but that thought was shared by many of the people who now make up the fatal accident statistics of last year's Labor Day.

It's another brutal fact that some of you—this very weekend—will have your rosy vacation plans turned into a grisly nightmare by highway accidents and death.

Hard to believe? Of course, no one in his right mind takes to the road planning on killing himself and others. But the killing happens. It happened the start of this summer when the highway toll for the nation reached an all-time high in Memorial Day fatalities.

No, you of course can't include accidents and death in your vacation plans. But you can—and should count on safety precautions.

Drive when you are rested and clear-headed. Govern your speed according to weather, traffic and highway conditions. Strictly observe traffic regulations and courtesy. See to it that your car is mechanically safe.

This advice is nothing you haven't heard before. But it is something that—if you heed—could prevent your Labor Day Weekend from turning into a bad

James A. Johnson, Jr., principal of Virginia Beach High School, has announced that the instruction staff of the school has been completed and that all is in readiness for the opening of school on September 9.

Students are to check these for home room assignments, and the doors will be open for students to go to their home rooms at 9 o'clock. School will be out at 12 o'clock noon on the first two days. Buses will run on the same schedule that was in effect when school closed in June.

Wonder how many people still think there are people like they see in the movies or on television. There are no such!

dream you and your loved ones won't wake up from!

You're going to have a lot of company on the highway this weekend. If you stop and think—you'll "Slow Down and Live."

JOB WELL DONE

The seven-man grand jury which handed its report of findings to Circuit Court Judge Floyd E. Kellam late Tuesday night showed in that report a comprehensive study of gambling and whisky selling activity and, in our opinion, the report reflected much credit on this body of businessmen who pursued their duties with care and deliberation. The report indicated that the grand jury made a thorough investigation of the matters before them and the indictments handed down were done after careful examination of the evidence.

At the very outset of the investigation the Sun-News stated that if any public officials were found derelict in their duties they should be removed from office immediately. The report revealed that while some law enforcement officials might not have been as diligent in the performance of their duties as they should have been the jury found no evidence to justify recommending the removal of any official.

The grand jury, we feel, has done a splendid job and the members of this body are to be commended. The jury composed of C. Edgar Winn, who served as foreman, W. W. Connell, Jr., J. C. Kincaid, George C. Lyon, Kater L. Murden, O. H. Buyn and L. H. Brinkley deserve the thanks of all of the people of Princess Anne County and Virginia Beach.

In order that the work of this grand jury may be effective it is now up to the citizens and the public to refrain from patronizing any activity that violates the laws of this State, county and city. Without patronage these activities would never come into being and if an attempt is made to establish such places in the future the quickest and surest way to eliminate them is for police officials to be alert and the general public to refrain from participating in the unlawful operation.

Celebration at EOY Friday Nite

Culminating a celebration of several weeks, the East Ocean View and Little Creek Fire Department is having a sale affair tomorrow night, Friday, September 2.

Spice of the celebration is the Fire Department building at 19th Street and Shore Drive. The street will provide the dance arena and dancing will be the order of the evening. In addition, a huge flat fry is planned and the boat contest will be decided.

A big turnout is expected.

Fireworks Sunday At Seaside Park

The management of Seaside Park, in announcing the closing of the popular place of amusement for the 1954 season after the Labor Day weekend, promises one of the biggest displays of fireworks ever seen in Tidewater on the night of Sunday, September 4.

With fair skies predicted, the park and picnic areas are expected to be thronged, and many will take advantage of the free admission to the catchily music of Al DeHannis and his orchestra.

The park has enjoyed a good season, it is reported, with many new rides and improved facilities for young and old alike.

PET PEEVE

I can remember way back when the coffee club members joked about it when science predicted development of a bomb that would wreck havoc and destruction the likes of which the world had never seen. Boy, what these guys would make good on next, we had one on each other. Then, along came the bomb. We began to follow reports of each new explosion with increasing credulity and no more joking. You have to get dead serious about something that might well blast you right off the face of the earth.

Now science, which has long envisaged space travel and man-made satellites floating along in outer space, predicts such things are waiting for us around the next bend in the road of scientific progress. We're picked up on a junket to the moon and tobacco laughing. You might smother when a guy sets down to play, but when he opens up with Chopin and Beethoven, you have to stop mauling and listen. Science has made good on so many of its earlier predictions a smart operator could undertake a gobsy business selling tickets right now for the first pleasure cruise into the sky.

While I am far from progress in most any form, I sincerely hope that the conquest of outer space does not come before we are ready for it—and we are not ready for it now. Mankind has shown a pitiful inadequacy when it comes to living in peace and harmony. If there is life on other planets, then we're picked up on a small neighborhood in the cosmos. If we can't get along with out fighting continually among ourselves, why go out looking for trouble somewhere else—where the guys are probably bigger and fiercer than we are?

Practice Rounds for U.S. Amateur Golf Tourney Begin on Thursday

Practice rounds for the 56th U.S. amateur golf championship are scheduled at Richmond September 4-11 at the James River golf course of the Country Club of Virginia.

The championship proper will be played at James River on September 12-17 with each 18-hole round each of the first two days. Two 18-hole rounds are scheduled on Wednesday and Thursday, the 14th and 15th. The semi-finals September 16 and the finals are 36 holes each.

Those persons planning to witness the practice rounds will be welcome to the club. They sell for $10. Single day tickets for championship play Monday through Thursday are $2.50 for each day. Admission for the semi-finals is $5 and for the championship finals is $10.

In order to provide comfort for the spectators expected to throng the course, there is a virtual tent city on the James River course. Four tents, 40 by 60 feet, and seven tents, 20 by 30 feet, are being erected for each day. Players' lounges, press, first aid and other uses.

Foundations for the tents have been erected. The tents will be moved to the site and erected early next week. Snack bars and outdoor dining have been placed at several locations on the course.

Six Are Held For County Breakins

A minor wave of house and business break-ins in Princess Anne County has resulted in the arrest of four boys and two men this week according to the county police department.

Those arrested were identified by investigator R. B. Nowitsky as Scattergood Kearny, Negro, of Seaback, and William Blake, 24, of Little Neck Road. Kearny has been charged with contributing to the delinquency of a minor. Blake has been charged for contributing to the delinquency of a minor and possession of stolen property.

Two of the boys are aged 15, one 14, and one is 17. The latter two are negroes. One of the break-ins occurred at the Seaback Service Station—one of the four break-ins charged to the Nero boys—have been recovered.

of directors of the North Virginia Beach Improvement League, which sponsored the petition to be annexed.

The dislodge motion had been filed last December by William L. Parker, of Norfolk, and Commonwealth's Attorney Paul W. Adkins, representing Princess Anne County.

The attorneys argued that under the State annexation laws the courts are prohibited from considering expansion moves for five years after the last move by a city to take in territory from the same county.

The unanimous decision by the special court sitting at Princess Anne Courthouse, was considered a deterrent in taking the matter to the Supreme Court of Appeals.

and other agencies have a tremendous task to perform before the disaster sufferers will be able to return to a normal way of life.

Meanwhile, Val Peterson, national head of the Civil Defense Administration, appealed to Americans to give "as much as they can to the Red Cross." He said that those beyond the reach of governmental help "have one thought, one hope—the Red Cross" which is helping those who cannot help themselves.

President Eisenhower again urged the public to contribute to the flood relief fund, stating, "Frankly, I feel we should not wait for the National Red Cross, our agents in such affairs, to appeal to us for help. I believe we should seize the opportunity to give to them, to force upon them, more than they can use."

night spots in the City of Virginia Beach where they witnessed bawdy shows and purchased liquor by the drink, and observed gambling.

The Court is familiar with the discovery by two members of the Grand Jury of gambling parlor in the Fine Room, which is off of the Surfcomber Room adjoining the Surf Beach Club on the afternoon of Tuesday, August 10th, while searching for records of the club. According to a news story which appeared in the Norfolk Ledger-Dispatch on August 3rd, a police officer had been stationed at the Surfcomber Room since shortly before 9:00 a.m. August 3rd, and this news report further related that the Chief of Police of Princess Anne County said that a search of the Fine Room, the overhead space, and other club areas did not reveal any gambling paraphernalia.

This caused us to believe the removal of the gambling equipment followed closely the appearance of the first copy of the Virginian-Pilot on the streets the morning of August 3rd. It seemed more than passing strange that trained police officers were unable to locate this valuable equipment, yet untrained laymen discovered it with little effort.

Gambling equipment was also discovered at the Hickory House at Piney Point the same night. The next afternoon five men were caught in the act of taking bets and were arrested at a building on the Military Highway in Princess Anne County by Special Investigator Riley, who was accompanied by two members of the Grand Jury.

We have also investigated the status of the two county police officers at the main entrance of the Surf Club, on the nights of July 29th or 30th. These officers were apparently off duty at the time.

The members of this Grand Jury feel that open gambling, illegal sale of liquor, and other vices have stigmatized this area entirely too long and must be permanently eradicated. These conditions could not exist with the present kind of law enforcement. While we do not feel that our criticism should extend to the police forces and members of the Sheriff's Department in their entirety, as undoubtedly there are some very conscientious officers among their ranks, we do feel, however, that if the City of Virginia Beach and Princess Anne County are to be cleaned up and kept clean, it will be necessary to employ only men of unquestioned integrity with ability and determination to see that the laws of this Commonwealth are strictly enforced.

We recommend that a complete survey of our law enforcement agencies be made by qualified experts in their field, for the purpose of reorganizing these agencies on an efficient and effective basis. While we are not experts in the law enforcement profession, we feel that such a survey should consider the following factors:

1. Establishment of a plan for the fullest cooperation possible between the Sheriff's Office, the Police Department of Princess Anne County and City of Virginia Beach and the State ABC agents in the enforcement of criminal laws;

2. The replacement of incompetent officers;

3. A study of salary scales and necessary adjustments to attract qualified personnel;

4. The establishment of a vice squad including "plain clothesmen" to be well trained in investigative techniques required to uncover and develop evidence of the vices which have plagued our county.

We also recommend that the Board of Supervisors of Princess Anne County and the City Council of Virginia Beach, be requested to appropriate funds in an amount sufficient to adequately finance the services of private investigators to secure admissible evidence necessary to indict and prosecute future cases of this nature. This in our opinion, appears to be the best way to secure evidence which will stand up in a court of law.

We believe that with intelligent and vigorous law enforcement the evils which have plagued Princess Anne County and Virginia Beach can and will be permanently eradicated.

Respectfully submitted,

DUKW COMPANIES ON WEEKEND ALERT

Three Dukw companies of Ft. Story's 10th Transportation Battalion were on weekend alert for possible overland shore to the flood-ravaged areas of Stroudsburg and Allentown, Pa. Ready to move on instant notice, they were to transport about 65 amphibious trucks for use in rescue work and evacuation, with battalion headquarters troops accompanying them. The three companies and their CO's were: the 34th, 1st Lt. Jack J. Schwartz; the 37th, 1st Lt. Robert A. Kiser; and the 40th, 1st Lt. Vincent M. Russo.

POST GETS THOROUGH DRENCHING

Electrical storms and torrential rains sweeping Cape Henry in the wake of Hurricane Diane gave Story a thorough drenching yesterday, but the inundations posed no flood threat in the immediate vicinity of the post. More dramatic — and harder on the nerves of troops of Headquarters Company, 3rd Transportation Terminal Command "B" — was a shattering lightning bolt that slammed into the company area before dawn, shearing off several feet of a telephone pole and narrowly missing surrounding barracks in which men were still in bed. In bed, but certainly not asleep!

MOSQUITOES ON RAMPAGE AFTER STORM

The heavy rains, however, did step up Story's mosquito control program as the pests multiplied in the pervasive moisture. While nearby Norfolk and other communities battled the pests, described by one official as "just about as bad as I've ever seen it," the post-wide twice-weekly spraying became a daily operation. M/Sgt. Norman E. Zlatav, Post Sanitation NCO, accelerated his testing with mosquito traps to keep tabs on species invading or breeding on the post. Story's most likely breeding ground, the gloomy Cypress Swamp, has little or no nuisance value because of the system of oil-rim canals that ring its boundaries.

RESERVIST TRAINING ACTIVITY AT END

Story's Reservist training activity for 1955 officially ended with a retreat review on the post parade ground at which Col. George E. Woods, Jr., post commander, congratulated officers and men of the 375th Transportation Terminal Command "B" and attached units on their performance in summer camp. He also asked them with tongue in cheek to please refrain next year from bringing hurricanes with them. The 375th commander, Col. Henry E. Toews, joined Colonel Woods in reviewing the troops who marched to music by the 24th Army Band from Fort Basile.

THREE GET SUGGESTION AWARDS

Three more participants in Fort Story's Suggestion Awards program — two military and one civilian — have been thanked by Col. George E. Woods, Jr., while also accepting from him letters of appreciation and a monetary award. Letter went to Miss Grace O. Tritton of the Post Signal Section for her proposal to improve processing of toll tickets. M/Sgt. Ray A. Fullerton, Post Engineer NCO, was cited for his idea of using restraining rods, and 2nd Lt. Larry F. Thompson of the Post Engineer Section for establishing a filing system that saves both man hours and money.

OVER-THE-SHORE EXERCISE TO BEGIN

Big-scale operational activity will have Story beaches and cargo areas humming in the first half of September as logistical Over-the-Shore Exercise No. 5 is played off. The 370th Terminal Service Company, a unit of Story's 375th T Battalion, is sending 150 troops to the 3d Port area at Port Basile for the first phase of the exercise which begins today and continues thru the 16th. When the Far Shore phase opens at Story on the 6th, over 900 troops from Basile will join units of the 10th and 375th Battalions in round-the-clock amphibious and cargo-handling shifts. Col. George E. Woods, Jr., is Far Shore Commander.

WORK SIMPLIFICATION CLASS ENDS

Another class in Work Simplification methods, conducted by Story's Management Office, ends with certificates of course completion going to the honor student, 2d Lt. Harry E. Schlafman of the 8-4 Section, and to the following: Robert E. Parker and 2d Lt. Joseph L. Baker, both of Post Ordnance; Col. Donald B. Baker, Post Special Services; Sgt. Gerard J. Curran and Pvt. Delyle Isahau, both of the Chaplain's Office, and Pfc William J. Kidoguchi of Management. Mrs. Margaret H. Trivinger, also of Management, received her instructor's certificate.

PUBLIC FISHING PONDS ESCAPE STORMS' WRATH

According to G. W. Buller, chief of the Fish Division of the Commission of Game and Inland Fisheries, notwithstanding the great damage done by hurricanes Connie and Diane to many fish ponds, in the state, none of the ponds constructed by the Commission for public fishing has been to any major degree adversely affected by the recent hurricanes.

Thomas Moore Here Sept. 8th

The Virginia State Division of War Veterans' Claims announces that the regular inventory will be conducted here on September 8th by the office of Fort Thomas A. Moore, the area director in Tidewater, including Princess Anne County, Accomac County, Northampton County and Norfolk and South Norfolk. The Division has assisted their clients here for several years regularly, on a schedule that is pronounced each month. The Division operates under Attorney General J. Lindsay Almond Jr. Moore visits the Community Room between 11:00 A.M. and 2:00 P.M. on the second and fourth Thursdays in each month. His next trip to the Community Room at Arctic Ave. and 19th St. will be on September 8th.

Veterans and their dependents or survivors may personally file claims, Government forms, and evidence relative to their legal benefits, and can procure advice and aid in their veterans' problems by contacting Moore there, or in his Norfolk office in the Old Telephone Building at 408 Phone Street.

G.I. training, disability and death compensations and pensions, Government insurance, State bonuses, service pay arrears, loan problems under the G. I. bill, burial benefits, and prisoner-of-war benefits are among the many, varied hundreds of applications that Moore can file, develop, and trace. This trained service is free and gladly rendered to all claimants, and personal representation is arranged if necessary before the applicable various adjudication Boards involved.

Dismal Swamp Locks Re-opened

Effective 1 August 1955 the District Engineer announced that in the interest of conserving water supply from Lake Drummond the Dismal Swamp Canal locks at Deep Creek, Virginia, and South Mills, North Carolina, would be operated on a curtailed schedule of four lockings daily, viz.: 8 A.M., 12 Noon, 4 P.M. and 9 P.M.

The purpose of this notice is to announce that effective immediately the curtailment on use of the Dismal Swamp Canal locks will be lifted until further notice. Accordingly pursuant to schedule established 31 March 1950 the locks and bridges on the Dismal Swamp Canal at Deep Creek, Virginia, and South Mills, North Carolina, will be opened daily as the needs of vessel traffic demand between 6 A.M. and 10 P.M. This lifting of restricted usage of the canal is primarily in the interest of facilitating the fall migration of pleasure craft southward.

MORE STORY MEN ON ALL-STAR TEAM

Two more Fort Story baseball players have been picked to join the Fort Basile all-star team in its bid for the second Army championship at Port Lee. First baseman James Key and pitcher Norm Chandler join Story teammates Jimmy Pace and Bob Whittecher, who were named to the squad earlier.

HEADQUARTERS CO. TAKES SOFTBALL TITLE

The American Division of the Fort Story Intramural Softball League has crowned its scheduled season with Headquarters Company, 4th Transportation Terminal Command, B coping first place. The Headquarters squad, with a 3-2 record, won the second-half championship to its first half title, eliminating the need of a play-off series in the American Division. The team finished with an over-all 12-1 record.

NATIONAL DIVISION HAS TIGHT RACE

In the National Division, the race has boiled down to a battle between the 461st Dukw Company, first half champs, and the Navy Harbor Entrance Control Base, present leaders. If the HECB squad captures the second half championship it will play the 461st in a three-game play-off series, the winner meeting Headquarters Company, 5th TTB in a five-game set to decide the post championship.

First Native U.S. Golf Champion Born in Chicago

America had a native of St. Andrews, Scotland, as its U. S. amateur golf champion in 1949. In Chicago, Ill., the late 1949 became president of the United States Golf Association.

Walker J. Travis, three-time champion (1900, 1901 and 1903) was born in Australia. He did not take up golf until he was 36 years old and living in this country.

The 56th U. S. amateur will be played in Richmond September 12-17 at the James River course, Country Club of Virginia.

BASKETBALL SQUAD TAKES TO BOARDS

Intramural basketball will be revived this year with each company on the post — 19 in all — entering a team in hopes of coping one of the most coveted of the intramural program trophies. Returning to defend the title they won last season will be the 461st Dukw Company's "Barraudas," who will renew their hot rivalry with last year's chief threat, the Headquarters Company, 5th TTB. Both face keen competition from the rest of the league, which promises to field a vastly improved array of teams.

MYRDEK TO CAPTAIN

The Cape Henry post's Assistant Provost Marshal, Capt. John F. Myrdek, will captain the post CB squad captures the second half championship it will compete in the Navy Major Interservice Bowling League this winter. The squad — studied wit h several of last year's stalwarts — will soon begin practicing for the season's opening in October.

Wildlife Exhibit Planned for Fair

Replica of an old mill, with games operating and a stocked fish pond, is planned for the exhibit of the Chesapeake Bay Exposition — the State Fair of Virginia. Against this rustic background a number of native animals will add "glitchees" and appeal to the display in the new shuntum building for Commonwealth of Virginia exhibits during the fair, September 23-October 1. There will be a bear cub, two fawns, a skunk, groundhog, raccoon and various kinds of snakes and turtles.

The exhibit has been planned and will be set up under the direction of William C. Kellner, assistant chief, Education Division, with the assistance of Special Services Officers Max Carpenter, Joe Coggins and Danny Canter. Game wardens, conservation officers and Educational Division staff members will be on hand to answer questions and explain the programs of the Commission to visitors.

The human heart pumps every day about 3000 gallons of blood through thousands of miles of blood vessels in the body, states Robert Wallace in a Readers Digest article.

Famous Test Driver Gives Rules For Being Around September 6

If you expect to drive in the heavy traffic expected during the coming Labor Day weekend, it may pay you to look over the "Big Ten" safety rules outlined by Danny Eames, noted chief test driver for Dodge Division, Chrysler Corporation.

1—Traffic regulations are for your protection. Observe them.
2—Keep a safe distance between yourself and the car ahead, particularly at higher speeds.
3—Stay in your own lane on hills, curves, and in "no-passing" zones.

4—If driving at night, dim your lights to oncoming traffic.
5—The right-of-way may belong to you, but if a pedestrian comes along, give it to him. (And that doesn't mean "Let him have it!")

6—ALWAYS be on the alert for children.
7—Know the proper hand or direction signals and be sure to use them.
8—Watch where you're going and where the cars behind, ahead, and on both sides are going.

9—Give the other fellow MORE than his share of the road, and WATCH HIM!
10—Regulate speed to road conditions, rather than posted speed limits. These signs are for "normal" conditions. You can't think of ten things at once, but try to keep Danny Eames' "Big Ten" tips in the back of your mind when you drive this weekend. If you do, you'll be sure to get back to your labors on Tuesday, September 6th.

"Pennypacker" Closes Summer Stock Season

Closing out the season of professional summer stock at Theatre-Go-Round this week is "The Remarkable Mr. Pennypacker," a hit comedy which ran for two full years on Broadway. The play opened at the Virginia Beach show tent Tuesday and will run through the night of September 5, Labor Day.

John Glenon and Maria Corbett portray the Wilmington Pennypackers, the roles originally taken on Broadway by Burgess Meredith and Martha Scott. John and Maria will be remembered locally for their portrayals of two sane psychiatric patients in "Oh Men! Oh Women!"

Pennypacker is a seemingly respectable business man who maintains separate residences, complete with families, in Philadelphia and Wilmington. When his secret is discovered by the Wilmington branch, he finds himself in something of a spot.

The play is directed by Romeo Muller and staged by Jamil Zakkai. Tickets may be picked up at the box office at 87th and Atlantic, or reserved by phone by calling Virginia Beach 3730. Curtain time is 8:40 nightly.

The average size American home uses about 10,500 board feet of lumber, the annual growth on only 15 acres of Douglas fir region forest lands.

Vest Will Open Music Studio

Announcement is made of the opening of the music studio of J. Harold Vest, minister of music at the Virginia Beach Methodist Church. Instruction will be offered in piano, organ and voice to all ages, beginners and advanced students.

It is of interest to note that Mr. Vest will be available to church musicians, both organists and vocalists, who are desirous of further study, with particular emphasis placed on church music.

Observers say there has been a need, more particularly in the rural churches, for organ instruction for pianists upon the installation of organs in their churches. Mr. Vest has had extensive training and experience and has specialized in all phases of church music. Choral conducting will also be offered to those interested.

The studio is located at the Virginia Beach Methodist Church, 16th Street, near Atlantic Avenue.

Women of Moose Meeting Tonight

The Women of the Moose, Virginia Beach Chapter No. 1331, will celebrate Publicity Chapter Night tonight at the Moose Lodge on 17th Street, extended.

The newly-elected Senior Regent, Doris Parrish, will preside at the meeting to initiate new candidates, and all co-workers are urged to attend. Several matters of importance will be discussed. Refreshments will be served.

Why are ladies impressed with other people, other clothes, and other women's husbands?

Bayside Church Setting For Mason - Hampton Nuptials

The Haygood Memorial Church, Bayside, was the setting Friday evening at seven o'clock for the marriage of Miss Rose Marie Hampton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Forrest Gilbert Hampton, of Chesapeake Beach, to Thomas Carroll Mason, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Carroll Mason, of London Bridge.

The double-ring ceremony was performed by the Rev. Lee Roy Brown in a setting of palms, ferns, white flowers and lighted cathedral candles. Mrs. H. W. Newcome being the wedding music, and Miss Betty Landers sang "I Love You Truly," "O Perfect Love" and "The Lord's Prayer."

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of old ivory satin fashioned with a long line, pointed panel bodice of satin covered with Chantilly-type lace and pleated netting. The bodice was accented to the points in the back and in the front with covered buttons. The sleeves tapered to points over the wrists, and the panels of satin and scalloped lace over satin formed the skirt and a flowing train. Her double veil of illusion fell from a crown of satin embroidered with seed pearls, and she carried a white Bible topped with a white, purple-throated orchid and adorned with stephanotis.

Miss Betty Faison of Chesapeake Beach was maid of honor. She wore a ballerina-length gown of orchid eyelet embroidered orchid over tulle, styled with a scalloped neckline, abbreviated sleeves, and a gathered skirt. She wore a matching bandeau and carried a nosegay of mixed flowers.

Bridesmaids were Miss Patricia Martin of Kempville, Miss Julian Meyerhoffer of Chesapeake Beach and Miss Jean Padon of Oceana. They wore green, pink and yellow gowns and bandeaus styled identically like that of the honor attendant, with lace mitts and single strands of pearls and carried nosegays of mixed flowers.

William Hughes of London Bridge was best man and groomsmen were James Loftin, III, John Parker of Franklin and Alan Marshburn of Norfolk.

The mother of the bride wore a dress of mauve pink Chantilly lace and chiffon styled with a bodice of lace over tulle, a sweetheart neckline, three-quarter length sleeves, and a softly draped chiffon skirt with an over-panel, pink accessories and an orchid corsage.

The mother of the bridegroom wore a dress of turquoise Chantilly lace over tulle with a bodice featuring a sweetheart neckline, a dropped waistline and a gathered skirt, white accessories and an orchid corsage.

After the ceremony, a reception was held at the Chesapeake Beach Community Center, and the couple left for a wedding trip to the Skyline Drive. Upon their return they will live on Wise Drive, in Chesapeake Beach. For traveling the bride wore an orchid-colored linen suit styled with a straight skirt and fitted jacket, white accessories and a white orchid corsage.

ONE IN HAWAII AT HOME

"BACKYARD LUANA"

Don't despair because the Hawaii family exchequer excludes Luau. With a little kitchen ingenuity, a few extra spices, a bit of cooperation from the weatherman, and a "soupcon" of romantic imagination, you can transport your family and your summer supper guests to a moonlit beach on Waikiki—without the benefit of airplanes, the merchant marine or guerrilla warfare on the home entertainment budget. What's more, you can win a lasting reputation for yourself as a cordon bleu chef, specializing in round-the-world cookery and exotic atmosphere, in less time than it takes to say "Aloha!"

With such basic ingredients as broiled chicken, salad greens, a modest supply of domestic and tropical fruits, a covey of water chestnuts (procureable at any Chinese restaurant if you can't find them at your grocer's) and the biggest watermelon at the market, you can concoct a Hawaiian Luau (buffet, to you) on your porch, patio, front lawn, backyard or on the beach. Furthermore, your guests will be fascinated to watch you create an exotic setting right in front of their eyes as they sip their appetizers—cooling liquids to set them in the right frame of mind. To carry out the Hawaiian motif, set your buffet on a wrought-iron glass-top table to suggest the shores of the Pacific—and if you haven't such a table, create one suggestive of the sea with aluminum foil spread on a pair of bridge tables set together or a piece of plate glass or mirror if feasible.

"Float" a few scarlet poiels from the five and dime store or your "ocean" as well as some large philodendron leaves. The latter can serve as bases for candles, and holders for mints, nuts or potato chips. Transfer all necessary food and equipment (prepared that morning) to the scene of your outdoor fiesta, via Junior's wheelbarrow or your trolley cart which the children can decorate with greens and leaves, again courtesy of Mr. Rose, or the family.

Directors of the show made the announcement as they prepared plans for the huge display to be held in Richmond's Parker Field Arena November 1-4.

More than 200 exhibitors, clubs and civic organizations are expected to take part in the show that will cover more than an acre and a half, according to Henry S. Bradley, director.

In addition to hundreds of hobby and home workshop demonstrations, there will be entertainment featuring prominent acts during the show.

The show will appeal to hobbyists of all sorts and to those interested in home improvements, servicing home appliances, building furniture, recreational equipment and power tools of every description.

A good idea for a shower curtain uses two full length curtains on rings or hoops to be placed on the rod around the top surrounding the tub. When not used, pull the curtains to the sides as for a window. When in use, pull together as a shower curtain.

It's best to iron embroidery work on a Turkish towel on the wrong side. This will make the embroidered portions stand out well against the material.

Fold your towels for the bathroom in the way you want them to hang and thus save time when you change towels, putting out fresh ones.

If lint sticks to dark wool, wrap some cellophane tape about your finger, stick side out, and slide lightly over the material to pick up the lint easily and quickly. This is especially good when

GARDEN GUIDE

SHENANDOAH NATIONAL PARK

The Shenandoah National Park is a glorious complement to the State of Virginia. It gives the tourist a grand impression of our beautiful state and presents a fine area for us to see and enjoy the virgin flora and fauna of the Blue Ridge. A trip to Shenandoah will reward you with the opportunity of seeing plant materials that are common to the far northern areas of the country.

According to the National Park Service, the park of nearly 194,000 acres is 85% forest area, while the remainder is meadowland and predominant trees are oaks of several different varieties, maples, gums, hickories and locusts. In addition, there are walnuts, lindens, chestnuts, sycamores, elms, tuliprees, birches, and flowering species such as dogwoods and red-buds. Many evergreen trees are to be found, among them are pines, red cedar, graceful Canadian hemlocks and the Christmas tree, balsam fir. The higher altitudes are heavily populated with the hemlocks. The timber frequently are over eighteen inches in diameter.

One of the most beautiful spectacles occurs in the park each year usually around October 10th to 20th when the deciduous trees turn color with the approach of fall. This is an unforgettable sight to see as the yellows, reds and oranges splash over the mountainsides and a sight that is not to be seen in all parts of the country.

Shrub Population

The shrub population is the most interesting to us, with its azaleas and rhododendrons, sumacs and dogwoods, the beautiful mountain laurel, Kalmia latifolia. Herbaceous plants nestle among the rocks and crags, along the creeks and streams and in every little soil pocket. The Park Service proudly boasts that violets.

It's difficult to brush the lint off.

Pewter will really take on beautiful luster if you wash it in warm soda and then polish with a soft cloth until it has a nice gleam.

Place a rubber floor mat in a hall closet to hold wet rubbers and boots together. You'll also prevent puddles on other floors or rugs while they dry out.

RECIPE OF THE WEEK

Little Genesee Police Victim Wins Sailors' Hearts in Fight for Life

A little Genesee police victim aboard the heavy cruiser USS Newport News nearly two years ago, scored a repeat performance this Sunday and won another round against the crippling disease.

The story of Adrienne Holbrook, Little Sister of the Newport

News, was first brought to the attention of the crew members while the ship was serving in the Mediterranean in 1953 as flagship of the Sixth Fleet.

Learning of the little girl's heroic struggle to walk again, and her father's earnest offer to sell one of his eyes to aid her, letters from the Newport News donated over $700 to help meet medical expenses. However, the prolonged treatments exhausted the fund.

In July, the "Newman" heard that their "little sister" was being her battle because of the lack of financial assistance. Word of Adrienne's plight spread throughout the ship, and within one week, a shipboard campaign netted one thousand dollars.

Adrienne (now walking with braces) may not yet know of her good fortune, but in a few days she will know that her "big brothers" from the Newport News still remember her as the "Little Sister with the Fighting Heart."

Williamsburg Church Board Meeting Site

The general board of the National Council of Churches of Christ in the U. S. A. will convene in nine different cities in the United States during the rest of the 1955-57 triennial of the Council. Among the cities to be selected is Williamsburg, Va. The date for this meeting is February 27-28, 1957. This meeting will be held in connection with the Jamestown celebration.

Dr. Eugene Carson Blake, president of the National Council of Churches, said that this new policy of meeting in different cities would enable church people of various parts of the country to gain first-hand acquaintance with the life and work of the cooperative agency that carries on most of its programs in behalf of its 30 constituent Protestant and Orthodox communions, which embrace 35,000,000 members of 142,742 local churches.

Hitherto, the General Board has held most of its business meetings in New York and Chicago.

Together with the larger General Assembly which meets every three years, the 250 member General Board makes all major policy decisions for the Council. It meets four times a year. The full schedule of meetings for the remainder of 1956 through 1957 follows:

1956—Pittsburgh, Pa., October 5-8, Omaha, Neb., November 30-December 1.

1956—New York City, February 1-3, Toledo, Ohio, June 6-7, Washington, D. C., September 26-27, Los Angeles, December 5-8.

1957—Williamsburg, Va., February 27-28, Chicago, May 1-3, New York City, October 2-3, St. Louis, Mo., November 30.

EVERYDAY RELIGION

HARD TO TAKE

Many people find religion hard to take because it cannot be "proved." How do we know, they ask, that God was in Christ reconciling the world? How do we know that only through Christ can men be saved? "Prove it to me," a man says, "and I will follow Him."

Our difficulty is that we have become obsessed with the methods of science, physical science. I mean. The only truth we are interested in is truth that can be "proved." The truth of Christian faith is a different kind of truth, however. It is a truth given thru revelation, not a truth proved by human minds.

The very first truth of our faith is God. But God cannot be "proved." What kind of God would He be if He could be "proved" by human beings? To prove God would be to make Him the product of our methods and manipulations, the creation of our consciousness. God is God just because we cannot do this. He is above our human machinations, and not subject to them. If we could "prove" God He would not be God. He would be inferior to the men who had proved Him.

God is, therefore, a truth given to us by revelation. The revelation is contained in the words of the prophets and in the Law of the Old Testament. It is manifestly in Jesus Christ who is God's "Word made flesh." You say you can't believe that. Very well, but there it is.

God and I

Thinking helps some where God is concerned. In one sense, theology is a science whose truths must be measured and tested like all other truths. But reason alone cannot give the answers. "I think," said Descartes, "therefore I am." Christianity instantly denies that. It declares: "I am

Baptist Church Reverts To One Service Sept. 4th

Last Sunday was the final of the duplicate switching services at the Virginia Beach First Baptist Church. It is announced. Beginning next Sunday, September 4, worship services will be held only at the 11 o'clock hour. No time change is to be made in the Sunday School services.

A business meeting of the congregation will be held Wednesday night, September 14, at 7:30 o'clock, at the church, the pastor announces.

LEARNING THE HARD WAY

We have heard considerable about three GIs who decided to stay in Red China following the Korean war but changed their minds after living under communism. They had to be convinced the hard way that dictators offer no promise path to happiness.

Whatever their crimes or failures, they are back in the United States, a country that cherishes freedom, to take such punishment as may be meted out to them, in preference to remaining behind the iron curtain. Their decision may open the eyes of some Americans who have been sympathetic to government ownership of business, and to the relentless extension of the state, power and authority of government in general.

The Ontario, Oregon, Argus-Observer, recently said that if socialism is right in one field of enterprise, it is right in all. "The end result of this," it went on, "would be outright communism, which nearly all Americans oppose in theory but which many seem eager to embrace a step at a time."

No nation can long remain half socialist and half free. A choice must be made.

There will be no proof. You must make your commitment without it. But where all is risked everything is gained. Apart from God we are starved, thirsty, dead. In Christ we become a new creation.

Choir Program Gets Underway At Beach Methodist Church

The choir of the Virginia Beach Methodist Church will begin rehearsals for fall and winter activities next week, according to the announcement of J. Harold Vest, organist and director of choirs at the church.

There will be three choirs rehearsing each week—Junior Choir, Youth Choir and Adult Choir. The first rehearsal of the Junior Choir will be Wednesday, September 14, at 3:30 p. m. All children of the community, ages 8 through 12 years, who are interested in choir training, are invited to participate in the program under Mr. Vest's leadership. Rehearsals will continue through the school year every Wednesday at 3:30 p. m.

The Youth Choir will begin rehearsals Thursday evening, September 15, at 6:30 o'clock. All young people 13 years of age up to graduation from high school, are invited to this choir. Rehearsals will be every Thursday at 6:30 p. m. The choir will sing at the 9 o'clock service of the church each Sunday.

The Adult Choir will continue its rehearsals every Thursday at 8 p. m. A number of interesting events have been scheduled for this group during the church year. Those who would like to sing under Mr. Vest's direction are invited to be present at the rehearsal on September 15.

A fourth choral group, a Cherub Choir for small children, is contemplated if sufficient interest warrants.

"High Tor" Will Be Presented At Museum Theatre

Leslie Cheek, Jr., director of the Virginia Museum, announced this week that the first dramatic production at the new Museum Theatre will be the prize-winning Maxwell Anderson play, "High Tor."

"The Drama Critics Circle Award was selected," Cheek said, "because it offers the best possible opportunities for actors and technicians to introduce the facilities of the new theatre and its fine equipment."

"High Tor" will be the first of seven dramatic productions to be presented this season at the Museum Theatre. The museum's professional staff, headed by Vincent Y. Bowditch, will direct and instruct of volunteer actors and those who take part in backstage activities for each production.

The opening night performance will be Tuesday, October 26, at 8:30. Other evening performances will be given daily through Saturday, October 29.

"High Tor" won its famous American author the Drama Critics Circle Award the year of its production on Broadway, in 1936.

There are an estimated 22,500,000 dogs owned by 17 million American families who spend an estimated $200,000,000 on food for their canines.

"LARAMIE"

An assassin's knife, held by Jack Elam, is faced by star James Stewart in Columbia Pictures' "The Man From Laramie," in CinemaScope and Technicolor, which comes to the Beach Theatre next Wednesday for a four-day run.

Man can now duplicate ocean water, except for one "ditch" difficulty—nothing will live in it, says A. C. Ferber in the September Reader's Digest. But if a small percentage of real ocean water is added, ocean life will thrive in it.

Long, Low Lines Impart Allure

Long, sweeping lines whose horizontal flow is interrupted by a full-width living room of greater elevation give a distinctive appearance to this modern one-story home. The work of Mario Bianculli of Chesapeake, Tenn., it is one of the designs produced by outstanding architects to demonstrate how today's smartly styled asbestos-cement siding shingles can add beauty and charm to better class houses. Roofing shingles also are of asbestos and the support is sided with asbestos board.

A home that boasts a king-size living room and generous studio windows, yet has the low, sweeping lines preferred in today's one-story residence, has been created by Mario Bianculli, noted Chattanooga, Tenn., architect.

The design is one of six developed by outstanding American architects at the invitation of the Asbestos-Cement Products Association to show how smartly-styled asbestos siding shingles can be used advantageously in the construction of better class homes.

The long, low lines of the Bianculli house are accentuated by the deep horizontal shadow lines produced by each course of asbestos siding shingles. A spacious living room is set at one end of the house and its higher elevation acts as a termination for the long run of the low lines.

The modern, functional approach evident in the design makes it suitable for any part of the United States. It provides for three bedrooms, two utility areas, a playground and a patio for outside dining.

"Horizontal lines in the case of the Bianculli residence tends not only to relate the building to the domestic scale of a residential district and its landscape, but suggests coziness and articulation of the home, very desirable goals of modern living," the architect asserts.

Chronic Patients Receive Special Care from VA

Chronic patients who are so helpless as to be unable to care for themselves will not be discharged from Veteran Administration hospitals until arrangements are completed to their care by their families or by other agencies or individuals. This is a long-standing policy recently reaffirmed by Dr. William S. Middleton, VA chief medical director.

Dr. Middleton went on to say that hospitalization of increasing numbers of veterans with chronic illnesses imposes a tremendous and administrative problems on the VA hospital system, adding that the problems are even more profound in the cases of long-term patients with terminal illnesses—those illnesses which may be assumed ultimately to result in death. These cases require not only the best professional care but they demand also humanitarian interest in their welfare after discharge.

Dr. Middleton's statement may help families understand why they are not always immediately encouraged by the VA hospital to remove chronically helpless patients to their homes, even though the sick veteran himself may wish to spend his last days in his own

Wives, Teen-Agers, Spark Two-Car Boom in State

Virginia's wives and teen-agers, tired of being stranded when their bread-winner drives the family car to work, are sparking a statewide two-car boom, according to a special survey by Universal CTR Credit Corporation.

The survey was conducted by the heads of the company's 40 division offices throughout the nation. Eleven of the company's branch offices are in Virginia. In addition to the observations of these experienced executives, the firm said, the survey included interviews with the hundreds of automobile dealers served by the organization.

"Our survey disclosed that the major reasons behind the purchase of a second car," said vice president Dwight B. Ferguson of Richmond, "are the trend to suburban living and the need for a second car for shopping and taking children to school when the husband uses the other car to get to work."

There are about four and one-half million two-car families in the United States. The credit executive estimated that about 10% of Virginia's car-owning families have more than one car. The percentage will double over the next five years, he declared.

Most of the state's two-car families are white collar or professional workers and farmers, although two-car ownership is also widespread among skilled workers, the survey showed.

Indications are that the average annual income of two-car families is about $7,000 in Virginia. About two-thirds of the new cars bought by two-car families are bought on installment credit, according to the survey, and more than three-fourths of the used cars are purchased on credit. The CTR executive noted the credit standing and financial responsibility of the state's typical two-car family unusually high.

In general, the states families "graduate" into the two-car class by keeping their old car instead of trading when they get a new one. A smaller proportion buys a used car as a second car.

Another result of the trend is a surge in the popularity of station wagons, "small" cars and convertibles, the survey showed.

Do You Need Eight Hours Sleep? Can Snoring be Cured? Read on --

Can we get by with less than the "normal" eight hours of sleep? How safe are sleeping pills? Can snoring be cured? These and other questions concerning sleep are answered by Blake Clark in the September Reader's Digest.

"Normal" length of sleep differs among individuals. Five or six hours are probably sufficient if you find that (a) you can wake at the right time without an alarm, and (b) you are not sleepy during waking hours.

You can "repay a sleep debt" if necessary. Even though you have had an hour or two less sleep than usual, each night for a week, a single late morning sleep makes up the shortage and leaves you as alert as ever.

The powerful barbiturate sleeping pill is safe when used according to prescription, but dangerous if allowed to become a habit. The article warns that though the milder, non-prescription pills are safer, the effects of their constant use are not yet known.

Only a minority is kept awake by coffee. Many falsely believe that wakefulness will follow coffee-drinking, and the belief spoils their sleep.

For insomnia, Benjamin Franklin recommended moving from a fatiguing, warm bed to a fresh cool one. Perhaps more helpful than counting sheep is to remember that merely lying quiet is almost as restful as sleep itself. Sleeping on one's back produces the loudest snoring and the most lurid dreams. Snoring cannot be cured, but its intensity may be diminished by discouraging back-sleeping. Try a pad attached to the back of pajama or gown.

A sudden awakening, caused by a shout or a strident alarm, can have an ill effect. Alarm clocks should have a soft, long call. Few persons sleep so deeply as to require a loud, shocking alarm.

Sleep is so basic to life, the article says, that a man probably could not live ten days without it, though he might live six weeks without food.

It takes ten tons of falling water to generate one kilowatt hour of electricity.

Small Grain Recommendations Given for 1955-56 Planting

What's best to plant in the small grain field has been proved by test, and the 1955-56 varietal recommendations are now forthcoming from agronomists at VPI.

There are no new varieties on this year's list, and I have omitted those recommended for west of the Blue Ridge. Already familiar to Virginia farmers, the recommended varieties are:

Barley—Wong, Kenbar and Hudson.

Wheat—Vahart, Seneca, Atlas 50, Atlas 66, Seneca and Nudel. Whole Wheat—Arlington, Atlantic, Lee Cold Proof, Fulgrain, Fulwood and Victrola 48-93. Fulgrain, Fulwood and Victrola grain are recommended for late winter (February) planting only.

Spring Oats—Not generally recommended for western Virginia, but if conditions make seeding necessary, use either Andrew or Mo. O-205.

Winter Grazing Program Will Up Farm Profits

A winter grazing program will provide at least 60 days more grazing in all sections of the state, and 90 to 100 days more in this area.

At least half of the peanut, cotton, corn and soybean fields in southeastern Virginia are left bare over winter. A cover crop on the 500,000 acres of row crops in that area will save $4,000,000 worth of valuable plant food from leaching.

And now is the time to think about winter cover crops.

One acre of a well-fertilized cover using small grain, rye grass, and crimson clover, will produce 600 to 800 pounds of protein and provide grazing for 5 to 8 cows per acre for several weeks.

Probably equally as important as the winter pasture angle is the reduction in the loss of plant food. Unless soybeans are followed by a cover crop, about two-thirds of the nitrogen "fixed" by these crops will be lost. This means wasting about 60 pounds, or $10 worth, of commercial nitrogen for each acre left without cover.

Tests at Holland and at the former Williamsburg research station showed that a good growth of crimson clover turned under will produce as much corn as 100 pounds of pure nitrogen in the form of commercial fertilizer.

Research also has shown that seed-cotton yields are increased by 300 pounds by using a legume cover crop.

WATER SAVING—Here's a simple gadget that will keep cows and other farm animals from getting and drying drinking water placed in their stalls. Welded steel bands, shaped in a work shop, are screwed into the wall.

Potato Tubeworm Outbreak Likely

A heavy outbreak of potato tubeworms is "definitely possible" in Virginia this fall, A. F. Morris, associate entomologist, at VPI, warns.

The insects were more numerous this past spring than any year since 1947, and the potential is good for a heavy outbreak.

Small home owners or farmers who want to store a few potatoes for home use can dust them with DDT or methoxychlor, 1½ ounces per bushel, when put in storage. However, be sure to wash the potatoes thoroughly before they are eaten, as those two chemicals are highly poisonous.

Commercial growers, to protect against tubeworms, can get the crop into storage, or sell it as quickly as possible. The worms do not develop at temperatures below 50°, and stored potatoes stay at a temperature around 45° in commercial storage houses. Stored potatoes can be fumigated with methyl bromide without danger of injury. Bins and storage houses should be cleaned out and sprayed with DDT, as in grain storage bins, before the crop is stored.

Experts Answer Some Puzzling Questions

Gardeners can sometimes ask some puzzlers in their quest for "know-how," but there's usually an answer to the most unlikely question, says F. H. Scott, assistant horticulturist at VPI.

Fish Facts — or How to Weigh Your Catch with a Yardstick

Who would guess that a fish can be weighed with a ruler? Or that its length can be measured with a scale? This is one of the things that Dexter Haven, biologist at the Virginia Fisheries Laboratory, Gloucester Point, has learned to do with croakers.

In studying the croaker fishery, it is important to know how many fish are being caught. But fishermen sell their catch by weight, not numbers of fish.

By measuring and weighing large numbers of croakers of all sizes, Haven has obtained the average weight at various lengths. From the table of weights and lengths, he can estimate the numbers of fish in each 100-pound box.

Heavier in Summer

Croakers are heavier in summer than in spring, probably because they are building up their supply of eggs. In spring, for example, a 6 and one-half inch croaker weighs one-tenth of a pound; an eleven-inch fish, half a pound, and a thirteen and one-half inch hardhead, as they are sometimes called, about a pound. But in summer a croaker one-tenth of a pound in weight is only six inches long; a half-pounder about ten and one-half inches, and a one-pounder less than thirteen inches. An 18-inch monster in spring weighs about two and one-half pounds, but in summer more than three pounds.

There is great variation in individual croakers, of course, and for a single fish the estimate may sometimes be wide of the mark. But where hundreds of fish are concerned, this method is surprisingly accurate," says Haven.

By using the accompanying tables, sports fishermen may easily estimate the weight of each fish in their catch.

familiar eggplant.

The term "cubling" as applied to white bush squash is peculiar to Virginians, and appears in the notes of Thomas Jefferson.

Debunking further, Scott says King of the Mammoth pumpkin is grouped botanically as squash. And the yellow summer eggplant, known as a pumpkin.

Fruit Varieties Used For Frost Resistance

The orchards of tomorrow will have fewer worries about frost damage to their peach plantings — if fruit breeding work at VPI Agricultural Experiment Station pays off as it is expected to.

Dr. G. D. Obert, horticulturist at the station, reports that his orchards now have about two dozen experimental varieties that show promise from the standpoint of frost-hardiness, disease-resistance, fruit size, and other desirable characteristics.

Fruit breeding is a lengthy business, and it likely will be about five years before any of the VPI varieties are ready for the fruit industry. But meanwhile fruit

Championships Take 'Overtime'

Five times the U. S. amateur golf championship final has been determined in overtime play.

Longest overtime final was the 39-hole match in 1950 at Minneapolis Golf Club. Sam Urrutia, little known basketball player and former caddy from Rochester, N. Y., defeated Frank Stranahan, Toledo sparkplug heir.

Shortest match was the first in 1955 when Charles B. MacDonald, pioneer in Chicago golf, defeated Charles E. Standa, 12 and 11, at Newport Golf Club.

The 56th USGA amateur championship will be held in Richmond at the James River course of the Country Club of Virginia, September 12-17.

Hormone Implants May Cause Trouble Used In Lamb Fattening

Virginia sheepmen who use hormone pellets for fattening lambs on pasture may be in for some trouble.

Dr. W. S. Wilkinson, animal husbandry researcher at the VPI Agricultural Research Station, says the use of the pellets does no good, and may actually be harmful, according to his tests of one season.

The pellets are now available commercially. When used on lambs fattened in the feed lot, they have generally increased daily gains and given more efficient use of feed. They have had no effect on carcass quality and have not increased death losses.

When the pellets were tested under Virginia conditions, where lamb production involves fattening of suckling lambs on pasture, the story was different. In the tests, the overall return per head in the group of lambs not receiving the pellets was $30.65.

CONTEST ON WATER SYSTEMS OPEN

If you have some good ideas about farm water systems you stand a chance to win a sizeable sum of money in the 1955 Virginia farm water systems contest. The idea is to complete in 50 words or less one of the following statements: "Our pressure water system helps us because..." or "We need a pressure water system because..."

this week's patterns...

1 1/2 - 2 1/4

It shouldn't be hard to do, and the prizes are: First, $250; second, $100; third, $75; and eight additional prizes of $25, all in U.S. Savings Bonds. Some counties are arranging for local prizes. The contest is being sponsored by the Virginia Farm Electrification Council in cooperation with several water pump manufacturers and distributors. There are three eligibility rules: (1) You must be 12 years old or older; (2) You must live beyond the city water mains; (3) You must live in Virginia.

Entry blanks for the contest are available from county agricultural offices, vocational agricultural teachers, electric power suppliers and certain water pump dealers. The entries must be mailed before midnight, October 15, to: Water Systems, Blacksburg, Virginia.

Entries will be judged on originality, sincerity, aptness of thought, clarity and neatness. The decision of the judges will be final, and all entries will become the property of the Virginia Farm Electrification Council.

Judges will be Mrs. Mavis Gibbs, editor, Homemaker's Department, The Southern Planter, Richmond; L. B. Dietrich, dean of agriculture, VPI; and E. O. Meyer, executive secretary, Virginia Press Association, Richmond.

This is the second year the contest has been conducted. The top winners in 1954, in the order named, were Mrs. Grafton Greenlaw, Stafford; Richard Devell, Warren; and Mrs. Hyatt Shackley, Carroll.

MAKING THOSE SIMPLE REPAIRS
Nothing is simpler to fix than a squeaking door. Put a drop of sewing machine oil at the top of each hinge. Swing the door back and forth several times to work the oil into the hinge. Repeat until the squeak stops.

If you have a door that sticks, find the spot that sticks by slowly closing and opening the door. Pay special attention to just where the binding takes place. Hold a piece of sandpaper over the surface of the door frame in that spot, with the sand side to ward the edge of the door. Open and close the door several times over the sandpaper.

A common pet peeve is a drawer that sticks. VPI home management specialists suggest this remedy: Find out whether the sticking is at the top, bottom or on the sides. Usually this space is smoother and shinier than the other surfaces. If it just sticks a bit, rub a piece of soap, paraffin or heavy paste wax over the spot. You may have to sand the drawer a bit, but take special care if the sanding is in a place that might show.

Sometimes a rattle in a door can be stopped temporarily by a heavy rubber band. Stretch it around the two door knobs — or around the flat side of the latch and the knob on the opposite side of the door. More permanent repairs involve removing the latch strike plate.

SO YOUR CHILD IS STARTING TO SCHOOL

School days are not far off — for the first time for many children. Whether the first days at school are happy and profitable, or upsetting to the child, depends a lot on the parents.

Home economists at VPI have a few suggestions on how parents can help prepare the first braver for his new life. Awaken interest. Talk with the child about school. Tell him how you enjoyed school, what fun you had, the friends you made, the materials you worked with. Above all, don't intimate that you dislike school days. Your attitude must be favorable if you want your child's to be favorable.

Acquaint him with school. The thought of being left alone in a strange place minus mother and family is terrifying to many children. If they can see where they will live and work it will help. So if possible, take your child to school beforehand. Point out objects to him, then talk about them later.

Walk or ride over the route your child will follow to go to school. Build up his confidence so he will be sure he can go and come without mishap.

Be sure he learns the rules of the road. If your child knows how to walk on the highway, how to cross the street, how to enter the bus, he will be able to take care of himself.

Teach your child to be self-reliant. Be sure, for instance, that he knows how to put on his outdoor clothing, and that he can identify it. Better label his clothing and teach him to recognize the label. It's also a good plan to give him some experience with large scale wash rooms.

Take him for a preschool check-up with the family doctor and dentist. If he has correctable handicaps, correct them. If he has handicaps that cannot be corrected, help him to accept them.

Have several outfits of new clothes or remodeled ones ready for the first days of school. New clothes are morale builders. Give your child the confidence of being well groomed.

Gross won't grow where roots can't go!

Install NO-SEE around shrubs, trees, flower beds; along fences, hedges, driveways. Bars grow from spreading; keeps lawn edges neat. Mow right over it, trimming grass. Corrugated, galvanized steel sections 4 inches deep. Easy to install; just drive down to soil level. Gives your lawn that well-kept, semi-formal look!

Baby Beef Project

Creating Much Interest

The 4-H Baby Beef project is relatively new in Princess Anne County but it has created a great deal of interest. During the six years that the project has been in operation an even 100 steers have been fed by 4-H Club members. This is a very good record considering the limited number of livestock in this area.

The Baby Beef project is another of the many programs which H. W. Odum started. He started the program in 1949 and did a great deal to create interest. Since it's start there has been a steady increase in the size and quality of the show. Last year we had one of the highest sales averages in the state.

Show and Sale
Each year we hold a Show and Sale jointly with Norfolk County. This makes a larger show and causes keen competition between the counties. This competition between the two counties creates a great deal of excitement and interest in the affair.

The Baby Beef program has done a great deal to improve the type of cattle fed here in Princess Anne County. It has also done a lot towards improving feeding practices and management. It has helped to increase the interest of local business men and the chambers of commerce in the 4-H Club program. One of the most important effects is that it has helped a number of boys and girls to assume responsibility.

Culves of the Best

This year we have selected a group of calves that are from some of the best herds in the state. We will place these calves with local boys and girls around the first of October. We have selected boys and girls to feed these calves who have shown interest in the project and a desire to learn more about livestock.

To make this program a success it is important to have the support of the entire county. The boys and girls will do a much better job if they know that a number of people support them. Therefore, everyone should show these boys and girls that they are interested in the work that they are doing.

Modern New York City skyscrapers, made with stainless steel or aluminum skins instead of brick, are making the city lighter, not heavier, writes Ira Wolfert in the September Reader's Digest. A building now being erected will weigh 177,500 tons when finished. But more than 250,000 tons of earth and rock had first to be removed to expose the bedrock on which the building rests.

IT ISN'T EASY!

Most anything worth doing, isn't easy. A man's job, for example, isn't easy. Often it's complicated and dangerous with problems a-plenty. It isn't easy, either, to be a homemaker. A dozen skills and more are needed, not to mention endless hours of monotonous tasks. Yet, man or woman, usually you're urged on by a dogged determination to "do it—or else!" But when it comes to living a life that's commendable and above reproach, does your determination still prod you on? Do you dare stand for right against all odds? Then your place is in the Church, where others feel exactly as you do. Join them now in worship and work, and your determination will be strengthened, your faith renewed.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL... ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship among Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For the sake of his children's sake. (2) For the sake of his community and nation. (3) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

PREPARATIONS PRESSED FOR TENTH ANNUAL STATE FAIR - SEPT. 23 - OCT. 1

The Old Dominion's greatest annual attraction — the State Fair of Virginia — is now readying for its tenth annual exposition in Richmond, September 23 through October 1.

Richmond proudly boasts of the greatest agricultural and educational show on the Atlantic seaboard, and one that is taking its place with the best in the nation. This vast 432-acre outdoor classroom offers many and varied educational features and provides family entertainment on the largest showgrounds in the nation.

In scope it is more than a fair, although it is the official state fair of Virginia. It is an agricultural and industrial exposition regional in coverage — depicting the progress of agriculture and country life, and the business and professional interests serving them. Virginia and adjoining states have made enormous strides in agriculture, industry and education during the past decade. The 1955 exposition will record that achievement.

The spacious grounds will be crowded with the newest in farm machinery, and heavy industrial equipment along with transport vehicles. Agencies will demonstrate soil conservation, and road-building machinery. The armed forces will bring many and various types of arms and vehicles for the education of the public as to the weapons of peace. The modern buildings and pavilions will house the best in livestock, crops, commercial and educational exhibits. The midway, the "great way," with a thousand thrills and the grandstand with the world's best outdoor revue, circus and vaudeville acts plus championship motorcycle and auto races will add top-flight entertainment and fun to the 1955 exposition.

Started as a high quality livestock exposition by purchased breeders of the upper South, the State Fair of Virginia immediately caught the spirit of the new South, and almost overnight, became the showplace for our rapidly expanding agricultural and commercial life. Industry and the travel industry is being featured at an accelerated pace to complete its universal appeal.

The State of Virginia, and various agricultural and breed associations, and industrial and commercial groups have devoted fully of their time and resources to make this truly representative of the region. For the first time this year the Commonwealth of Virginia exhibits will be housed in a new building with 30,000 square feet of space for the various departments of the Commonwealth to display and demonstrate to the public the services and activities that are performed for the welfare and well-being of all Virginians and visitors to the state.

The agricultural fair is the oldest educational institution in America, and is still our most fascinating form of farm information and inspiration. The fair not only views all sorts of well-high perfect products from harnessed, field and orchard and meads and greets those who grew them, but the farmer and homemaker and their children can see the labor-saving devices and modern methods that make our phenomenal agricultural

Common Glory Closes Sept. 4th

Theatre-goers will have their last chance to see "The Common Glory" this week as the symphonic drama prepares to close its ninth season on September 4.

Large crowds are expected for the final performance, sponsors of the show said. Attendance usually begins a sharp rise early in August, they said, with the largest audiences arriving during the last two weeks of the season.

Tickets are still available for all remaining performances, the sponsors noted, and may be obtained at the play's box office in Williamsburg.

"The Common Glory" will be given Sunday evening, but not on

The Jamestown Corporation, a non-profit, educational organization which has sponsored the production since it opened first in 1947, said that "The Common Glory" would definitely be produced next year.

The current season of "The Common Glory" has been termed "quite successful thus far" by its producers, who said that until the recent hurricanes brought two weeks of stormy weather, the drama was attracting the largest audiences in its history.

JUDGE KELLAM CALLS FOR STRICT POLICING TO HALT VIOLATIONS

Provide More Officers if Needed, Jurist Tells County Police Board

Meeting Called as Outcome of Grand Jury Report on Gambling, Illegal Whiskey Sales

"When other areas have run undesirable persons out, and they come to Princess Anne to do their dirty work, then we must see that they are stopped," Judge Floyd E. Kellam told members of the Princess Anne Police and Trial Board, and city and county law enforcement heads last Thursday afternoon at a meeting called in the wake of the special grand jury report on gambling and illegal sale of intoxicants in the City of Virginia Beach and Princess Anne County.

One of the facts pointed up by the grand jury findings, he noted, was that many of the indictments were for people from outside the Virginia Beach - Princess Anne County area.

"Our county and city have grown by leaps and bounds," said Judge Kellam. "Because of this, your responsibilities are greatly increased, but this great influx of people must not prevent the enforcement of the laws. If it is necessary to increase the size of the police force it must be done at once."

The meeting, held in the wake of the recent special grand jury report on gambling and the illicit sale of whiskey in the city and county, had as its purpose the discussion of the steps necessary to take in preventing the operation of undesirable activities by clubs in the area.

Judge Kellam called for the co-operative efforts of all law enforcement agencies in the city and county to stop such activities in their tracks, and re-emphasized that clubs whose operations were outside the law, should be "policed to death."

During the discussion it was revealed that an attempt had been made by them to increase the size of the county police force at the last budget meeting of the Princess Anne Board of Supervisors. Lawrence B. Wales, Jr., secretary of the Police Board, at the request of Chairman Sterling Montgomery, read from the board minutes excerpts disclosing that the board had asked for a 45% increase in its budget to meet the minimum needs indicated by its studies of the 270-square mile territory embraced by the county. The report revealed that some extra money over previous appropriations was granted, but it came far short of meeting the estimated needs.

Twenty men force has 20 men, it was revealed. Of this number, only three men are on duty some nights, it was said, and Wales pointed out that with this number it was manifestly impossible to properly police the county night spots.

"We welcome the grand jury report," he said, "because we're glad that someone else recognizes the problem." He said the problem was a "budgetary one" and it is going to take money to correct it. The grand jury in its report recommended the formation and maintenance of a vice squad to war on the illegal clubs. Wales declared this had been considered but when funds were not made available, the idea was dropped.

Judge Kellam's remarks at the meeting were directed primarily at the Police Board, but he had

Complete Text Of Statement by Judge Kellam

I have asked the Mayor of Virginia Beach, Chairman of the Board of Supervisors, the Police and Trial Board and the law enforcement agencies to meet with me this afternoon for a very important discussion.

You are all familiar with the thorough and searching investigation that has just been made by a grand jury. I might say that these men went about their duties with a determination to uncover any evidence that would bring about the correction of law violations that were going on in the county and the city. They have not rushed through their jobs but have studied carefully all the information they were able to secure. The results of their work up to the present time is a matter of record and their reports contain certain recommendations that should be of considerable value to all of you. I have a copy of this report here to deliver to each of you.

While my remarks this evening are to be directed particularly to the Police Board, the Council and the Board of Supervisors, because it is under this jurisdiction that the police departments come, I have also asked the law enforcement officers to be here because this is a matter in which there must be the closest cooperation if the desired results are to be obtained.

Our county and city have grown by leaps and bounds in the last few years. Because of this, your responsibilities are greatly increased, but this great influx of people must not prevent the enforcement of the laws. If it is necessary to increase the size of the police force it must be done at once. If there be any law enforcement officers whose honesty and integrity cannot be relied upon, they should be dismissed.

I am asking that you study carefully the report of the grand jury. They have made certain recommendations that they believe

Erosion of Beach Being Remedied Says Commission

The Virginia Beach Erosion Commission has issued the following statement on the beach restoration program which it supervises. The statement was released Wednesday.

Since the completion of the original beach restoration program, which began about the middle of 1952 and finished in June, 1953, it has been necessary to carry out a sand replenishment program from time to time at certain critical areas, in order to give maximum protection to the seawall and walkway. In order to accomplish this it was necessary to find a suitable sand source at a cost within economic limits. The first major replenishment was from a dune area at 53rd St. and at a delivered cost of $1.34 per cubic yard. The next major item was sand from Rudee Inlet by contract dredge at a cost of $1.18 per cubic yard.

The two hurricanes during August scoured the beach from one end to the other very severely, pulling vast quantities of sand offshore (the majority of which, with favorable winds, should find its way back to the beach), leaving the seawall unprotected between 10th and 14th Streets and subjected to severe pounding by the surging sea. In order to bolster this area, an emergency arrangement

Children's Home Society Takes Great Care in Placing Children

The couple that secures a baby through an adoption agency such as The Children's Home Society of Virginia, is assured of getting a child who has been pronounced mentally and physically normal and is selected by experts as suited to the foster parents' needs and personality.

The child selected for adoptive parents is chosen carefully in the light of known facts about both the baby and the couple who wishes to adopt him. The baby's background, his personality, appearance and native ability as revealed through psychological tests are considered first; then the personality make-up and capacity of the various people who have been approved by the agency as adoptive parents. Then is taken into consideration what each couple has asked for in their child. Since at The Children's Home Society there are nearly a hundred couples asking for babies for every baby available, they have a wide selection.

For example, they may have twenty couples waiting to adopt a baby. However, eight of them may want a girl, whereas the baby ready to be placed is a boy. The eight must wait a little longer.

Of these remaining twelve, three may be of Italian or Jewish extraction and want a child of that special racial strain and if this baby is a blond, this leaves only nine couples to consider.

Eventually the case worker gets down to just a few couples that the child would suit. Then personalities enter the picture. Most adoptive parents who apply to reliable adoption agencies get babies that suit them so well that many of these children are considered to have family likeness. This method of placing children has worked so well that it is recommended as well worth the waiting by those people who are trained in this work. A large number of couples have been so pleased with their children from The Children's Home Society of Virginia that they apply for more.

The Children's Home Society of Virginia is sponsored in Princess Anne County by Mrs. H. Floyd Dormire, of Virginia Beach, Mrs. G. Bentley Byrd of Great Neck Point, Mrs. Alfred T. Nicholson of Little Neck, Mrs. F. Sheppard Boyer of Virginia Beach, Mrs. Charles D. Dean of Annapolis, Mrs. Ralph Clifford of Virginia Beach and the Rev. Henry C. Barton, Rector of Eastern Shore Chapel.

Annex Plan Is Approved By Norfolk

An ordinance to annex approximately 33 square miles of Princess Anne County was adopted on second reading by the Norfolk City Council at its meeting on Tuesday.

The vote on the ordinance was unanimous among the seven members of the council. It had been approved by the Norfolk City body on first reading on August 16.

The council action Tuesday now clears the ordinance through the legislative stage and it is now ready to go to the court.

The ordinance will become effective on October 6 and the City of Norfolk must give 30 days notice.

Young C. John Lancaster Gets Trombone Tips from the Master

A Princess Anne County youth had the thrill of a lifetime last week when the celebrated Tommy Dorsey played at the Surf Beach Club here.

The youngster, a music student who specializes in the trombone which the renowned Dorsey has helped make famous, is C. John Lancaster, who lives with his mother on Seventeenth Street extended here in Virginia Beach.

The first thing young Lancaster said to Mr. Dorsey when they were introduced at the Surf Beach Club was "I have a thousand questions to ask you, Mr. Dorsey." Dorsey said he would love to answer any questions he could.

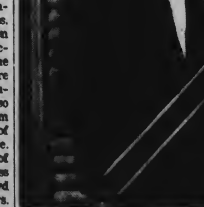

Young Lancaster has been studying this summer under his music teacher, Mr. James Cantwell, and two of his favorite solo numbers were written by Mr. Dorsey. John asked the bandleader many questions about these numbers.

John will enter Stetson University this fall on a music scholarship. He is a 1955 graduate of Princess Anne High School. He has studied piano under Clifford Herzer and C. H. Hitchings and trombone under James Cantwell.

The famous bandleader, who has a keen interest in young Lancaster and asked that he be sure and write him of his progress in his musical work at Stetson. Dorsey also promised to visit him when he is in the area of the university.

Lancaster stands six feet, three inches, and it prompted Dorsey, who stands at an even six feet, to say, "he makes me feel like I am standing in a hole."

Young John Lancaster, the Princess Anne High School graduate, who won a music scholarship to Stetson University, is shown getting some advice from an expert, the celebrated Tommy Dorsey, during the latter's appearance at the Surf Beach Club over the Labor Day weekend. John is an avid student of the trombone and the nationally renowned band leader gave the youngster some valuable tips. John is the son of Mrs. Billie Lancaster, of Virginia Beach.

'School's Open--Drive Carefully' Campaign Getting Under Way

The annual "School's Open--Drive Carefully" campaign to alert motorists that they must once again be on the lookout for children crossing streets on the way to and from school, begins tomorrow.

John B. Dey, vice president of the Tidewater Automobile Association, pointed out that while schools are starting tomorrow, the club has been busy earlier placing posters near all schools so that motorists have had a short "conditioning period."

The eye-catching red and black poster, reproduced with this article, is a major "tool" that the motor club will use in bringing the opening of school to the attention of motorists.

"The two principal things that motorists should do in connection with the campaign," he stated, "is to respectfully obey special speed limits around the schools and to be extra alert for young children who are not yet safety-wise during the school year."

"During the school year," Mr. Dey added, "the club will work with school officials to train children in safe walking habits, but past experience has shown that it takes time to really fix safety in the minds of new students. Meanwhile, it's the motorists who are responsible to watch out for children -- even if the children are at fault."

Mr. Dey also asked motorists to give every cooperation to the School Safety Patrol boys and girls. "These volunteer safety guardians are on duty to protect their schoolmates and to see that they cross the street safely when it is safe, and that they can be much safer and effective if motorists learn to recognize them and cooperate with them," he added.

"Throughout the country, the safety record for school children has been very good during the past years, but these first few weeks after school opens are critical ones. Children will learn more about traffic rules and school hours, but motorists will be doing a great service to the community if they will drive carefully," he concluded.

National and State Notables Here for Annual Legion Meeting

Seaborn P. Collins, of Las Cruces, New Mexico, was unanimously elected National Commander of The American Legion at the 36th National Convention in Washington, D. C., on September 2, 1954.

A World War II Air Force flyer, Collins is the first National Commander of The American Legion to use his personal plane, a new Buick Wildcat, to travel over the country on his visit to departments and posts.

Commander Collins had served as chairman of The American Legion's National Security Commission for 1953-54. During 1952-53 he was vice chairman of the National Military Affairs Committee.

In private life he is in the real estate, insurance, general contracting and lumber business at Las Cruces.

Born at Maybelle, Texas, November 2, 1912, the son of Seaborn P. and Rosa E. Collins, he was educated in the public and high schools of his native town and was graduated from Daniel Baker College (now Howard Payne University) at Brownwood, Texas.

During the early part of World War II, Collins served as a flight instructor for both the Army and Navy in a civilian capacity due to an eye disability which barred him from entering military service. However, in January 1943 he enlisted in the Air Force as a private after succeeding in getting a waiver of his disability. He was in flight training until November, 1944, when he received his commission and served as a pilot in the Air Transport Command. He ferried planes from the United States to the South Pacific and for one year he flew the "Hump" in the China-Burma-India Theater of Operations.

Following his return home from military service, Collins in January, 1945, joined Lee Quisenberry Post, No. 10 of The American Legion at Las Cruces, New Mexico. He served as commander of his post during 1947-48. He was area commander in 1948-49 and was elected as the first World War II department commander in his post during 1949-50. He is now commander of the Las Cruces post.

Past Natl. Vice Commander Has Risen Rapidly in Legion Ranks

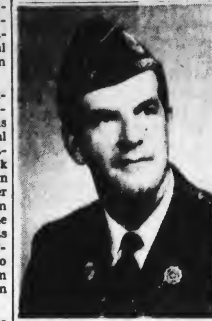

W. C. (Dan) Daniel, of Danville, Virginia, World War II Navy veteran and Past National Vice Commander of The American Legion, was appointed chairman of the National Public Relations Commission by National Commander Seaborn P. Collins on October 5, 1954.

Daniel's rapid rise in The American Legion since his first affiliation in 1944 was climaxed by his unanimous election as National Vice Commander by the 34th National Convention in New York City in 1952. Then he laid down his robes of office as Commander of the Department of Virginia, in which capacity he had led the Virginia American Legion to its first membership gain since 1946-1947. Under his administration also there was a marked increase in interest in The American Legion and its activities in Virginia.

Dan Daniels has served The American Legion at virtually every level. He has been adjunct service officer and commander of H. G. McClint Post No. 97 in Danville. Later he served as Vice commander and commander of the 5th Virginia District. He was chairman for two years of the department oratorical contest committee. He also served two years each as the chairman of the department employment committee and as a member of the National Employment Committee. He served one year as chairman of the National Economic Commission and has been a delegate to every national convention since 1946.

Commander Daniel served in the Navy during World War II. He achieved the right to wear the uniform in this war only by the shrewdest kind of determination because he had to overcome an early history of tuberculosis. He made attempts to enlist in all branches of The Armed Forces.

President of National Auxiliary

MRS. ELIZABETH LAINSON

Auxiliary Prexy Boasts More Than 30 Years Service in Legion

Elizabeth Lainson of Fort Madison, Iowa, is leading the American Legion Auxiliary's nearly one million members this year as National President. She was elected to the Auxiliary's highest office at the national convention in Washington, D. C., August 30 to September 2, without opposition, after more than thirty years' service in the work of the organization.

Mrs. Lainson is the wife of Percy A. Lainson, Warden of the Iowa State Penitentiary and one of America's leading penologists.

At the time of her election she was completing a highly successful year as Chairman of the National Rehabilitation Committee in charge of the Auxiliary's nationwide activities for disabled war veterans. Her record of Auxiliary service goes back to the first days of the organization in 1920 when she became a charter member of the Rainbow Unit of Council Bluffs, Iowa.

Mrs. Lainson was President of the Auxiliary's Iowa Department for the year 1936-1937, and in 1950 was elected National Vice President for the Central States. She directed the enrollment of the Auxiliary's 1952 membership as National Membership Chairman, and in 1953 guided the organization's Child Welfare activities as National Child Welfare Chairman.

Mrs. Lainson's husband, son, daughter and son-in-law are all members of the American Legion. Her husband was a Major in the Rainbow Division in World War I and Chief of Staff of the Iowa State Guard in World War II. Her son, Don, was a Captain in the Third Armored Division in World War II. Her daughter, Jeanne, was a Lieutenant in the Army Nurse Corps and is now the wife of Captain Francis D. Ivey of the Regular Army.

In addition to her Auxiliary interest, Mrs. Lainson has been active in the Federation of Women's Clubs; the Iowa Council of Religious Women of which she was State President for two years, and the Cancer Control program in which she served as District Chairman. During both World Wars she contributed her services to the work of the Red Cross.

Paul Griffith, Past President, Saw Service in 2 World Wars

Seven years of war service — two years in World War I and two and a half times as much duty in World War II — lie behind the career of Paul H. Griffith of Uniontown, Pa., national commander of The American Legion.

Commander Griffith's service in World War II took him to every theater of operations. Called to active duty in June 1940, he was the first reserve officer to be summoned by the War Department as the nation mobilized its defenses in the last emergency. At that time he held the rank of major.

For two years he served as assistant executive in the office of the under-secretary of War. This office, headed by Louis Johnson had complete charge of industrial mobilization for the country, and under Robert P. Patterson, had the responsibility of negotiating all War Department contracts.

In February 1942, he was promoted to the rank of lieutenant colonel. A month later he was appointed as the military member of the American Technical Mission to India. As military aide and consultant for Louis Johnson, the representative of the President of the United States in the Middle and Near East, he took part in the Cripps negotiations in India and assisted in the industrial survey of India for war mobilization. He was in Burma at the time of the disastrous Allied retreat.

The mission also received reports and participated in the planning of American military operations in the Middle and Near East, including North Africa.

The Legion commander's military assignments in the latter part of the war brought him into almost daily contact with governmental administrators and bureau dealing with veterans' affairs. He helped shape many policies affecting veterans, particularly in regard to civilian readjustment.

Promoted to the rank of colonel on January 27, 1944, he became chief of the Veterans Personnel Division Selective Service System. It was in this capacity that he championed enforcement of the legislation guaranteeing returning service men and women

What The Grand Jury Did NOT Say

When the Circuit Court called the Grand Jury into session on August 4th the court told them, in effect, to search carefully, diligently and thoroughly the illegal sales of whisky and illegal gambling and to apply the same searching methods to the law enforcement agencies.

The jury composed of C. Edgar Winn, foreman, W. W. Connell, Jr., J. C. Kincaid, George C. Lyon, Kate L. Murden, O. H. Buyn and L. H. Brinkley accepted this responsibility and went about its task along these lines. It engaged a private investigator plus the Commonwealth's investigator and in addition they made several raids, themselves, and individual members of the grand jury made investigations and ran down every possible lead. It is presumed that local law enforcement officials searched harder than they had ever searched before. It is also assumed that State ABC officers did everything they could to uncover any illegal sales of whisky. The grand jury, after being in session almost a month, made a report of its findings up to the present time.

Eleven persons were indicted by this grand jury. They rendered a report that should impress upon the law enforcement officers and the people, themselves, the necessity for stricter observance of their responsibilities. The jury said there must be closer cooperation between the law enforcement agencies, something everyone knows has not existed between the sheriff's department and the city and county police departments. The jury recommended there be a vice squad operating in plain clothes which we believe would be of benefit to the police departments of Princess Anne County and Virginia Beach. The jury said these conditions could not exist with the proper kind of law enforcement and they made other recommendations which should be helpful in eliminating illegal operations.

But, what the grand jury did NOT say was that some people who apparently were in a position to help them did not come forward and offer their assistance.

The grand jury did NOT say who told the newspaper reporters of these illegal operations.

The grand jury did NOT say whether they saw all the pictures taken by the reporters.

The grand jury did NOT say whether they were able to get any information or any identification of who had been frequenting these places and joining in these illegal operations.

The grand jury did NOT say that it is morally and legally wrong for the head of a corporation to visit one of these places, gamble and lose his money, and then to have his paid employees go out and talk against it.

The grand jury did NOT say that if people who are opposed to gambling after they lose their money would not frequent such places they would soon close on their own accord.

The grand jury did NOT say that what is proper law enforcement is a police force staffed with an adequate number of men dedicated to the protection of the health, happiness and welfare of the people and at the same time dedicated to the prevention of illegal whisky sales and open gambling.

The grand jury did NOT point out forcefully enough that people who claim to be opposed to gambling, whether they be visitors or natives, should not visit these places and participate in this illegal operation.

The grand jury did NOT say that Princess Anne County and Virginia Beach with a population of more than 80,000 people and that at this time of the year some 50,000 non-residents, or a total population of 130,000 people, that after a month of searching by and with the help of private investigators and law enforcement agencies the jury was able to find only three places where indictments were returned and one other place in which arrests were made, this place being located close to the Norfolk City line and inhabited by non-residents of Princess Anne County.

The grand jury did NOT say that this is all the illegal spots in Princess Anne County and Virginia Beach and the Sun-News believes there must be others because if these were the only four places in an area with a population of 130,000 people then it would be a "Utopia" in this great land of ours.

The Sun-News further believes that a one-legged blind man could search any area of like population and find violations greater than can be found in Princess Anne County and Virginia Beach.

What the grand jury did NOT say was that most people in Princess Anne County and Virginia Beach believe this entire operation was blown up and is being blown up by Norfolk interests in an attempt to force unfavorable comment on Princess Anne County and Virginia Beach during its (Norfolk's) attempt to annex a large portion of our county.

The Sun-News has said time and time again that we do not need crap tables and roulette wheels at Virginia Beach. It believes this type of operation should not be permitted but it also believes that the Princess Anne County - Virginia Beach area is the "garden spot of the world" where some 40,000 people have moved their residences in the past few years. And, it has no intention of joining up with those who want to condemn everything within its boundaries because there has been found four places of illegal operations.

We suggest, instead, that everyone, not only residents of the county and city, but non-residents join together in seeing that these places do not exist and at the same time point out the many fine qualities to be found within our boundaries.

The grand jury, we feel, did an excellent job and is entitled to the thanks of all the people of our city and county. The jury is not only entitled to our thanks but is equally entitled to our cooperation in making their recommendations effective.

Beach Area Doesn't Need Gambling

Virginians who want no little Las Vegas in this State will hail the hard-hitting report of the Princess Anne County special grand jury.

The jury found "undisputed evidence" of gambling and illegal liquor sales in the Virginia Beach area. It brought indictments against 11 persons and called for reorganization of local law-enforcement agencies as a means of striking back at vice conditions which the jurors declared have "plagued our county."

Indictments are not convictions, of course, and any conclusions as to the guilt or innocence of the indicted persons should be withheld pending their trials.

But regardless of what happens as a result of the grand jury's probe, the jurors are due commendation for the forthright manner in which they tackled their assignment and carried it through to completion, despite a written threat received by one of their number.

The foreman summed up the juror's feeling on that score. "I don't scare easily," he declared.

The investigators' determination to do the job right was indicated by the fact that they, personally, went to night clubs and found hidden gambling paraphernalia. The jurors pointed out in the report that they, though nonprofessionals in such matters, found gambling equipment in one establishment after police had searched the place and reported finding nothing.

Despite the jury's good work and despite any immediate results in the form of convictions or police reorganizations, it would be the height of folly to assume that gambling at Virginia Beach is forever dead.

In 1930 a special grand jury (one of several which in years past have probed conditions at the beach) brought indictments against 23 persons. That didn't end gambling at the resort.

In 1938 another special grand jury had reported that "consent of those in authority" had been given to gambling operations in the beach area, and it demanded that three Virginia Beach officials be required to appear in court to show cause

"PLODS HIS WEARY WAY"

Political Sickness of Norfolk's Annexation Case

When Norfolk City first talked of annexing part of Princess Anne County its line ran to Thalia Creek and it was going to take in more than 40 square miles of Princess Anne County. Had the annexation line extended to Thalia Creek it would have taken in Bayville Farms, the huge dairy located just off Shore Drive.

Bayville Farms is owned by Mr. C. F. Burroughs, who is head of the Royster Fertilizer Company. We understand Mr. Burroughs was bitterly opposed to this property being annexed and when the ordinance was finally presented for adoption the Bayville Farms property was "skirted" and Bayville Farms would not, under this ordinance, become a part of the City of Norfolk.

What took place between the preliminary stage and the ordinance as finally recommended we suspect would be most interesting to all residents of Norfolk and Princess Anne County. And, it is a pity that these behind-the-scenes activity, as we believe they took place, could not be known to everyone. One only has to realize the influence of Mr. Burroughs, the Royster Company, and his vast connections, even to the employment of one of the attorneys to represent the City of Norfolk, to get a slight insight as to what has been going on.

The Sun-News does not believe Bayville Farms should be annexed to Norfolk City why they should not be removed from office.

Later, charges against the three were dropped on motion of the Commonwealth's attorney after one of the three, the chief of police, had resigned. The chief declared that existence of gambling at the resort "was well known to almost all of the residents, who regarded the conditions as beneficial to the resort."

We don't believe that flagrant violation of the laws of Virginia was beneficial to Virginia Beach then, or is beneficial now. As the grand jurors, who live in that part of the State, quite properly point out in their report this week:

(The following letter to the Norfolk Virginian-Pilot is reprinted by permission of the writer.)

Norfolk, Stay Away!
 Editor, Virginian-Pilot.

It was with a great deal of consternation that I picked up the Virginian-Pilot several weeks ago to read that the benevolent City of Norfolk was about to gobble up a hunk of Princess Anne County. After reading and digesting this article I learned that the City of Norfolk proposed to furnish street lights, police and fire protection and of all things—sidewalks! I further learned that the reason the city was so anxious to annex this fair land was that it needed more industrial area! For the benefit of the readers who do not know the situation, I would just like to state the facts. Chesapeake Beach does not have city water. We all have our own wells which we like very much. We also have septic tanks. "We have street lights at Chesapeake Beach. We have police protection as adequate as the City of Norfolk will furnish us. The irony of this situation is something to behold. I read in the Ledger-Dispatch every night that the Norfolk Police Department is understaffed and underpaid, and that there are more resignations every month than there are applications for jobs! If the City of Norfolk does not have a Police Department adequate for the present city, how in the name of common sense can it police 33 more square miles?

As for fire protection, we already have a fine volunteer fire department with modern equipment which does its job very well. The city proposes to build a fire station on Little Creek Road. This location would be approximately seven miles from Chesapeake Beach. I might say my house could burn to the ground before said Fire Department could get here. Particularly if it should happen when the Naval Amphibious Base people are going to or from work.

As for the City of Norfolk needing industrial area, don't think for one moment you are coming to Chesapeake Beach to erect a factory! Princess Anne County is already zoned and Chesapeake Beach is zoned for residences except for the few businesses already in existence. These stores are zoned for commercial use.

Last but not least: the city thinks it is entitled to this section because so many of our people work in Norfolk. What a joke! People commute every day from Washington, Delaware to Philadelphia. Also from Connecticut to said that law enforcement officers of both city and county be present, as the problem concerned their departments. "With the help and cooperation of all, I believe we can break up the illegal clubs," he stated, "and that is the goal we ought to shoot at. With that, we'll get rid of most of the things that have plagued us."

An effort had been made at one time, it was revealed by a board member, to police one undesirable club out of existence, but the effort had been rebuffed by the Trial Justice Court. The board member revealed that police had been stationed at the establishment when illegal activity was believed going on. But the operators of the place went into Trial Justice Court and won a decision forcing the police to withdraw.

Try Again, Judge Urges

The case should have been carried on to another court, for a ruling, Judge Kellam declared. "It is my thought," he said, "that in some cases where you know law is being violated you have to fight fire with fire."

Mayor Frank Dasch, of the City of Virginia Beach, who was present at the meeting, called attention to one of the plagues besetting the resort city and the immediate area—the desire of visitors to purchase whisky by the drink. Many of these visitors come from sections of the country where liquor can be bought across the bar, and they expect to find the laws here at least that liberal, he declared. He said the present AEC laws are causing the resort to wither at the vine, and that it will continue to do so until some adjustment is made by the state in recognition of this problem.

Reeves E. Johnson, chief of the Virginia Beach Police Department, noted that the city's policing of the clubs had reduced the number of such establishments from eight to three within the past year. He declared that such policing had put a severe strain on the department, inasmuch as the only way to accomplish the desired result was to station police officers inside the establishments.

Judge Kellam observed that he was of the opinion that this was probably the most effective way and said he would sufficient manpower to do this special type of work.

"If," said Judge Kellam, "there be any law enforcement officers whose honesty and integrity cannot be relied upon, they should be dismissed."

"I believe it is the desire of the people that the laws be enforced," he told the group. "But whether it is the desire or not, as long as they are the laws of the land, they must be enforced."

The gigantic parade will be an outstanding event during the Legion convention which begins with registrations this afternoon and continues through Sunday.

The route of the parade, which will begin rolling down Atlantic Avenue from 9th Street at five o'clock in the afternoon, will be north on Atlantic to 31st Street, thence west to Baltic Avenue, and south on Baltic to 30th Street.

The reviewing stand will be on the corner of Atlantic Avenue at 25th Street. The parade will begin to form at four p. m. at 9th and Atlantic.

The units to participate in the parade are the following, given in their order in the line of march: State police cars, Portsmouth and Norfolk motorcycles, Princess Anne County police car, parade marshal, American Legion officials, Army officials, Marine officials, Coast Guard officials, Federal and Circuit judges, State officials, County officials, Mayor Frank Dasch, of Virginia Beach and City officials.

Next will come the 50th Army Band, Color Guard from Fort Story, Fort Story troops, Marine New York City to work; not to mention the number of people that commute from Elizabeth City, N. C., to the Norfolk Navy Yard. I haven't heard yet that Portsmouth was planning on annexing North Carolina!

We in Princess Anne County are satisfied with our way of life. As we see it, the City of Norfolk can offer us nothing but sidewalks and higher taxes. I might state here that many sections of the city are minus this luxury—sidewalks—that is!

TAKE A WORK

Someone has said that work is 90% attitude, and there's a lot in the statement. We are told that a great deal of nervous trouble is due to the fact that men become bored with their work and fed up. A generation ago when a man went to a doctor suffering from some nervous disorder the doctor would invariably advise him to "take a rest." Today it is recognized that such advice may actually do more harm than good. The man who "takes a rest" may do it by abruptly withdrawing from all his customary activity while providing nothing to take its place. He sits and stewes about his business, or whatever he ordinarily would be doing, so that the cure becomes worse than the sickness.

The fact is that very few of us actually do too much work. We are not overworked so much as we are bored. We have done one kind of thing to the point where we are sick of it. What we need in the way of therapy is not to take a rest but to take a work. We need to do something different from what we have been doing.

Joy in Work

How can you develop a creative attitude toward your job so that you can find constant pleasure in it? You must, first, have a proper incentive for doing your job. At just this point the Protestant Reformation made one of its great contributions. A man could and should work at other things besides religion. Luther declared, "As a matter of fact you did not have to work for your salvation at all. You were saved by faith alone. The man who kept fretting about his salvation was a man who didn't trust God."

When you had experienced salvation you got yourself all your hands, so as to speak. You did not have to worry about yourself any more. You were free to go to work with all your might. And work was something besides singing and praying and going to church. Work was the performance of any worthwhile task that came to hand. When you did whatever job you had, you were, in fact, serving the Lord. Luther said that a housewife who cared well for her family's needs was doing more for the Lord than a lot of professors.

Kind of Work

Of course the kind of work we have to do is a factor in the picture. It must be the sort of job a Christian can do with dignity and zest. A man once came to me deeply disturbed about his job. He was a physicist, well trained in one of our great scientific institutions. He was using all his skill and learning in the perfection of equipment designed to destroy millions of human lives. He knew all the arguments; he had rehearsed them a thousand times. It just bothered him that he should be doing this with all his training. Pagans working beside him were not bothered. But he was.

Suppose you were in advertising. Suppose it was your job to conjure up this guff about why one cigarette is finer and milder than others, about how your filter tip had 12,000 taste buds in it compared with the other fellow's 11,000 taste buds — or whatever it is that filter tips have. How could a man go to his work full of pep, saying: "Boy, O Boy! I'm going to do the Lord's work today. I'm going to sell less nicotine and tar stain than anybody else in the business!" I am not suggesting that such work is wrong. It only seems that a man would feel rather silly doing it.

We are not to judge the thing about it is that a man invariably judges himself. A professor retiring from the Harvard faculty said this: "For

Family Service Beginning at E. Shore Chapel

Beginning Sunday, September 11, a 9:30 a. m. Family Service of morning prayer will be held regularly at Eastern Shore Chapel, Laskin Road. It is announced by the Rev. Henry C. Barton, Jr., rector. This service is in addition to the 8:00 a. m. celebration of the Holy Communion and the 11 o'clock service of morning prayer and sermon.

The basis for the family service is to enable the parents and their children to participate in corporate family worship during a regular service of the church, followed by classes for the children of the Church School.

Beginning for the fall also is the resumption of the meetings of the Young People's Fellowship between the ages of 13 and 17. All interested youth in the community are welcome.

Many years Harvard has paid me for doing what I would gladly have paid it for the privilege of doing, if I could have afforded it. That man knew the joy of worthwhile work. This was the joy Jesus knew when He said: "My Father worketh hitherto, and I work."

Circle Programs At Methodist Church Begin

The ten circles of the Women's Society of Christian Service of the Virginia Beach Methodist Church have begun their fall and winter program this week, according to an announcement by Mrs. George E. This will be the 15th anniversary observance, honoring past presidents of the society. Both the circle program and the program of the general meetings are open to all women of the congregation.

The major project of the fall will be the Fall Festival scheduled for November 10 and 11. Mrs. Snell announces. The women of the society have been working toward this event since last fall. There will be a two-day sale of all kinds of handwork done by the women as well as wood work done by members of the men's organizations of the church. There will also be bake goods and many other items. A luncheon and turkey dinner served by members of the society will be another feature of the festival.

Mr. and Mrs. Basil McVoy Duncan, Jr., of Richmond, are spending two weeks with Mrs. Duncan's parents, Mr. and Mrs. William E. Flournoy, at their home on Fochontas Drive.

Three Story Units March in Parade

The Labor Day celebration in Norfolk, with a morning parade highlighting the schedule of events, called for the Armed Services to march with civic and patriotic groups and labor organizations. Story, representing the Army, responded to the invitation with three units: Headquarters Company, 5th Transportation Battalion Command, 5th Transportation Battalion, commanded by Capt. Gordon E. Cartwright; for the 376th T Battalion, the 46th Duke Company under Capt. Thomas M. Lewis, Jr.; and for the 16th T Battalion, the 34th Duke Company under 1st Lt. Robert A. Kiser.

New Sergeant Major

New Sergeant Major for the command is M/Sgt. Cecil D. Ralston of Sapulpa, Okla., who moves into the key slot after similar duty in the headquarters of the 10th T Battalion. Ralston, with fifteen years of Army service behind him, is no stranger to Story. He was chief clerk in the Post 8-3 from 1947 to 1951 when he left for service in Korea and later on Okinawa. Returning in October, 1953, he became operations sergeant of the 54th (now the 376th) Battalion until the 5th (now the 16th) Battalion expanded to full operation a year later.

Camera Enthusiasts Get Shots of Forestal

Story shuttles got a rare chance for some striking snapshots, courtesy of the U. S. Navy, when its new super-carrier, the USS Forestal moved majestically down Chesapeake Bay and past Story's beaches for her first sea trials. Built at Newport News, the world's largest warship was equally impressive days later when she sailed up the Cape Henry coast, having developed shaft trouble 100 miles out to sea and returned ahead of schedule.

Fla. Joseph Malone, Jr., 'Soldier of the Month'

Honored as Story's Soldier of the Month is Pfc. Joseph J. Malone, Jr., clerk of the 600th Duke Company, a unit of the 10th T Battalion. Malone, 23, entered the Army in June of last year after graduating from St. Louis University where he majored in mathematics. He came to Story the November after taking basic training at Camp Chaffee, Ark. As Soldier of the Month he spends this week at Post Bustin as aide to Brig. Gen. Rush B. Lincoln, Jr., commanding general of the Transportation Training Command.

Snapbox Derby Entertains Fort Story

Sunday quiet in the Hilltop Road section of the post, remote from the troop area, was shattered by joyous whoops and the clatter of dozens of snapbox vehicles as Cub Scouts of the Tanners Creek district of Norfolk staged their annual Cubmobile Derby down a road-off slope of the road. Crowds of parents and relatives accompanied them to the event. The youthful racers, all in the eight-to-ten age group, drove vehicles which had been designed, built and decorated by father-son teams. There were a few spills, but the speed demons came through it unscathed, and looking forward to next year.

Story Men Answer Red Cross Appeal

Monthly payday gave members of the command the opportunity to answer the American Red Cross plea for emergency funds for relief of victims of the flood area. Men were reminded of the widespread destruction in the Northeastern states worst hit by the disaster, and urged to give liberally on a voluntary basis. No total figure on the amount contributed, post-wide was available immediately, but first reports indicate that the response of Story officers and men was characteristically generous.

Fort Story Units Will March in Beach Parade

The annual convention of the State American Legion, to be held at Virginia Beach this year, will be climaxed Saturday, September 10, with an afternoon parade in which, as is customary, Story troops and Dukes will be featured. A 10th T Battalion unit, the 34th Duke Company, commanded by 1st Lt. Jack J. Schwartz, will furnish foot troops, a Color Guard and six amphibious trucks for the event. Col. and Mrs. Geo. E. Woods, Jr., will share the reviewing stand with Legion officials, other representatives of the Armed Services and civilian guests.

The Dental Clinic has two new staff members, both reporting from Fort Sam Houston, Texas, after completing the eight-week Army orientation course at the Medical Service School. They are 1st Lt. Lieutenant Siegel, after graduating from Rutgers University, received his DDS at Temple University School of Dentistry, Philadelphia. Both are members of the American Dental Association and Alpha Omega Dental Fraternity.

47 Students Complete Druk Course

Druk School graduation time came up again, with 47 students completing the eight-week course in operation and maintenance of the amphibious truck which is conducted by the 46th T Company. Honor student of the class, which received its certificates of course completion from Col. Geo. E. Woods, Jr., was 26 year old Pvt. Roy W. Burremer of Blanco, Texas. A farmer and rancher back home before he entered the Army last April, Burremer was assigned to the 46th's 8th Student Company in July. He will be permanently assigned to the "Barra-cudas" unit.

Non-Comm Wives Club Holds First Fall Meeting

First meeting of the post's Non-Commissioned Officers Wives Club of the fall season was held in the dining room of the NCO Mess, with Mrs. Carl E. Wilson, club president, officiating. Members discussed plans for social and charitable activities in the coming months, and also voted on an amendment to the club constitution that would combine the offices of secretary and treasurer. The treasurer elected at the last meeting of the club in June, Mrs. Darrell E. Prater, has since departed Story.

will be helpful in enforcing the law.

These recommendations should be given every consideration and wherever helpful should be put into effect. I cannot impress upon you too forcefully the responsibility which rests upon you to see that the laws are carried out to the fullest degree.

I believe it is the desire of the people that these laws be enforced, but whether it is the desire or not, as long as they are the laws of the land, they must be enforced. I have in the past suggested to the police department that they police these places to death. Until you find a better means of enforcing the law, this method should be carried out.

The grand jury has pointed out that there should be close cooperation between the law enforcement agencies. It seems to me that this is absolutely necessary and the governing bodies of the county and the city and the enforcement force should see that this cooperation is made effective. I am sure the Police Board will give special consideration to the employment of a vice squad. That may be one effective way of helping to break up certain violations. The court stands ready to support you at all times in your efforts to stop these violations and I am sure the Council, the Board of Supervisors and the Police Board stand ready to assist the officers in any way they can. With this cooperation and a determination

Colony Restaurant Exceeds Expectations

"We had heard friends of ours speak most highly of the Colony Restaurant back at our home in Vermont," declared Mr. and Mrs. Fergus Rockwell in a recent letter to the Virginia Beach eating place on Atlantic Avenue.

"When we had the opportunity to visit the Colony we did so, fearing the praise was too high. But to our great joy, the praise had indeed been justified. The courteous and efficient service, the delightful atmosphere and the fine culinary skill of your chef was almost beyond words. You may rest assured that we will pass the word along to our friends. Eating with you was a most delightful and satisfying experience." —adv.

The double ring ceremony was performed by the Rev. Francis H. Strickley. The church was decorated with white flowers, fern and cathedral candles. Miss Annie Mae Gregory accompanied Miss Nellie Mae Barnes who sang "Be-cause" and "The Lord's Prayer."

BACK TO SCHOOL!

Back to school days again! Meals to plan for hungry boys and girls... yes... but aren't they always hungry?

The U. S. Department of Agriculture says we're going to have lots of plentiful foods during the month of September, and many of them real favorites: Beef, pork, fivers, milk and dairy products, along with fresh Italian prunes, lemons, limes, many vegetables and canned tuna and canned grapefruit sections.

The U. S. Department of Agriculture designates the week of September 4-10 (this week) as Pork Week; September 11-17, Western Grapes; September 18-24, Beef, and September 25-October 1, Rice, Broilers and Fryers.

In September, marketing of the spring pig crop will be well under way — providing plenty of pork all through the month. September's cooler weather (we hope) will help revive appetites wilted by this summer's protracted heat. A liberal serving of ham or bacon makes any breakfast better, whether it's served at home or away from home. And, by the way, September is National Better Breakfast Month. An energy-building breakfast is an essential — especially for youngsters returning to school.

This year has been a good grape year in California, where three part of our grapes are grown. This year's crop exceeds last year's by 27% on table grapes and by 40% on raisin types, of which Thompson seedless is the major variety. September's plentiful supply of grapes will be principally of the Thompson seedless and Tokay varieties, with the Emperor grapes coming on later in the month. Concord grapes will also be plentiful.

A wide variety of grades and cuts of beef will be available this month, as all qualities move to market in volume.

The wide selection of grades and cuts for so popular an item as beef offers opportunity for many delightful meals. Hearty stews made from beef and potatoes combined with other vegetables is a mighty good suggestion, tuned to cooler weather and keener appetites. Hamburgers, hot dogs and steaks are all top attractions for end-of-season outdoor meals.

Rice will be plentiful in September as the new crop of some 4½ million pounds moves to market. Be sure you help eat your share of rice, whether it be in rice pudding — with various meats or fowl — when serving Chinese dishes.

You can count on plenty of broilers and fryers this month. Marketings are expected to run about 15% ahead of this time last year. That will provide plenty of broilers and fryers for use in all the ways they've gained popularity for. These tender young birds go especially well with rice and with all the vegetables abundant at this season. Broilers and fryers will be mighty fine eating — served with fluffy rice during the Poultry Festival from September 28 to October 8. Sounds good, doesn't it? So please don't forget to shop for plentiful foods! Bye, now...

Driftwood Aging Is Nature's Way Of Beautifying

Nature's caprices bring about constant changes in the outdoors, and with striking results, for she can do no wrong in color and composition. Her palette has inspired costume couturiers, interior decorators, and perhaps most of all — architects.

Furthermore, Nature's components achieve character and charm with age, much like a beautiful woman, growing lovelier with maturity.

A case in point is a 20-year-old vacation house on the beach of Oahu in Hawaii. This comfortable and attractive structure, built of unfinished Douglas fir lumber, has withstood incessant rainstorms and tropical weather freakishness for nearly a quarter of a century — weathering graciously to a soft, driftwood gray.

This house, owned by friends of vacationing George Whittier, A. I. A., so impressed the prominent northwest architect that wood has become one of his prime construction materials in residential design. Whittier points out that the Oahu house, built of vertical fir siding, has only a single wall with "exposed studs on the inside. The rough fir floors have been polished by surf bathers' bare feet for a generation and have taken on a smooth patina almost impossible to attain with sanding and finishing.

"And the house fits so comfortably into the site," Whittier says. "The weathered gray rough siding blends with the foliage, the sea, and looks at though it might have been planted there along with the vegetation."

Whittier notes that the fir construction of the cottage gives the occupant a feeling of complete casualness, so necessary in a vacation spot, and increasingly desirable in all of today's informal living.

PLENTIFUL TREES

There are 1027 different species of trees in the United States and Alaska, yet one half of the nation's annual softwood requirements are manufactured from a single species — Douglas fir. This species is unique in that it is very strong for its weight, and thus one of the most popular kinds of lumber for framing, floor joists, rafters and structural timbers, yet has beauty which makes it most attractive for interior finish and exterior siding.

GARDEN GUIDE

By BARTOW H. BRIDGES, JR.

HURRICANES AND HEDGE SHEARS

Our two recent hurricane friends certainly left their marks on many of the plants within a mile of the ocean. Connie, after having waded in the sea for so many days, must have picked up a lot of salt spray before the moved north by way of Atlantic Avenue. The two hurricanes were bad enough, but during the same period we had several days of hard east wind which was bad on the plants by bringing in more salt water spray.

It is the salt spray that turns foliage brown on many plants. You will notice that leaves on the southeast side of large numbers of plants look as though they are scorched.

As was mentioned in an earlier "Garden Guide," except for washing off the foliage with fresh water as soon as possible after the storm, not much can be done. We can expect replacement of dead leaves on most plants before winter and on others by next spring. There is a weeping willow tree on Atlantic Avenue that had all of its foliage whipped off by the storms, but an entire set of new leaves has formed and the tree looks very healthy now.

Hedge Shears

Incidentally, if you have not clipped the shrubs around your house recently, it certainly should be done now. Plants like ligustrum, euonymus, abelia, Russian olive, pittosporum, Chinese holly and many others need cutting back every four to six weeks from the middle of spring to the middle of fall — assuming they are grown. When a plant is allowed to send out long vigorous shoots it loses much of its appeal. Also, most of the strength of the plant is sent into these few long shoots rather than being distributed throughout the plant. Cutting back this vigorous growth causes many smaller branches to form on the remainder of the branch. The strength of the plant is divided into many smaller branches and a more compact plant results.

Often people ask how they can prevent their shrubs from looking so stiff and formal after trimming. Some gardeners prefer the severe appearance but others had rather have their plants more graceful and informal. It takes a little more time to get the informal effect but it certainly can easily be done. Instead of using hedge shears, do the cutting with pruning shears. With the short blades of pruning shears, only one stroke, but an entire set of new leaves, therefore it is natural that the branches will be cut at varying lengths and result in an uneven appearance.

Nature Puts The Beauty In Wood

Many times the question is put to lumber men: What causes the "grain" in softwood boards?

Grain is caused by alternate layers of spring and summer wood as a tree grows. In the wet spring months, after a softwood tree comes out of its semi-dormant state, when the sap starts to flow freely, softwood trees grow rapidly. The layer of wood put on during this period is porous. During the dry summer months, when there is little moisture, tree growth slows down and the layer of wood put on is dense and relatively hard.

Thus, when a round log is sawed into square boards, the saw cut across the grain, making fascinating patterns, whorls, tracings and texture. The log can be sawn to get vertical grain boards for flooring and where wear is important, or the log can be quarter-sawn to get a modified grain or full tangential to the annual rings to get the full effect of the beauty and character of the wood.

FIRST WHITE LOGGER

The famed British explorer, Captain James Cook, in 1778 on Nootka Sound, Vancouver Island, logged the first Douglas fir trees ever used by white men, for masts for his ships, the Discoverer and the Resolution.

TEEN-AGERS' TEETH

Teen-agers who drink water containing fluorides during their first 13 to 14 years have considerably less tooth decay than those whose drinking water lacks this mineral, according to a study at Montana Experiment Station under the direction of Dr. Lura M. Odland. Montana college freshmen who had lived 15 years in areas where the water supply contained fluorides were examined by dentists during the survey. The more fluorides in the water, up to one part per million, the fewer decayed, missing, or filled teeth were found.

Results similar to the college study were shown by dental examinations in two Montana cities, one with no fluorides in the water supply and the other having one part fluoride per million parts water. Teeth were examined 100 to 150 in each city. Diet records, dental examinations, and blood tests also were made. The people who drank water containing fluorides had twice as much evidence of tooth decay and needed twice as much dental work as those who drank water containing fluorides. Dr. Odland comments that researchers in other states have made studies which show similar results.

One finding made during the course of the Montana survey was that 85 percent of the young people examined in the two cities needed some dental attention and 25 per cent of these cases were urgent. The girls had poorer teeth than the boys, possibly because girls get their teeth earlier than boys and because these girls had diets lower in essential nutrients than the boys.

CANNING TOMATOES

Canning is still the best way of preserving some fruits and vegetables, while still others are equally good, canned or frozen. So much is said about home-freezing foods these days that it is worth noting that many thrifty families with home gardens or farms are still canning fruits and vegetables.

Take tomatoes, one of the most popular garden crops. They're easiest of all to can — and canning is the best way to preserve them. It's true that tomato juice or puree freezes well, but it's successfully and easily canned too. Frozen whole tomatoes are hard to handle, not attractive, soften and leak when thawing or after being cut, and fall apart quickly. If you're putting up tomatoes, remember they call for no pressure canning and they may be packed in jars, cold or hot, before the jars are processed in the hot water bath.

The cold pack is easy and convenient: Use only ripe, perfect tomatoes. Dip them into boiling water for about half a minute, then quickly into cold water, to make peeling easy. A wire basket or thin cloth is convenient for holding the tomatoes during dipping.

Cut out the stem ends, slip off the skins. Tomatoes may be left whole for canning, or halved or quartered. Pack raw tomatoes into clean jars. Fill jars to full space. Add salt — 1/4 teaspoon to a pint jar, 1/2 teaspoon to a quart. To remove air bubbles, work a knife down the jar sides. Add more tomatoes, if needed, to fill the jar again to 1/2 inch from the top. Then wipe jar rim clean and adjust jar lid.

Have some hot, but not boiling water in water bath canner. Put filled jars on rack in the canner. Add boiling water, if needed, to bring water one or two inches above jar tops. Put lid on canner, bring water to boiling, and process: pint jars, 25 minutes; quart jars, 45 minutes. Complete sealing type.

If you're short on storage space and want your canned tomatoes to be more compact, use the hot pack.

NEW LEMONADE POWDER

Lemonade powder is the latest of the fruit powders to be developed by U. S. Department of Agriculture scientists at the Western Regional Research Laboratory, Albany, Calif. Like the orange-juice and tomato-juice powders previously produced at this laboratory, the lemonade powder is quick and easy to use. It dissolves instantly in cold water to make lemonade equal in flavor and nutritive value to that prepared from freshly squeezed lemons. The powder is convenient to ship and store and needs no refrigeration.

The new product, rich in natural flavor was prepared at the laboratory from lemon juice and sugar with only a trace of stabilized lemon oil added. Essentially the product is lemonade as made from fresh lemons, minus only the water. It is produced by a puff-drying process worked out at the laboratory which includes drying a concentrate of fresh lemon juice under vacuum with minimum heat and boiling rapidly. A porous, fluffy crystalline substance forms. This is broken up, ground and packaged.

Keeping the powder dry is so important for holding its flavor and nutritive value that manufacturers quality during extended storage that the scientists not only package it in a moisture-proof container but also use an in-package desiccant — that is, a moisture-absorbing substance — in a small envelope in the container. This reduces the moisture in the powder to 1% or less.

No grocery shelves will be offering the new powder for this summer's lemonade. Neither lemonade powder nor tomato juice powder is produced commercially as yet. The orange juice powder is in commercial production but so far it is going only to large quantities, such as for institutional use.

Trim Appearance Obtained By Defining Edge Of Garden Area

It takes a trim, neat arrangement of grass and flower areas, as well as healthy plants, to make a lawn look its best. That is the advice of landscape artists, who also urge that lawn care begin early in the spring.

To facilitate planning and maintenance, the experts recommend the use of garden edging to define the various planting zones. A standard industrial building material, corrugated asbestos-cement, has been found well suited for the purpose. It will remain in place indefinitely without rotting.

Strips cut from sheets of the corrugated material can be used for edging lawns and garden plots to prevent washaways, for edging raised flower beds and for retaining levels of earth in terracing.

Some building materials dealers carry ready-cut strips. Others usually can obtain strips or large sheets from the suppliers of asbestos siding and other asbestos-cement materials. Sheets can be cut lengthwise, with the corrugations, by scoring and breaking. The area to be cut should be wet with water and scored on both sides with an awl or other sharp cutting tool. Then break over the edge of a work table or other straight, solid edge. A power saw equipped with a carbide-tipped blade will cut across corrugations and, of course, lengthwise of the sheet.

For continuous edging, strips can be joined by splicing with a scrap of the same material about two corrugations wide. Drill holes with a power drill and use rust-proof stove bolts.

Edging strips should be embedded so that a minimum of eight inches or one-third of the depth of the strip is firmly in the soil.

BOSSSES RATE OLDER FOLKS GOOD WORKERS

People who stay on the job in their sixties and seventies can be good workers and usually are, according to authorities who should know — their supervisors. In a University of Illinois survey, supervisors in 20 companies, rated 1,025 older workers with these results: In over-all performance, 18% were excellent, 32% very good, 36% good. Seventy per cent were absent less often than their younger colleagues.

Fishermen say that south and west winds are the best winds for fishing.

Asbestos Sheets Ideal For Barns

A building material with an established record in rugged industrial construction has been found especially suitable for the building of one-story barns, farm construction experts report. The product, asbestos-cement in corrugated sheets, is noncombustible, rotproof, rustproof and highly resistant to rodents.

One-story barns, because of recent developments in feeding practices and ensilage use, have grown in use. For such construction, corrugated asbestos-cement sheets can be used for the exterior, roof and side-walls. Similar material, flat asbestos board, makes an excellent interior lining.

Rains Likely Reduced Insect Infestations

Reduction of some insect injury in Virginia crops is likely as a result of recent heavy rains, says Arthur P. Morris, associate entomologist at VPI.

He says further that plants likely have enough moisture to grow out of or overcome insect damage in some cases. This is true of alfalfa and other forage crops that were being damaged by potato leafhoppers, lygus bugs, and several other pests.

The rains probably prevented the laying of corn earworm eggs on soybeans, cotton and peanuts, or in some instances, washed the eggs off the plants. This relief, however, can only be considered temporary, and crops should still be watched closely.

Grasshoppers are beginning to damage tobacco in widely separated fields, and controls are being needed in some areas.

The first report of the year of the congregation of box-elder bugs around dwellings before hibernation has been received. The black and red insects are harmless—but unwelcome. They are more easily controlled in the fall.

Elm leaf beetles are now attracting a lot of attention because of the damage they have done to elm leaves, but it is too late to control them effectively this year. Insecticides should be applied in the spring on a community-wide basis. Treatment of individual trees is not practical nor effective.

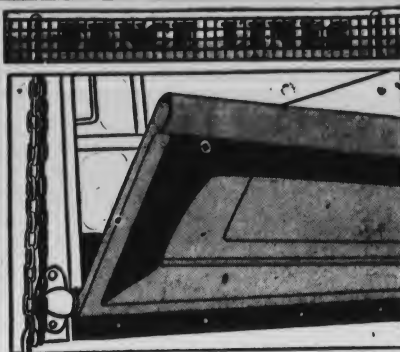

Bagworms on ornamental evergreens are also causing widespread damage. They can be controlled by insecticides at this time of the year. They also can be picked off by hand now or during the winter and burned.

Bulk Tank Best When Big Enough for 4 or 5 Milkings

What size bulk tank will your dairy farm need? Dairy husbandmen at VPI say it depends on herd size, pickup schedule, and expected dairy herd increase in the next few years.

They suggest this rule of thumb: Buy one big enough to hold three milkings during the flush season where there's an everyday pickup. If milk is hauled every other day, the tank will need to hold five milkings.

A number of different bulk tanks are available, but there are two main types—ice-bank tanks and direct expansion tanks. The ice-bank tanks use ice water for cooling. The refrigerating coils freeze a bank of ice which keeps the cooling water near 32°.

The cold water sprays against the sides and ends of the milk tank. Some ice-bank tanks are cooled on just three sides, while others are cooled on all sides.

Direct expansion tanks don't have an ice-bank or a cold water spray. Instead, the refrigerating coils are installed tight against the wall of the milk tank. The milk cools when it comes in contact with this cold wall.

The direct expansion tanks usually cost more to buy, but are cheaper to operate than ice-bank coolers.

Ice-bank tanks move the heat from the milk into the milk house over a relatively long period. That makes a more even milk house temperature than a direct expansion cooler that delivers all the heat out of the milk and into the house in a short period.

The milk house must be well ventilated to remove this heat during the summer months. High milk house temperatures increase the operating cost.

Apple Scald Can be Reduced

Apple scald, variously called storage scald, costs money. But it can be reduced, says Dr. George Mattus, associate horticulturist at VPI Agricultural Experiment Station.

The season is one of the most important factors in scald development. If the average temperature is high the last few weeks before harvest, severe scald may be expected. Some apple varieties scald worse than others. Virginia apples which may scald severely are Black Twiz, Grimes, Stayman, Rome and York. Moderate scald may develop on Pippin and Winesap. Those that scald slightly are Delicious, Golden Delicious and Jonathan.

The less mature apples are when harvested, the more they will scald. Don't store immature fruit. Proper fruit maturity is the best pre-storage safeguard a grower has in keeping down losses from scald.

In packing apples, use oiled wraps or a half-pound of shredded oiled paper per bushel of fruit. This is a standard practice that helps retard scald.

Box liners of gas-tight materials or pre-packaging containers that confine the atmosphere around the apples during storage tend to increase scald.

Apples stored in field crates are not treated with oiled paper.

VPI Call Born From Frozen Semen
A Holstein heifer calf, aptly named "Defrost," has been born at VPI. She is the first calf born in Virginia as the result of the use of frozen semen.

Paul M. Reeves, professor of dairying at VPI, says several experiment stations and commercial laboratories have been working on the possibilities of freezing bull semen. The process, if developed into a practical working system, would greatly extend the use of the artificial breeding technique and the use of top proved sires.

It might even result in a sort of bovine immortality. The semen from top-flight bulls might be from and used after their death.

The work on the freezing method at VPI was part of a class in artificial breeding under Reeves' supervision. A few cows were artificially inseminated with semen that had been frozen and held and Defrost (full name, VPI Jessie Katrina Defrost) is the first calf born after its use.

Practically speaking, the process is as yet too expensive for widespread use. Special equipment must be available for freezing, holding and handling from semen. It must be kept at minus 110°F. until ready for use when it is thawed rather quickly.

The freezing process is done by adding the usual semen diluter and then adding glycerol. The glycerol-diluter-semen mixture is held at 40°F. for 12 to 14 hours for equilibration. It is then frozen quickly in a mixture of methanol and dry ice. The almost instant freezing keeps ice crystals from forming within the cell and lets the sperm live in a dormant condition.

The process allows greater use of proved sires, and would make selected sires available at any time, Professor Reeves explains.

Plant Diseases Appear For First Time in State

Some new troubles in the form of plant diseases have arrived to plague Virginia farmers.

S. E. Fenne, plant pathologist at VPI, says during the current season a great rot of potato showed up in Page County. The fungus and the disease caused by it have been reported previously in Virginia, and apparently has been recognized only a few times in the United States. The diseased potatoes from Page had symptoms similar to those of cold injury.

Downy mildew of small grains was found in Henrico. A single 37-acre field of river bottom land, which is subject to spring floods, and which was sown with a mixture of wheat, oats, and barley, was infected. It is estimated that 40% of the grain was destroyed.

A field of Wong barley being produced as the first crop on cleared land in Bedford County contained patches of plants showing leaf spotting unlike any previously seen by VPI pathologists.

Two new tree diseases, yellow blight of Lombardy poplar and needle rust of loblolly pine, were found in Montgomery and Augusta Counties, respectively. The particular fungus causing the needle rust was said to be known to oc-cure in New Jersey and Ohio, but not previously in Virginia.

In addition to the diseases borne wheat mosaic was found. Accra County again in 1954. It was first reported there in 1944. Mosaic was present in wheat yield tests at the Experiment Station both years and was reported in Tennessee and other rye varieties in 1954.

Pistons of motor cars are now with tin which serves as a catalyst during the bread-making process.

Death Rate Rises With Mercury; Temperature Affects Many Ills

A sudden spell of hot weather brings a sharp increase in deaths, especially among the aged and the chronically ill, and increases the need for special care for such persons.

When, in early July in New York City, temperatures for six days of one week ran above 87 degrees — and on four successive days above 90 degrees with a high of 94 — deaths rose 39.7% over those for the comparable week in 1954. The 1954 temperature averaged 71.1 degrees, with a high of 83.

Deaths from high blood pressure increased most — by 115%. Venous thrombosis accounted for an increase of 61.1% and arteriosclerotic heart disease for 32.7%. Cancer deaths increased by 31.6% in the 1955 hot week over the figures for the 1954 week of moderate temperatures.

As the numbers of persons past 60 in our population increase, the fatal effects of heat may be expected to become a matter of ever-growing concern. There are approximately 14 millions in that age group today, and by 1960, the number will have increased to about 16 millions.

Although diseases involving the heart and blood vessels are still common causes of death among the elderly, new scientific developments are producing drugs to combat them. For the painful heart condition known as angina pectoris, a new drug — a first cousin to nitroglycerin — has been established as the most effective in prevention of angina attacks.

For high blood pressure, there is a new drug, hexamethonium chloride, taken by mouth. It has been adjudged a valuable agent for the control of runaway pressure. An original oral form has recently been combined with reserpine, the "tranquilizing agent" derived from the root Rauwolfia which Indian physicians have been using for hundreds of years. Studies have shown that the combination relieves symptoms of high blood pressure with small doses. Heat is becoming less of a hazard to life and health as a result of medical discoveries, of new temperature controlling devices and new advances in engineering.

Single room air conditioning units are now commonplace and the promise is made by heating engineers that year-round heating-cooling units, run by nuclear power, may be available for private homes in less than a decade.

Hunger Elected Princess Anne ASC Chairman

Results of the ASC committee elections held recently are announced as follows:

W. F. Hunger of London Bridge was re-elected chairman; Russell Dudley of Back Bay, vice chairman; and John A. Bagan of St. Brides, regular member. Alternates to the county committee, chosen at the same time by farm-elected delegates to the county convention, are W. W. Lupton of Princess Anne and B. F. Ferrell of Kempville.

Farmers also elected a community committee of three farmers in each of Princess Anne County's five communities.

Lynnhaven District: R. M. Malbon, chairman; Carl Rau, vice chairman; R. A. Midgett, regular member.

Pungo Community: A. E. Williams, chairman; Irvin Vaughan, vice chairman; Garland Penters, regular member.

Kempville Community: Stanley Oliver, chairman; A. C. Brown, vice chairman; R. H. Deford, regular member.

Blackwater Community: George A. Waller, chairman; Earl Teabak, vice chairman; Frank Borovich, regular member. Committee took office last week and will serve for one year. They will act as a policy determining body, making program recommendations, establish acreage allotments, allocate ACP funds, approve important documents and make important decisions affecting farmers in the county. Matters of program detail operations will be handled by the county office manager and his staff.

"That the Youth may be properly educated in good Letters and Manners"

Soon to Take Part in Jamestown Anniversary, William and Mary College Was Founded in 1697

Seven miles inland from the first permanent English settlement in America and 90 years after that settlement, the College of William and Mary in Virginia opened its doors . . . that the Youth may be properly educated in good Letters and Manners . . .

Two years from now the historic College at Williamsburg will reach back 350 years to extend its gratitude to the valiant band of settlers who arrived at Jamestown in 1607.

As its part in the extensive national plans for the 350th Jamestown anniversary, William and Mary is planning a series of special events for 1957.

Dr. Earl G. Swem, Librarian Emeritus and chairman of the college's 12-member Jamestown steering committee, says the college is working closely with officials of the Jamestown Festival in an effort to find how the college can best contribute to the festival's success.

Setting Days Aside
Already, said Dr. Swem, William and Mary is setting aside numerous special days to emphasize the significant influence which certain William and Mary individuals have had on the development of higher education in America.

"And there will be a number of other special events," he adds. "We're considering a pageant, in which we shall depict important

The pageant would be presented not only in Williamsburg, but also in Richmond and Norfolk, where affiliates of the college have been established.

Although still in the discussion stage, a special observance is also being considered in honor of the English and Scottish universities.

"That's where the early professors at William and Mary were trained," noted Dr. Swem, "and it's only fitting and proper that we include them in our plans."

If those plans materialize, representatives of the English and Scottish universities will be invited to William and Mary for the observance.

To Remember Neglected Men
Dr. Swem said that plans were also under way to develop interest in several eminent William and Mary men who have been neglected in the "glory that has necessarily enveloped Jefferson, Wythe, and others."

Owen, the famous Welsh poet, was at one time (1768-1769) master of the Grammar School at William and Mary.

Bellini became the first professor of modern languages in a college in the United States when he was named to the professorship at William and Mary in 1778.

Clayton, one of the most distinguished botanists of the 18th century, was an ardent admirer of the college and his father was a member of its board of visitors in the early years of its history.

Rogers, founder of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, was an alumnus of William and Mary and the first state geologist of Virginia. He was the son of Professor Patrick Rogers and one of four brothers who attended William and Mary.

Parks, the first permanent printer in Virginia, printed the first issue of the Statutes of the College. He was a correspondent of Benjamin Franklin, who, incidentally, received the first honorary degree from William and Mary, in 1756.

St. Christopher Wren, the architect, is believed to be the designer of William and Mary's first academic building. The Wren Building, three burned and twice submerged by the tides of war, still stands as a tribute to the architectural genius of that noted Englishman.

Famous Alumni
Other names will be added to the list as plans for the nationwide celebration progress.

"We'll naturally include special observances in honor of such famous alumni and friends of the college as George Washington, John Marshall and George Wythe, and it is hoped that the three 18th century historians of Virginia, Robert Beverley, the Reverend Hugh Jones, and the Reverend William Smith may be commemorated on one day.

"Nor will we forget the three Presidents of the United States who were William and Mary alumni—Thomas Jefferson, James Monroe and John Tyler."

"In fact," he added jovially, "if we observed special days for every distinguished person who has been associated with William and Mary, I imagine we'd have a special ceremony every day during 1957."

Assisting Dr. Swem in the college's participation in the Jamestown Festival is William and Mary Librarian William G. Harkins, who is serving as executive secretary of the committee.

Other committee members, who were appointed four months ago, are Dr. William W. Abbot, III, assistant professor of history; Roger W. Dudley, director of public relations; Herbert L. Genter, archivist; Dr. Andrew C. Hale, associate professor of music; Miss Althea Hunt, professor of fine arts; James S. Kelly, alumni secretary; Dr. Ben C. McCary, associate professor of modern languages; Dr. Richard Lee Morton, professor of history; Howard M. Scammon, assistant professor of fine arts, and Thomas Thorne, associate professor of fine arts.

Dr. J. T. Baldwin, professor of biology; Dr. J. Worth Banner, professor of modern languages, and Dr. A. L. Cancetta, associate professor of economics, have been appointed as special committee members. Others are scheduled to be added as plans for the celebration are developed.

TWO CONVICTIONS IN GAMBLING CASES

SULLIVAN AND VINCI SENTENCED; OUT ON BOND PENDING ARGUMENTS

Two persons were convicted and four persons acquitted last week in the Princess Anne County Circuit Court on gambling charges which grew out of indictments handed down by a special crime-investigating grand jury last month.

Convicted were Phillip J. Sullivan, 48, and James Landon Vincil, about 38. Sullivan was found guilty on two counts of operating the gaming game for roulette games in the Pine Room of the Surfcomber Restaurant in North Virginia Beach.

Sullivan's sentence was set as four months in jail and a fine of $700. The jury specified two months in jail and $350 fine on each count.

Vincil was found guilty on one count of operating a gaming game at the Latin Quarter in Virginia Beach. Sentence was set at 90 days in jail and a fine of $750.

Attorneys for both men offered motions to the court to set aside the jury verdicts as contrary to the evidence and the law. Circuit Court Judge Floyd E. Kellam has set October 3 as the date to hear arguments in each case. Meanwhile, both men are free under $2,500 bonds each.

Three men and one woman were acquitted by the jury. They were James E. Callahan, of Norfolk; Leonard Byrd, of Virginia Beach; Grace Rose Walters, of Norfolk; and Jack Kane, president of the Surfcomber Restaurant, which property adjoins the Surfcomber Room.

Newspaper reporters and a newspaper photographer who visited the Pine Room and secured pictures of open gambling in early August testified that they had seen Sullivan handling the roulette game.

Sullivan entered a plea of guilty after the testimony was in and took the stand. He testified that he was employed at the Beach Plaza Hotel as an assistant manager and that his hours of work were from 4 p.m. until midnight. He said he was employed at the Pine Room in July and that he would report there after midnight.

Vincil was described as the manager of the Latin Quarter and he, too, was identified by a newspaper reporter as the man he saw running a black jack card game. The jury heard the cases against Vincil and Mrs. Walters together and after deliberating for more than one hour, brought in an acquittal verdict for Mrs. Walters and a guilty verdict for Vincil.

In Kane's case it was brought out that the Surfcomber and Pine Room operation was leased by the Surf Beach Club to P. D. "Spot" Ferguson. Kane had a copy of the lease and read portions of it to the jury.

Eleven persons were indicted on 19 counts by the grand jury last month but the six tried last week are the only ones, so far, that law enforcement officials have located since the indictments were handed down.

At the same time it was announced that the Virginia Beach members of the Tidewater Regional Planning Committee have been named. These include Frank D. Tarrall, Jr., J. Sidney Banks and J. Roy Alphin.

The Virginia Association of Rescue Squads, Inc. will hold its twentieth annual convention at Virginia Beach, Sept. 23-25, with the local Rescue Squad acting as hosts. Crews and their families from forty-two member squads are expected to attend. Headquarters for the convention will be at the Gay-Pinewood Hotel.

"Many of the little children you see at Virginia Beach and in Princess Anne County came from the 'Children's Home Society in Richmond,'" Mrs. Richard Cooke said last week, appealing for full support of the fund drive being launched Monday on a statewide basis for the Home.

"The children adopted from the Society's Home have brought untold love and happiness into otherwise childless homes," she said, "and have brought understanding and love to the same number of orphans."

The drive will last for two weeks and people of the city and county are asked to "have a heart" and contribute liberally to the cause.

"When you are asked for your contribution, please give with both pleasure and generosity, knowing that you are having a part in the wonderful work of the Children's Home Society," Mrs. Cooke said.

Subjects covered in the course include Seamanship, Rules of the Road, Lights and Equipment, the Buoyage System of the U. S., the Compass and its Errors, Charts and Piloting, and Manners and Customs at Sea. In addition to the lectures, movies and other teaching aids are used to illustrate the principles involved. As part of the course the student is required to do the actual chart work necessary for a cruise in unfamiliar waters, he must plot the courses to be run, figure the time of arrival at various points and determine his position through bearings taken along the way.

The text book used is Chapman's "Piloting and Small Boat Handling." If the student successfully passes the examination he receives a certificate and becomes eligible for membership in the local squadron. Those who join the squadron may take additional courses which include Advanced Piloting, Celestial Navigation, Seamanship, Motor Maintenance and Weather.

This course has been given for the past four years at the Cavalier Yacht and Country Club. Some of the local boatmen who have completed the course are J. C. Law, Jr., R. B. Richardson, Marvin H. Marshall, W. A. Cox, N. G. Wilson, H. E. Savage, Sterling Holcombe, Aubrey Waller, Harold Ritter, Jim Van Loon, W. H. Terry, Dr. B. B. Battlemann, Karl Wunder, Col. Robert F. Fulton, T. J. Peck, David Pender, III, H. H. Marshall, Jr., W. A. Sheban, and Stanley A. Mundy, who is Commander of the Elizabeth River Squadron.

Additional work, Chitty said, will be the restoration and painting of the 164-year-old framework that supports the canopy, and repairs to old brick and stone loosened by a century and a half of storms and hurricanes. "But," Chitty yawned, "these old buildings certainly used the best iron. The body of it, after all that time, is still in good shape."

This week the Roof Engineering Corporation of Norfolk began work that should see the canopy restored by the end of the month. W. E. Chitty, a

City Officials at Municipal Parley

The League of Virginia Municipalities has been meeting at the Chamberlin Hotel in Old Point Comfort this week and most city officials of Virginia Beach have attended some of the sessions.

Mayor Frank A. Dusch joined with other city heads and city councilmen at the meeting on Monday. Panel discussions of common city problems were held.

On Tuesday W. G. Holland, Virginia Beach's building inspector, presided at the morning session. Police Chief Reeves E. Johnson was on the program at this meeting having as his subject "Compulsory Off-Street Parking."

The panel was a part of the annual meeting of the building, plumbing and electrical officials conference.

Developments during the week in Norfolk City indicate that a lively fight is shaping up that will pit a group of citizens against the City administration.

Monday night the Tidewater Creek Democratic Club went on record as backing the referendum but did not take a stand for or against annexation. It was only last January 1 that the Tidewater Creek District became a part of the City of Norfolk.

Spencer has released the names of the other seven members of the committee. They are John M. Stokley, of 7438 Hampton Boulevard, who will serve as treasurer; Philip Berlin, 912 Rowland Drive; Charles A. Scott, 2610 Harvard Avenue; Charles M. Cusack, 184 Belvidere Road; John M. Copeland, 1497 Hadlock Avenue; C. Allen Hurst, 728 Rhode Island Avenue; and J. W. Colman, 914 Phillips Road.

Spencer said there was a political deal in the annexation of Tanners Creek last year, and implied there may be politics in the current move to expand into Princess Anne County.

Rennick Elected Commander of Virginia Legion

Anderson M. Rennick, of Roanoke, was elected commander of the Virginia Department of the American Legion here Sunday.

Rennick, an automobile dealer, was the unanimous choice of the delegates to the convention held here Friday, Saturday and Sunday of last week, which saw one of the most successful convocations of the Legion. He succeeds L. Weldon James of Hampton.

The Virginia Department will hold a fall conference November 5-6 in Alexandria and Roanoke was selected as next year's convention city. The date for the '56 meeting will be announced later by the executive committee.

Among other officers elected at the convention were:

E. Trigg Harrison, Portsmouth, sergeant-at-arms; the Rev. John J. Howard, Blacksburg, department chaplain; Lemuel L. Houston, Fredericksburg, re-elected to a two-year term as national executive committee member; William B. Hopkins, Roanoke, appointed department judge advocate. Mr. Hopkins succeeds H. Les Lam of Virginia Beach.

The new department commander, a member of Roanoke Post No. 3 for the past 25 years, has a record of 18 years with no meetings missed.

Use of Radar Endorsed by Insurance Companies As Means of Cutting Down Traffic Death Increase

The use of radar speed detection devices for the enforcement of traffic laws and the prevention of traffic law violations has been fully endorsed by accident prevention departments of America's insurance companies, among them Thomas N. Boate, manager of the Accident Prevention Department of the Association of Casualty and Surety Companies.

Police use of radar speed detection equipment has been a highly controversial subject for some time. Those opposed to it have claimed chiefly that radar is ineffective as an accident preventive measure and that when used as a speed detection device it is unfair to motorists.

Mr. Boate, formerly head of the traffic division of the Pennsylvania State Police, said that "our national highway toll is approaching 40,000 deaths and one and a half million injuries annually. This appalling situation has created an emergency demanding the use of every lawful means of driver control available to provide strict and protective enforcement of the traffic laws by our police and courts."

"The reductions in traffic accidents and deaths in those states making full and decisive use of radar detection devices," he continued, "should almost claim that radar is ineffective, and in a day when speed is the

CRISP AND GOLDEN BROWN

For a handsome golden brown crust on fried chicken, paprika is suggested by cookery specialists of the U. S. Department of Agriculture. The tender, young broilers and fryers now so plentiful on most markets (and at favorable prices to consumers) deserve the type of cooking that makes them both attractive and appetizing. Paprika is suggested for its color and salt and pepper for seasoning. Mix these three with the flour you roll the chicken in, using paprika generously enough for good color.

Although fried chicken is one of the most famous of American dishes, the department often receives questions about the best methods of cooking it. For example, some ask how to have it crisp and not greasy. Others want to know whether to cover the fry pan or not.

Plan to do the re-sizing job in a room where you can leave the rug to dry thoroughly — at least 24 hours. Lay the clean rug, nap-side down, on the smooth floor with paper around the edges. Tack it at intervals so it'll stay straight.

To make a half gallon of the re-sizing mixture, you'll need a quarter of a pound of glue flake, and two quarts of boiling water. Dissolve the glue flake in the boiling water, and you're ready to go to work.

You can sprinkle the glue mixture on the back of the rug, or you can brush it on. A whitewash bucket is good for the job. Or a whiskbroom or large paint brush will do.

Keep one thing in mind — use the glue sparingly. If it penetrates through the back of the rug it will stiffen the pile. In re-sizing a rug, a little glue goes a long way.

WAX INSIDE OF WASTEBASKET

Here's a neat trick to keep metal and wood wastebaskets from becoming too messy. Just wax the inside of the wastebasket with any polishing type wax you happen to have on hand. Dull, pencil shavings and other loose dirt will stick less to bottom and sides if the basket is waxed.

Suggestions For That School Lunch Box

In many neighborhoods, lunchboxes and children go hand-in-hand back to school. For lunch-time sandwiches, liver sausage salad makes a hearty filling. To make filling for six sandwiches, combine and mix well one-half pound liver sausage, one-fourth cup chopped celery, one-fourth cup chopped sweet pickle, one tablespoon chopped onion, one chopped hard cooked egg and enough salad dressing to bind — about three tablespoons.

Add variety to lunchbox menus by using many types of breads for sandwiches. Your baker has an array of enriched breads that suggests all kinds of sandwich treatments. For a change, use round hamburger buns or long French rolls for meat or cheese sandwiches. Hard rolls topped with poppy or caraway seeds are another possibility. Boston Brown bread, cinnamon bread, raisin bread and nut breads can be used for either main-course or dessert sandwiches. Caraway rye bread, Swedish rye bread or the cracked and whole wheat breads are tasty with sharp cheeses or spicy cold cuts. And don't overlook enriched white bread. It may be had in conventional loaves, as long, slim, French and Italian loaves.

Small fry never seem to tire of peanut butter sandwiches. To add noontime variety to this favorite, place thin slices of banana on top of the peanut butter spread. Fried bacon slices are popular additions, too.

When packing lunches for your school children, or for satisfying those after-school appetites, there is nothing handier than a full cocky jar. Why not get your children in on the fun of keeping it full by letting them choose their favorite recipe? They can produce even make simple drop cookies themselves. Smaller children enjoy cutting cut rolled cookies with fancy cutters. Decorating cookies, especially big, round sugar cookies, is fun, too. Just provide the young decorators with plenty of currants, raisins or bits of candied fruit for "funny faces" and colored sugar or candies for the trimmings.

How can you put new life in an old rug? That's an oft-asked question from homemakers. When the thing is gone from the rug, it is limp and wrinkles easily. But you can re-size it easily if you get the right glue at a

Officers and directors of the Virginia Beach Little Theatre are now in process of laying plans for what they expect to be the biggest year in the history of the organization, according to George T. Mullen, president of the group.

Mr. Arthur Masury has again been selected as director of plays. This will be the sixth season under his direction.

Four shows will be given this year, opening with a comedy on November 7 and 8, a mystery on February 13 and 14, a dramatic production on April 2 and 3, and ending with a farce comedy on May 14 and 15. All plays will be presented in the auditorium of the Virginia Beach High School.

Other committee chairmen appointed for the year are: Samuel C. Foote, Jr., business manager; Mrs. D. Conrad Little, Mrs. A. H.

Reid, Charles N. Fuller, Mrs. Joseph B. Neal and Mrs. Arthur Masury, playreading and pasting; Mrs. J. D. W. Cassada and Mrs. George T. Mullen, co-chairmen of publicity; J. Douglas Hubbard and James A. Johnson, Jr., house; John D. Leitch, Jr., legal adviser; Mrs. Joseph B. Neal, technical director; Mrs. Charles N. Fuller, special events; Mrs. A. Gordon Atwell and Mrs. Leonard H. Barrell, program; Mrs. W. Carey Pennington and Mrs. R. F. Trant, Jr., stage settings; Mrs. Bessie W. Kelly and Mrs. Leo E. Billee, costumes; Allen Tyler, stage manager; Mrs. Henry C. Arnold, properties; Mrs. Richard T. Munford, make-up; Mrs. John K. Anderson, Mrs. Selden Grandy and Mrs. Peyton May, scenic design.

This will be the ninth season for the theatre group at Virginia Beach and it has steadily grown since its inception. Last year was the most successful year in its history, having played several nights to capacity audiences.

Tryouts for the first play will be held on September 24 and 27 in the Little Theatre workshop, which is located in the rear of the Community House, 18th and Arctic. All of those interested in trying out for a part are invited to be present. Title of the first play will be announced shortly.

Achievement Day Furnishes View Of Home Demonstration Activities

A diversity of exhibits at the Princess Anne Home Demonstration Achievement Day furnished a wide view of the activities of the members of the club on Friday night at the Princess Anne High School.

The exhibits showed that the members had a wide knowledge of the work displayed. They were readily answered many questions asked by on-lookers and in many instances demonstrated how the work was done.

The following clubs entered exhibits: Accadale Friendship, which entered an exhibit of seasonal storage; Blackwater, table setting; London Bridge, textile painting;

Lynnhaven, elementary sewing; Pung, home improvements; Eastern Homemakers, will and deeds; Ocean Park, rug making; Accadale Homemakers, health and safety; Indian River Loyalty, meat and main dishes; Glenrock, trays; Thorngood, tailoring.

An inspiring talk was given by the Rev. H. E. Plinton, and Mrs. Brinkley of Norfolk County installed the following officers:

Mrs. Steve Libick, vice president; Mrs. Rose Brubaker, secretary, and Mrs. Rae Donaldson, recording secretary.

Members of the various clubs staged a "Parade of Fashions," all the clothing being worn being made by club members. Miss Shir-

GM Equipping Passenger Cars With Safety Lock

Development of a new type of safety interlocking device to prevent automobile doors from being forced open in the event of collision was announced recently by Fisher Body Division of General Motors.

James E. Goodman, general manager of Fisher Body and vice president of General Motors, revealed that the new interlock is currently being installed in all General Motors passenger cars.

The first installations began in May, Mr. Goodman said. Production and installation of the device followed a long period of development, work and exhaustive testing.

The new interlock device consists of a flange on the door portion of the locking mechanism which overlaps another flange on the striker mounted on the body pillar. This overlapping or interlocking prevents disengagement of the door lock from the striker, thereby preventing doors from opening even under severe driving impacts.

Mr. Goodman stated that exhaustive tests indicate that the new interlock will prove to be a significant advance in automotive safety, and that its introduction is the result of a continuing program devoted to intensive safety engineering.

In one of the severe impact tests conducted by Fisher Body at the General Motors proving ground a car was driven into the side of another car equipped with the safety interlock. Although the standing car was badly damaged, the new device prevented the doors from being forced open.

Body distortion tests were also used which exerted even greater stresses on the body structure at the door openings than would be encountered in the average accident. Here, too, the new interlock kept the door lock and striker fully engaged.

Sales Checker Exam Scheduled

An examination for the position of Sales Checker, GS-3, at $3175 per annum is announced by the Board of U. S. Civil Service Examiners, U. S. Naval Amphibious Base, Little Creek, Norfolk.

The register of eligibles resulting from this examination, which requires a written test and qualifying experience, will be used to fill vacancies in commissaries in the Norfolk Naval Shipyard, the U. S. Naval Base, Norfolk, the Naval Amphibious Base, Little Creek, or in affiliated local Naval activities.

Tests will be conducted by the boards of examiners in each of these locations and applicants may specify in which one of the locations they wish to be tested. Apply at any board at the activities listed above or any post office for application forms or for information as to where they may be obtained.

SEAHAWKS TAKE ON DEEP CREEK IN OPENER

Fourteen Lettermen on '55 Squad; Play Churchland Here on 23rd

With a record of twenty wins out of their last 23 games, the fourth edition of Virginia Beach Seahawks journey to Deep Creek tomorrow night to inaugurate their 1955 campaign.

This year's squad of Seahawks is comprised of a nucleus of 14 lettermen plus a handful of unseasoned and untired rookies hopefuls. Again injuries could be the deciding factor as to whether or not successful season is accomplished in the Seahawk camp. The first eleven should enter any game this year on equal footing with their opponents - but after that? If a few of the inexperienced griders come through this night will be another good season for the locals.

The Seahawks schedule at home this year, will compare the best array of contests ever played on the field of the Va. Beach Memorial Stadium. Included this year are the following:

Sept. 23—Churchland
Sept. 30—Fogusoon (Beach Bowl)
Oct. 14—Suffolk
Oct. 26—Great Bridge
Nov. 11—Princess Anne
Coach Fred Isaacs commences his fourth year at the helm of the locals and will receive able assistance from fine Coach Jim Cook, End Coach Charles Modlin and Asst. Backfield coach Claude King. The coaching staff says that the boys are all in good physical condition and are ready for their first game.

The Seahawks reportedly have come up with another "pony express" backfield. Each started in the backfield boasts of 3 years' experience. Making up this foursome are Tommy Barnes at quarterback, Dean Wyrick at fullback, Leigh Forbes, Ken Sydenstricker and Don Batcher at halfbacks.

Refresher Course In Moving Boat Through Shallow Water Given

With the duck season almost upon us, a refresher course in moving a boat through shallow water might be in order, says Ted Kesting, editor of Sports Afield magazine. In doubtful waters the small boat man should always proceed cautiously and maintain a sharp lookout ahead. If the water is muddy, he can feel his way ahead with an oar.

Much can be told about the location of shallow spots or channels by examining the shore line and anything protruding above the surface — stumps, pilings, lily pads. A steep bank usually means deep water; points have bars of them; birds standing "ankle deep" means a bar. When a river or creek widens, watch out for more shallows. Shallow water may exhibit a different color from deep water.

In questionable shallow water, moving takes the place of running very slowly. Not only is the chance of serious damage reduced, but if the boat does run aground, it won't be so fast that reverse, or other simple means, can't pull the boat off.

Neutral in an outboard is a great aid in shallow-water navigating. The operator can silence the propeller at once if in imminent danger of hitting, or stop without drifting off course while trying to decide where to go.

The draft on any small boat can be markedly affected by the way the load is placed. The bow or stern can be easily sunk down. The best load arrangement for slow speed is likely to be different from that for fast. Nearly always, the outboard draws the least water while on an even keel.

If your boat becomes firmly stuck and the motor won't free it — or can't be run because the prop won't clear — then what? Sports Afield's boat and motor editor, Willard Crandall, says the standard method is to shove with an oar or paddle. Both methods are also sometimes used with larger boats. Rocking a small boat while standing in the opposite end that is stuck often helps. Pulling at the same time can help, especially to break the suction if stuck in mud. But then watch you don't get stuck.

Use caution if you do get stuck. Violent rocking may free the boat but also spring or loosen the hull, especially with a light boat. If these methods fail, dragging or lifting comes next. And then there are times when waiting for help saves trouble and useless struggle.

No. 61 — Jumper Champion: Won by Mr. and Mrs. S. B. Cox's Queen of Spades with Bobby Cox in the saddle.

No. 62 — $150 Championship Stake: Won by Velvet Sensation, owned and ridden by T. L. Morgan.

No. 63 — $50 Walk-Trot Pony Stake: Won by A. F. Comer's Little Pippin, ridden by Keith Wilder.

LT. WHITMAN CROSS TAKING PART IN NATIONAL PISTOL MATCHES

Fort Story's 2d Lt. Whitman Cross, II, has journeyed with the All-Army Pistol Team to Camp Perry, Ohio, where he is firing in the 1955 National Pistol Matches. The country's top small arms competitive event. The Philadelphia officer is one of 30 marksmen surviving the nine-week practice and elimination firing at Fort Benning, Ga., where a tentative squad of 50 was chosen during the All-Army matches in June. The Army team aims at coping first place in the Camp Perry National Trophy Match, an event involving military and civilian teams from all parts of the country.

INTRAMURAL SOFTBALL PLAY IN 3-WAY TIE

Story's red hot intramural softball league was thrown into a turmoil last week when an underdog 604th Dukew Company whipped the previously undefeated Navy Harbor Entrance Control Base team, creating a three-way tie for first place in the completed National Division schedule. The 604th, HECB, and 461st Dukew Company completed play with identical records of 8 - 1, necessitating a playoff series. In the first game, the 461st was on the short end of a 9 - 3 score with the 604th, but won the game on a technicality when it was discovered the 604th used an ineligible player. HECB trounced the 461st in the second game, 10 - 2, on the brilliant hurling of Windy Hondanah, to finally clinch the second-half title. They will again meet the 461st, first-half champs, in a game deciding the season championship in the National Division. Headquarters Company, 5th TTC "B" copped the American Division season title 2 weeks ago, and will meet the National champs in a five game series for the intramural title.

FORD ANNOUNCES SAFETY FEATURES ON 1956 CARS

The Ford Motor Company has announced that its 1956 cars will feature — for the first time in automotive history — a five-part package of safety devices aimed at substantially reducing injuries to passengers in the event of highway accidents.

The safety devices are a result of Ford's crash-injury program, first in the industry to embody the new safety concept of "padding the passenger" as a means of limiting injuries.

The new injury-prevention study is a companion project to the Ford accident prevention program which includes the development of such things as better brakes and improved steering.

Announcement of the five-piece safety package was made during the two-day national safety for industry and crash demonstration under Ford sponsorship at Dearborn, which was attended by almost 100 leading traffic safety specialists from the U.S. and Canada for the purpose of exchanging safety information.

The new safety features — to appear when the 1956 cars are introduced — include a new deep-center steering wheel; safety door latches, designed to prevent the door from springing open under impact; seat belts structurally anchored to the vehicle with a steel plate, crash cushioning available for the instrument panel; safety rear view mirrors with a backing to reduce glass falling out when shattered.

The first non-adherent, dry bandage in the history of surgery makes use of a new polyester film and does not stick to the healing tissue when removed.

New Training Program Begins At Oceana Base

A new training program in which top officers of one squadron must be qualified to fly all types of planes in their four squadron air group is being carried out by Air Group Eight, based at the Navy's Master Jet Air Station, Oceana.

Initiating the program, aimed at making Air Group Eight the best group in the Navy, is Commander Pierre W. Charbonnet, Jr., USN, the group's commander.

He has insisted that the squadron skippers, executive officers, operations officers and landing signal officers be "checked out" in flying all types of aircraft in the group.

Training started last month and is progressing on schedule. Involved are the F-3B Paces of Fighter Squadron 61; F3H Banshees of Fighter Squadron 62; F4U Corsairs of Attack Squadron 85, and Attack Squadron 85's AD Skyraiders.

One week is allowed on the Skyraider, one on the Fury, and two weeks on the Banshee and Corsair. Before too long, Commander Charbonnet will have a unit that should be able to operate unusually efficiently by virtue of all senior squadron heads knowing precisely the problems the others face.

So far as the LBO's are concerned, the commander feels that for them to be 100% qualified in their duties, they should have been "checked out" in the planes they are bringing in.

That the entire air group is rallying around Commander Charbonnet in his aim for the best air group is attested by the fact that the 600 men of the four squadrons have a "mash record" of less than five men per month.

Three of CAG's squadrons are commanded by officers who flew together during World War II as members of Air Group Nine embarked aboard the USS Essex.

Each year at least one Silver Star Medal and Comdr. H. E. Vita of VA 83 boasts two. In addition, Comdr. J. A. Shirley of VF 82 also has a Silver Star. Other members of the trio are Comdr. H. J. Hap, III, of VA 85, Comdr. Marvin Franger has been ordered as skipper of VF 61, other CAG8 squadrons.

Both Commanders Charbonnet and Vita have recently completed "Operation Tenderfoot" at Fort Bragg, N. C. They termed the course "very much worthwhile, but very rugged." It impressed them both with the importance of pilots being in perfect physical condition.

Upon CAG8's return to Oceana in April, they lost around 50 percent of their pilots through transfer or separation and are now in process of returning the group to its peak of combat efficiency.

CAG8 was commissioned in April, 1951, at Jacksonville, Fla. Commander Charbonnet, who assumed his present duties in April of this year, lives at 501 Cavalier Drive, Virginia Beach, with his wife and four children, Louise, 10; Michelle, 9; Hildegard, 11; and Pierre N. Charbonnet, III.

Banquet Enjoyed by Members of National Little League and Friends

Jack Webb enjoys a new role in "Pete Kelly's Blues," coming to the Beach Theatre beginning Wednesday of next week. The star of Dragnet directs the new CinemaScope film, and declares himself fortunate in having both Peggy Lee and Ella Fitzgerald co-starring with him in this rip-roaring story of jazz in the twenties.

A banquet honoring members of the National Little League was held last Saturday evening at the Virginia Beach High School cafeteria. Present were players, parents, managers and operating personnel, the number totaling 125 persons. Mr. and Mrs. Frank Tarrall were guests of the evening and John Tucker served as master of ceremonies.

Following the dinner, recognition certificates were presented to the players who will be old to participate next year, in addition all players received National Little League Honor Certificates, presented by league officials. Individual trophies went to players on the "Little League" championship team for the season. The players presented gifts to the managers of their respective teams.

Going To Hike? Get Proper Shoes, Advises Sports Expert

"It's a feat to fit the feet," says Col. Townsend Whelen, sports editor of Sports Afield magazine. The size shoe you wear in the city may do well enough for the three or four miles of walking that the average sportsman does on an ordinary outing. But beware of this size for a daily tramp of 8 to 20 miles over rough country, or even bird cover if it's a bit hilly. After three or four miles of trudging over the rough country, your feet swell considerably, so the shoes you select for long and rough walking must be large enough to fit comfortably when your feet are in this condition.

It is highly important that you break in the shoes to fit your feet well in advance of a trip afield. The lasts on which good outdoor shoes are made are designed for normal feet, but when new shoes may bring undue pressure on parts of the foot. There are two ways of breaking in new leather shoes. First, by a gradual process of hiking two miles the first day, increasing the distance each day up to five miles. Second, stand in four inches of water for five minutes, then go for a hike until the boots dry on your feet.

Care of your shoes is important, too. When they get muddy or wet they should be cleaned or washed and then dried slowly in the air. If heat is used to dry them, it should be very mild since too much will make them stiff.

The Political Sickness of Norfolk's Annexation Case

Elsewhere on this page there is a letter written by Mr. C. F. Burroughs, head of the Royster Fertilizer Company, in which the writer states that he has made no effort to prevent Bayville Farms, which is owned by him, from being annexed to the City of Norfolk. We are happy to print Mr. Burroughs' letter for the benefit of our readers.

In our editorial of September 8th we certainly meant to cast no reflection on Mr. Burroughs as a man or to cast any reflection on any of his actions. What we pointed out was that when the question of annexation was first brought up the lines ran to Thalia Creek, a natural boundary line, and had this line been followed Bayville Farms would have been in the City if the City had won its case and the ordinance, as finally adopted, "skirted" the Bayville Farms property.

Mr. Burroughs' letter makes the point we attempted to make much stronger since this property was exempted without any effort on the part of the owner so someone in the city had to make this decision. And, if it is vacant land the City wants this is the largest tract of such land in the area.

What our editorial did state was that what MAY have been done FOR (and not by) Bayville Farms should be done for the thousands of small homeowners living in this proposed area of annexation.

People should not be required to live in a city when they don't want to. We have recently read of the shortage of police officers in the City of Norfolk and the fact that almost one-fourth of them are required to obtain outside work in order to supplement their salary and when other sections of the city are hollering for services what can the people in the proposed annex area expect from that city. The nearest fire station to Chesapeake Beach will be approximately seven miles. The nearest high school will be more than 10 miles away. The nearest elementary school will be about five miles and if the cities do not furnish bus transportation how can the people living in these areas get their children to school.

Every citizen in Norfolk City and the proposed area of annexation should read the annexation ordinance as passed by the Norfolk City Council. If they read it carefully we do not believe they will be for annexation. This matter should be decided on what best for the people affected and the best way to reach this decision is to let these people vote on the matter.

Recognizing Our Responsibility

Last week a part of the persons indicted by the grand jury were tried in the circuit court of Princess Anne County. Of the six tried two were convicted and given jail sentences. The results point out that people of Princess Anne County intend to prevent lawlessness if and when these people are brought to trial and evidence is sufficient to bring about their conviction.

We believe that our citizens recognize the seriousness of these matters. We believe they intend to support the law enforcement agencies. We believe the law enforcement agencies intend to be more alert than ever before. We think they should.

We have a wonderful city and county

FREEDOM FRUSTRATED

The following article, published by the International Latex Corporation in the New York Times, is deemed to be of general interest at this time, and is reprinted with permission of the company.

Inmates of a refugees camp in West Germany scrawled these words on their barracks: "We want freedom. Come in and see what we got!"

An American journalist recently accepted their wry invitation. Inside the barracks he found a crowd of wretched men, women and children wasting their lives in squalor, stench and disease, provided with barely enough food for survival.

In talking to them he learned that they were bitter, despairing, hopeless.

Unhappily that camp is not an exception. It is typical of about 200 in Europe and the Near East, where tens of thousands who "chose freedom"—often at the risk of death—have received only misery compounded by the passing of bleak years.

Some of the unfortunates have been in camps for as long as nine years.

Hundreds of thousands of other refugees from Communism, under the official camps, are abandoned railway cars and rudely converted crates.

Perhaps the most tragic among the unadjusted escapees to our side are the younger men and women, including defectors from the Red Army occupation forces.

They looked forward not only to personal freedom but to a chance of active participation in the new life.

But their native lands, with few exceptions, have been deeply marked by the devastation of war. They are now faced with a situation in which they are not only denied the right to return to their native lands, but are also denied the right to live in peace.

Now moved to supplement terror with doses of brutality. It has launched an intensive campaign of reeducation, geared to lure fugitives to return home. The Soviet government—so the story runs—has been moved to pity by the condition of its prodigal sons and daughters. Let them come home and they will be welcomed with open arms.

In East Germany, a "Committee for Return to the Homeland" has announced itself, allegedly composed of refugees who had changed their minds and redefected.

A newspaper put out by the Committee is reaching former Soviet citizens all over the world. The "United States included."

"Brothers and sisters," it says, "return and the motherland will welcome you. Even those who are guilty before the motherland will be forgiven."

Many exiles have been receiving letters from relatives—self-evidently dictated by the Secret Police—urging them to return their steps. "We miss you and yearn for you," the missives declare. "Please come back quickly to those who love you." The process of softening up by propaganda is often followed by personal visits from Soviet agents, who play on the victim's homesickness and make rosy promises.

Cynical and transparent though the redefection drive may be, it is becoming increasingly effective. Hundreds have already returned behind the Iron Curtain, thousands seem of a mind to do the same. In the refugee camps, the aforementioned journalist estimated, about 25 per cent seem prepared to go back. They still hate the Communist system and are full of forebodings as to what will happen to them. But their misery and hopelessness make them reckless and breed hopes in defiance of logic. They are easy targets for the Soviet manipulators. Every fugitive who returns to the Soviet prisonland is a resounding moral and political victory of Communism and, by the same token, a great defeat for the free world. The growing success of the Kremlin's redefection campaign is the measure of Western bungling in this area. The free world has been politically short-sighted and humanely callous. It has not lived up to the duty and the opportunity represented by those who chose freedom, confident of our humane feelings and political common sense.

The United States has spent, and continues to spend, millions of dollars in radio broadcasts and other activities intended to widen the gap between the Soviet regimes and their subjects. The effects of this investment are being cancelled out by the flow of returning and repentant fugitives.

Each of the returners seems a living refutation of our claims, and the Soviets are past masters in making the most of this. There have, of course, been some efforts by free governments and voluntary agencies to assist the hard-pressed refugees from Communism. But they have been inadequate, frequently negligible, and as frequently constricted with red tape.

It is late, but not too late, for intensive counter-measures to offset the redefection campaign. Those concerned with what is called psychological warfare have no more excuse for ignoring the challenge. Voluntary agencies such as the American Friends Service Committee must be given larger means to conduct work among the escapees that, within the narrow limits as yet possible, has proved effective.

This is at once a call to humanity and a call to political wisdom.

Something in the Old Sock Just in Case

A Note on Savings Bonds

In times like these, when nearly everyone has a job and a car and an electric refrigerator and a television set, when wages are going up and the future looks rosier than it has looked in a generation, some of us are likely to get into the "easy come, easy go" frame of mind.

It is a joyous frame of mind but hardly a prudent one. It is true the country is prosperous. It is true the outlook is for a continuance of good times. It is true that most of us will manage somehow to pay off the debts we have accumulated during these days of easy credit.

But there is always a but. In the old days, there used to be a saying, "Keep something in the sock." In more genteel circles, its form was "Lay something aside for a rainy day." However you decide to say it, it is good advice.

The best stock of all is a United States Savings Bond. Of course, it is patriotic to buy savings bonds. Everybody knows that. Savings bonds are a brake on inflation. They help to keep the value of money stable. They don't hold out the hope of glittering rewards, like some of the common stocks we have heard of. They aren't for gamblers who are looking for a lot of fast bucks. Rather, they are for the man who is thinking ahead, thinking about his wife and his family and the uncertainties of the future.

Savings bonds are a hedge against most foreseeable hardships. If, as we all hope, the economy of the country remains stable, they sit there in your desk or in your safe-deposit box, piling up compound interest for years to come. If, because of unwise economic policies, there should come a recession or even a depression, the savings bonds would be the salvation of the man who owned them. Stocks go down at such times; even real property, like farms and houses, declines in value because few have the money to buy it. But savings bonds stand firm, gathering their interest every year. If the value of other things goes down, the buying power of Government bonds goes up. Ask Dad, he knows.

And, if Dad is wise, he knows that when the time comes for the children to go away to school or college, it is pleasant to go to the bank and cash a few savings bonds to pay for them. He knows that if ill-fortune strikes—say a big hospital bill, or an accident—it is a great comfort to know that the bonds are there, in the old sock if you like.

A man we know began buying savings bonds on a small scale back in the early forties. As his income improved, he increased his investment in the payroll savings plan. Before he knew it he had several thousand dollars—enough for the down payment on a pretty house in the suburbs and some left over to buy into a business run by a trusted friend. Today, he is sitting pretty, if anyone is.

The Need For a Convention Hall

The marvelously successful American Legion Convention which concluded last Sunday in Virginia Beach was a credit to our community and Princess Anne Post 113, the host post, is to be congratulated for arranging details and caring for visiting Legionnaires from all over the State of Virginia. The annual convention of the Legion here was termed by veteran members as probably the best State convention ever held in the Old Dominion. Local Legionnaires were responsible for that result.

While the convention was highly successful on all counts it again pointed up the fact that Virginia Beach is an ideal convention city and that our number one need in attracting large and small conventions is a suitable meeting meeting place, or convention hall.

In May, June, July, August and up until Labor Day, Virginia Beach is attractive to the vacationer with our fine beach and the Atlantic Ocean. After the Labor Day Weekend it is up to us to attract conventions and while we now enjoy about one good convention after that weekend each year, with a suitable convention hall Virginia Beach could serve as host to numerous conventions during the fall and early spring.

Each time a convention of any size visits our city the planners are constantly perplexed by the lack of a large meeting hall that the entire group might gather in. While the movement to create a convention hall here has had spasmodic support in the past we feel it is high time that a concerted effort be made to establish such a building here and then we will be in a position to solicit conventions and will materially improve our economic and business life here in Virginia Beach.

W & M Accepts One Out of Six

Only about one out of every six students who sought admission to the College of William and Mary in Virginia this year has been accepted, according to Dean of Admissions H. V. Abbott Cunningham.

Citing a near-record number of 3,600 preliminary applications this session compared with 3,800 last year, Cunningham noted that but 555 new students have been accepted. Limited facilities and high scholastic requirements, he said, prevented the college from accepting more applicants.

Of the total number of new students who have been accepted, 495 are freshmen and 65 are transfers. Dean of Students and Registrar J. Wilfred Lambert predicted that the total William and Mary enrollment this year would be about 1,700. He said that a week-long orientation period for all new students got underway Sunday and that registration for all students will be held on September 19 and 20.

Classes for the new term will begin at 8 a. m. on Wednesday, September 21.

JOIN FIGHT ON ALCOHOL

The Mississippi Baptist Convention has joined seven other groups in an educational campaign against alcoholic beverages in the state. The groups are banded together for this work in the Mississippi Church Council for Alcohol Education.

Editor,
 Virginia Beach Sun-News,
 Virginia Beach, Va.

Dear Sir:
 I have read and am greatly disturbed over the editorial in your paper of September 8th with reference to the exclusion of Bayville Farms from the proposed annexation by the City of Norfolk of a portion of Princess Anne County.

The statement you make with regard to my influence in inducing the City Council not to take in Bayville Farms is without justification in fact. I wish to say that I have made no effort to have Bayville Farms excluded from the proposed annexation nor have I ever personally mentioned the matter to any member of the Council, officer or attorney of the City or anyone else remotely connected therewith, or anyone who would be calculated to attempt to influence the Council in reaching its decision.

I make this unqualified statement as to my own action and, to the best of my knowledge and belief, no one else has done so in my behalf.

I sincerely hope you will give this letter the same publicity accorded your editorial.

Very truly yours,
 C. F. BURROUGHS

"MISS VIRGINIA"

September 13, 1955

Dear Editor:

Now that the Miss America Pageant is all over, it is interesting to note some of the facts concerning our Virginia Beach entry, Miss Betty Sue Matthews.

Much has made of the fact that Betty Sue was a resident of Princess Anne County rather than Virginia Beach, and due to the fact that she happened to have a Norfolk mailing address, she was (annexed) as a Norfolk girl after winning the Miss Virginia Pageant in Roanoke. However, she was quite properly entered in the Virginia Beach contest since the franchise area prescribed by the Miss America Pageant Committee in Atlantic City includes Virginia Beach and Princess Anne County. It is also interesting to note that Betty received all her support from Virginia Beach and practically none from Norfolk, Roanoke or any other part of the State. The Junior Chamber of Commerce along with Radio Station WBOP and other interested citizens, including Mr. Sidney Banks of the Cavalier Corporation, rated many hundreds of dollars to help provide the extensive wardrobe required for the Atlantic City Pageant, to send Betty on publicity tours, and to stage a publicity campaign which would be in some measure comparable to those of the many States which really go all out to

Avoidance of Fatty Foods Not Way to Cool Off

Are you one of those who believes that it is best to eat carbohydrate foods, especially in hot weather? And do you think that fats and fatty foods should be avoided?

If so, you are missing one way to keep cool. That is the word of Dr. Robert S. Harris, professor of nutrition in the Department of Food Technology at Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

In a recent talk before the executives of a large food industry, Dr. Harris exploded some of the old ideas that a good many persons have about diet. One of them is that fats and fatty foods should be avoided during warm weather. The ideal diet for warm weather, said Dr. Harris, is a mixed diet containing proteins, carbohydrates and fats.

In a series of experiments, Dr. Harris found that when proteins were eaten alone—for example, beef—they raised the body temperature. The same thing was true when carbohydrates or fats were eaten alone. But when all three were eaten at one meal, the body gave off less heat.

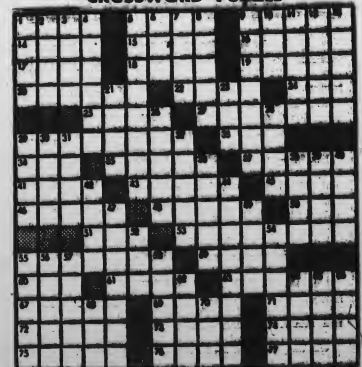

"Thus," says Dr. Harris, "a person will be better off on a high carbohydrate diet than on a diet of equal caloric content which is rich in fat. Just why this is so we have not yet been able to explain. Nevertheless, the experimental evidence shows that one is hotter, not cooler, on a carbohydrate-rich diet, and fats counteract this effect."

make big productions in behalf of their Miss America entries. The Jaycees were quite frankly and properly interested not only in helping Miss Virginia to the limit, but also publicizing our City in the process. But as far as the Norfolk newspapers were concerned they must have been highly disappointed. While other papers throughout the State were prominently mentioning Virginia Beach in connection with Miss Virginia, the Norfolk newspapers seemed to be deliberately omitting any mention of Virginia Beach with the exception of a few "Dispatch" articles written by Miss Betty Matthews. We would hope that this situation was in the interest of meticulous technical accuracy; but geographical generalities in reporting undesirable news events in the past makes us wonder.

At any rate, Betty was a lovely, intelligent and talented contestant at Atlantic City and her performance and conduct at Atlantic City reflected the highest credit to the State of Virginia and we are most grateful to her for having carried the Miss America Contest at Atlantic City.

"Keep Eyes Open"

The Chief said that while parents, schools, and the police department are working constantly for greater child safety on streets and highways, there are many problems yet unsolved. One of the major problems, he said, is coping with the impulses of children and training them in safety precautions from pre-school age through adolescence. "The only way to tackle this problem is by teaching the child the proper, predictable behavior in children, especially in crossing streets, is to urge that motorists keep a sharp lookout and drive slowly through school and playground areas, especially during the peak hours of school traffic in the morning and afternoon," he said. "Schools and parents are doing their best to train small fry to be more safety wise and are doing a remarkable job."

There were 97 children killed in Virginia traffic crashes last year. Chief Johnson concluded, "We must stop this needless slaughter of our children. And it is up to us to protect children by heeding the oft-repeated warning: 'Drive slow! Protect our children!'"

Princess Anne Garden Club Will Open Shrines During Garden Week

Mrs. E. C. Raquet announced that the Princess Anne Garden Club will participate in Historic Garden Week in Virginia next April. The announcement came at a meeting of the club held Monday at the home of Mrs. Howard H. Fromm, Virginia Beach.

Participation in the event by the club will be on Sept. 22 and 23, it was said. Shrines to be open to the public will include Adam Keeling House; Sea Breeze Farm, home of the Misses Hill; Adam Thoroughgood House; Cape Henry Lighthouse; the Wild Flower Preserve on Lake Lawson, and Old Donation Church, which is to be served at the latter shrine.

Historic Garden Week has long been a project of the Garden Club of Virginia, and funds raised by the event are used to restore historic monuments.

Guest speaker at the meeting was Norfolk's Superintendent of Parks and Forestry, Frederic Healy, who spoke on "Putting the Garden to Sleep." He said old foliage should be cleaned up and that nothing except grass should be left in the fall.

Mrs. M. Bagley Walker, chairman of trees, said seedling pine trees planted on her farm at Blackstone are now six months old and she has a 95% stand.

Mrs. C. F. Greene, president of the club, was selected to represent the group at the meeting of the Board of Governors of the Garden Club of Virginia in Harrisonburg, October 12 and 13.

Use of Radar

largest single factor in highway deaths, we cannot afford to appease violators with half-way enforcement measures.

"To claim that the use of advanced scientific devices like radar is 'unfair' to those who would violate the law is a travesty that approaches outright mockery of the value of human life. It is instead grossly unfair to the nation's hundreds of thousands of law-abiding motorists to jeopardize their safety by continuing to use outdated methods for detecting and apprehending irresponsible traffic law violators.

"Radar devices provide the most accurate practical method yet available for detecting motorists who deliberately violate posted speed limits. To rule against the use of radar evidence is to shake police and courts and to endanger motorists, pedestrians and enforcement officers with procedures barely suitable for the roads and vehicles of the 1920's.

"For 20 years we have been attempting to provide enough police to patrol our highways as they should be patrolled. But we are no closer to that ideal situation today than we were at the outset. In the absence of this accomplishment we shall either continue killing and injuring human beings in epidemic proportions or we shall adopt some reasonable method of controlling traffic law violators.

"I feel impelled to fully endorse the use of radar speed detection equipment as a sound and honest method of traffic law enforcement and accident prevention."

Mr. Beale's statement was made after William M. Greene of Connecticut, chairman of the National Conference of State Safety Coordinators, announced that states using a radar research car this summer in connection with the National "New Drive and Live" campaign had "unanimously reported favorable results in both vehicle speed control and in official and public reaction." The car and radar technician made available by New York University's Center for Safety Education are on a nine week tour of mid-western and western states.

Chrysler Expands Sales Personnel

The largest executive expansion program in Chrysler Division's history — an expansion in executive sales personnel designed to bring practical day-by-day assistance to each of Chrysler Division's 3,100 dealers — has been outlined by Clare E. Briggs, vice president in charge of sales, Chrysler Division, Chrysler Corporation.

"We have activated 20 wholly new departments in our national sales structure since the first of the year," Mr. Briggs said, "and every one of them is dedicated to only one purpose — vigorous on-the-scene assistance to dealers in selling Chrysler and Imperial automobiles."

"During the first six months of this year we have hired more than 50 seasoned sales executives — men who brought their training with them and were ready to do the job. This group joined an already moving, efficient sales organization. As a result, Chrysler today has new and aggressive sales management which is in tune with the time — is, in many cases, ahead of the times."

Cooperation With Safety Patrol Urged By AAA School Poster

The current AAA traffic safety poster for the new school year, now being distributed for classroom use in this area by the Tide-water Automobile Association, has the message: "Help Your Safety Patrol."

John B. Dey, vice president of the TAA, said that teaching school children to respect and obey the school safety patrol members is the foundation of the whole year's elementary school traffic safety program.

The poster design was originally made by Marian Burch, a student at Abraham Lincoln Junior High School, Rockford, Ill. Marian's poster was awarded first place in the Junior High School Division of the AAA's national traffic safety poster contest last spring. A prominent group of artists, educators and safety specialists selected the poster for reproduction and distribution by AAA motor clubs throughout the United States.

"The record of the school safety patrols is one of the brightest spots in the entire traffic accident picture," Mr. Dey explained. He pointed out that since the patrols have been guarding school crossings, the traffic death rate for school children has been cut in half, while the rate for persons in all other age groups has nearly doubled.

"Generally speaking," Dey said, "when a child is hit, or nearly hit, by a car at an intersection guarded by a safety patrol member, it is because the child disregarded the patrol's signal. The motor club official urged parents to aid teachers and police officers teach children that they must cooperate with the patrols."

PIMIENTO NOTES

Today I'm bringing you some "Pimiento Notes." I found them very interesting and helpful and so it's really nice to share them with you.

Pimiento means "pepper" in Spanish, so I've told. It has no relation to pimento (different spelling) which is a spice from the allspice tree.

Pimientos are native to tropical America. When Columbus discovered America, he found the pimiento and was intrigued with its taste. He took back to Spain some of the seeds from these American plants. They were tremendously popular with the Spanish people. It is interesting to find that while pimiento growing languished in this country, it flourished in Spain as a result of the seeds Columbus took back with him. Until 1920 nearly all the pimientos sold here were imported from Spain. Now, however, the United States produces its own crop.

The pimientos grown here now are improved and carefully cultivated plants based on seeds imported from Spain. The pimientos sold on our markets are a smooth, heart-shaped variety with thick meat, that has just about replaced all the native strains grown in the country.

In 1960 the Associated Pimiento Canners, an organization of pimiento canners comprising almost 100% of the entire industry, was founded to promote greater demand for pimientos and to develop new uses for them.

The most popular can sizes for pimientos are the 4-ounce and the 7-ounce can. They are canned whole or in pieces.

The major canning region for pimientos is in Georgia, Alabama and Mississippi. In 1954, 87% were canned in that area. The remaining 13% were canned in California, Florida, Tennessee and Texas. The canning season for pimientos is from August to December.

Pimientos are high in vitamin A and low in calories. They are hitting a new high in popularity due to the many new uses and recipes that are being developed. They are decorative and have a juicy, subtle, sweet-spicy flavor.

Many Uses

There are innumerable ways in which to use pimientos. Here are a few:

Chop pimientos into vegetables. They add zest, particularly to lima beans, peas, string beans and turnips. Use them to add interest and flavor to egg dishes, particularly deviled eggs.

Chop them into casseroles. Put pimientos through sieve and add to cream sauces. They add color and flavor.

Cut pretty shapes and decorate salads and casserole dishes.

Mix half a pound of soft butter with chopped pimiento and one teaspoon lemon juice for luscious pimiento butter.

Have you tried...

Tuna Stuffed Pimientos
Here's the way to fix them:

1 7-oz. can whole pimientos
1 7-oz. can tuna
1 No. 2 can condensed mushroom soup

1/2 cup chopped olives
3/4 cup bread crumbs
Paprika

Mix soup, tuna, olives and one-half cup bread crumbs. Unfold pimientos into cup shape and gently pack mixture into them. Place in buttered muffin tins or casserole. Sprinkle with rest of bread crumbs. Bake 30 minutes at 450°.

Serves four.

Halibut Steaks with Pimiento Sauce

Plan on a half steak for each serving. Brush the steaks with melted butter or other fat. Season with salt, pepper and a little garlic salt if desired. Broil two or three inches from source of heat, five to eight minutes. Turn steaks carefully. Season again, brush with melted butter and broil five to eight minutes, or until fish flakes easily when tested with fork. Serve on heated platter. Four pimiento sauce over fish and arrange vegetables in a border. Garnish with lemon wedges.

Pimiento Sauce: For three halibut steaks, melt 3 tablespoons butter, add juice of half lemon, season with half teaspoon of salt and dash of pepper. Slice one whole canned pimiento into thin strips and add to sauce.

Bye, now...

Next time you make an omelet, try filling it with some cooked or canned asparagus tips, dressed with hollandaise sauce. Garnish the plate with broiled Canadian bacon slices, ripe olives and parsley.

When you make a cheese dip for crackers or raw vegetables, add a few chopped nuts to the cheese. This makes a nice change in texture for the dip.

Here's an elegant but very simple dessert: Whip some cream and crumble in macaroons and a few cut dried figs. Fill canned, drained cling peach halves with this and serve.

With baked ham you'll like a sweet potato casserole which begins with boiled sweet potatoes. Mash, then season with salt, pepper and butter. Place in a casserole and pour over them one-fourth to one-half cup of cream and bake for a half hour in a moderate oven.

Try rubbing your next baked ham with mustard before the baking. It'll do wonders for the flavor.

CREOLE CASSEROLE

Tender rice, savory seasoning, and juicy beef. Blend them together, and — presto! — you've created a Creole dinner dish! It is bright in color, party-fied in flavor. And it's a wonderful budget stretcher; a single pound of beef steak meat serves six hungry people.

1 lb. beef steak meat
2 tablespoons shortening
3/4 cups canned tomatoes
2 cups diced celery
1/2 cup diced green pepper
3/4 cup sliced onions
1 clove garlic, minced

1 1/2 teaspoons salt
1 tablespoon sugar
1/2 cup uncooked rice

Cut meat into small cubes, and brown in heated shortening. Add tomatoes, celery, green pepper, onions, garlic, salt and sugar. Bring to boiling point. Pour into 2-quart casserole. Cover.

Bake in moderate oven (350° F.) about 15 minutes. Stir rice into casserole. Replace cover and bake about 35 minutes longer, or until rice, meat and vegetables are tender. Yields six servings.

Architects Rediscover Amazing Versatility Of Native Woods

Wood's beauty of grain, texture and line place it high on the list of most popular materials to cover the modern home.

"We have known for centuries," observes Warren Weber, A.I.A., leading designer of contemporary western homes, "that wood-adorned structures could withstand heat, cold, rain, snow and parading dryness and still protect the building and its contents."

"What many an architect is discovering today," Weber continues, "is wood's amazing versatility. It is virtually a new material today, as we utilize its texture, coloring and grain to give new character and meaning to the progressive styling of the homes in the modern theme."

We open the walls of our new homes, he said, to the countryside, and attempt to blend the indoors with our patios, courtyards and outdoor living areas. Natural woods, like lovely-textured Douglas fir, even-grained west coast hemlock and earth-colored red cedar, make ideal siding for these homes. Being natural, they form a perfect marriage with stone, brick, glass and the greenery of shrubs and trees and seem to bring the wonders of nature right into the home without a jarring break of line or form.

Where texture is important in design, siding can be rough sawn in either lapped horizontal boards or boards and battens style. But even when surfaced in beveled or drop siding patterns, it is as much a part of its environment as a mossy rock, a green lawn or a flowering shrub.

Weber points out that wood has four natural properties which endear it to the architect and builder as a siding material. First, it has workability and thus can be cut and fit to form the remarkably versatile lines and forms in contemporary design. Second, the woods have great stability with wide fluctuations of temperature and weather. Third, they have ability to hold paint, stain or varnishes, or have capacity in their natural state to weather to intriguing shades and tones of beauty. And, fourth, these woods hold their fastenings.

Not to be overlooked, the architect cautions, is wood's value as an insulating medium to prevent loss of heat in winter and keep a home cool in summer.

More than five million U. S. farms now have electric service.

A LIGHT approach to homework

There's a right light for home study — A modern "beauty plus" table lamp with a 200 or 300 watt bulb placed approximately 15" to the left of the student's work (to the right if left handed) and 12" back from the front edge of the desk or table. Good lighting is essential to every student — lighting that's easy on the eyes and allows full concentration on the work at hand.
But even if your children have excellent study conditions, how about the rest of the family?

General lighting is not enough. You need specific lighting for every family activity. Today, you can easily light your home for such pleasures as in-bed reading, sewing, family recreation, and even outdoor living. Vepco's Home Service representative will be glad to advise you on modern home lighting and your electrical dealer will help you select lamps and fixtures to make your home more livable, more beautiful. Be sure you have light for living... as well as seeing!

Ask your favorite Electrical Dealer about modern Light Conditioning for your home!

THE HARDEST THING

About the hardest thing we are called on to do as Christians is to trust with kindness and consideration those who have been unkind and inconsiderate to us. That goes against the grain. If a person does you good it's not hard for you to do him good. But if he does you harm, you are naturally disposed to get back at him. There is something instinctive about tit for tat.

One of the sharp distinctions between ourselves and God is found at just this point. God actively wills good to all men, whether they themselves are evil or virtuous. We read that "God makes His sun to rise on the evil and the good, and sends rain on the just and the unjust."

We might suppose that God would do otherwise. We might suppose that He would send rain and sun on the farm of the good man and that He would withhold them from the good man's evil neighbor. If we were running it, we should probably employ nature's operations to encourage the good man in his goodness and to discourage the evil man in his evil. But God doesn't work that way. He provides sun and rain alike for the just and the unjust.

This is not, mind you, because God is indifferent to what they are doing. God is actively engaged in doing good to both the good and the evil. He is "making the sun to rise" in He is "sending the rain." He is actively promoting good for the good man and good for the godless man.

Like God Like Man

As Christians we are supposed to be like that. You remember how Jesus put it: "Love the unlovely, pray for the persecutor, salute those who will not respond—that you may be children of your Father who is in heaven."

To love your enemies does not mean that they cease to be your enemies. Any man who amounts to anything has some enemies. It does not mean that you surrender to them on issues where you may be right and they entirely in the wrong. There may well be times when you will have to let them have it. What this means is that you do not view your enemy with vindictiveness or bitterness. It means that if he chooses to be ugly you will not let his ugliness make you ugly. It means that you will be seeking not merely his defeat but the triumph of right in the situation.

Of course this is a hard thing to do. It is so hard that the average man in his own strength simply can't do it. Then why attempt it? We must attempt it because God acts so and we are to be like Him. Hatred of enemies and the weakening of vengeance on one seems to be a kind of law of nature. But it isn't. We were actually created for community, for understanding, for good will. We must practice some measure of these virtues or we are doomed.

Glow of Gratitude

Christian charity is possible only for those whose lives are grounded in Christ. To love one's enemies is impossible until we realize that while we ourselves were sinners, Christ died for us. Christians are those who understand how much they have been forgiven—as much that if they were to strive with absolutely pure motives the risk of their life they could never make up what they owe. In view of this fact, how cheap our pride and self-righteousness appear. We have been forgiven much. Therefore it behooves us to forgive others. We must be as considerate of them as Christ has been with us.

Our failure to practice Christian love springs from ingratitude. We do not appreciate what has been done for us. If the love of Christ is in our hearts, then all things—including the practice of Christian charity—are possible.

Canadian "Duck Factory" Turning Out Magnificent Crop This Year

"Mother Nature smiled as she has rarely smiled on the great Canadian duck factory this summer. In the average year her cooperation is apt to be grudging; this year it was almost unlimited."

The duck crop picture seldom has been more favorable."

So reports Jimmy Robinson after an early August survey made especially for Sports Afield magazine. "I have been observing the duck situation for 20 years, and I have never seen conditions better."

Barring late developments, American hunters this season should enjoy the greatest migration of ducks in recent years."

One big factor was that high water, holding over from last fall's heavy rains and maintained and increased by a heavy spring runoff, kept farmers' plows off the summer fallow until the young ducks had hatched and were on the water. There is no estimate of the number of ducks saved as a result of this delayed plowing, but it was tremendous because weed-grown fallow fields are favorite nesting places.

Here's a partial break-down of Robinson's findings: In Saskatchewan, the game commission estimated the duck population is up 30 per cent this year. The biggest increase is in pintails and blue-winged teal, with mallards about normal.

In Manitoba game officials say the breeding population is good or better than last year. There were heavy losses from flooding but these were fully offset by increased nesting success on stubble and other lands which farmers were unable to plow. Pintails and mallards are up.

Alberta reports that more ducks came back this year. Mallards and pintails are about the same, but scaup and blue-winged teal showed a nice increase. The season was from ten days to two weeks earlier than last year and weather conditions ideal for breeding and rearing.

As for the United States duck factory, drought in South Dakota reduced nesters by about 50 per cent, but later rains restored the water and there will be plenty to attract the fall migration. Incidentally, the pheasant outlook here is very bright.

For North Dakota there is ample water for the northern ducks when they come back this fall. For the state as a whole, the breeding population was up and nesting success was good.

RAFFLES LEGALIZED IN CONNECTICUT

Gov. Abraham A. Ribicoff of Connecticut has signed a bill legalizing raffles and other games of chance conducted by religious, charitable, civic and veterans organizations. The measure authorizes the games — for merchandise prizes only — in communities that approve them by local referendum. It specifies that such a referendum be held if at least five per cent of the voters of a community petition for it.

Eligible For Long Term Loans Now

Homes not affected by FHA credit controls also may be eligible for 30-year, no down payment GI loans providing Veterans Administration receives appraisal requests on or before September 30, 1955, VA announces.

The affected homes are those for which the necessary paper work had been completed by FHA before their controls went into effect July 30, 1955, VA said.

VA has instructed its field stations to get satisfactory evidence of of homes not covered by FHA credit controls before excluding them from VA credit requirements.

VA credit requirements, which also became effective July 30, 1955, call for a two per cent down payment and a loan maturity not to exceed 20 years. Those excluded from these requirements may be financed up to 90 years and only the closing costs of the loan need be paid.

VA emphasized it can exclude homes not affected by FHA credit controls only if requests for GI appraisals on those homes are received by VA on or before September 30, 1955, and VA can obtain satisfactory evidence of their exclusion from FHA credit controls.

GRIM BUT GRAPHIC REMINDER

Exhibits at Fort Story such as this car, in which a soldier at the post was fatally injured 2 months ago, undoubtedly helped the Army installation to achieve its superior safety record over the Labor Day holiday. Fort Story officials have put the wreck on prominent display near the Post Theatre where it provides dramatic example of the consequences of recklessness on the road.

proved of value during World War II when he served as instructor for the Tank Destroyer School at Fort Hood, Texas. Prior to his duty in Japan and Korea, the captain spent 31 months on Guam before Army activity was "phased out" on that Marianas island.

Non-Comm Will Attend Leadership Course

Story's two battalions will be represented by two men each in the 10th class of the Non-Commissioned Officer Leadership class to be conducted at Fort Eustis this month. The 10th T Battalion is sending Sgt. Cecil Sibert of the 458th Dukw Company and Sp3 Neil B. Lafuer of the 347th Dukw Company. Selected by the 376th Battalion to attend the five-week course were Sp3 John T. Knight of the 461st Dukw Company and Sgt. George E. Davis, Jr. of the 870th Terminal Service Company.

Mess Trophy Goes to 5th TTC "B"

604th Dukw Company Gets Permanent Trophy

Another "best" went on record when the 376th Battalion's prize supply room permanently won the Best Supply Room trophy for the 604th Dukw Company. The unit had been singled out for this distinction for three months in a row, which entitled it to retain the trophy. The 376th's commander, Major Carl D. Reed, expressed his pleasure with the award to both the company supply sergeant, Sgt. Bruce W. Cartwright, and the unit commander, Lt. Lt. Thomas S. Berry.

♦ FORT STORY TELLINGS ♦

Secretary of Army Visits Fort Story

A four-day visit by Secretary of the Army and Mrs. Wilbur M. Bruckner, although marred by inclement weather, gave the Secretary opportunity to acquaint himself with Story's amphibious training mission. The Bruckners, accompanied by Col. and Mrs. F. C. Weyand, donned foul-weather gear for a Dukw ride in choppy seas off Cape Henry, with Col. George E. Woods, Jr., Story's commanding officer, as host. They also were guests of honor at an Officers Club dinner where the Bruckners and Colonel and Mrs. Woods received Story officers and their wives.

376th T Battalion Has Flawless Record

Story's accident rate, on a monthly figure, gave top credit to the 376th Transportation Battalion for its record of no motor vehicle mishaps at all. In the division of military injuries, the 10th T Battalion made a commendable showing with only eight first aid and one lost time injury. In civilian injuries, Non-Appropriated Funds and Civil Services tied with no recorded accidents.

No Labor Day Accidents on Post

Another safety "well done" was in order for all members of the command when it became evident that Story had gone through the Labor Day holiday weekend with not a single reported traffic accident. The campaign for cautious driving has been stressed without let-up by Story's safety officials. Their most recent device was exhibition of a mangled car in which a soldier was fatally injured earlier this summer. It was calculated that a mental picture of the wreck might haunt all Story motorists over the holiday.

Capt. Charles Cole New Maintenance Officer

New maintenance officer for the 376th T Battalion is Capt. Charles R. Cole of Chicago, assigned to Story after over three years in the Far East. A veteran of the Korean conflict, Captain Cole has seen Army service since 1940. His civilian experience as a mechanic land, Ohio. A veteran of 14 years Army service, the captain comes to the post from a tour of duty at Kobe, Japan. During World War II he was assigned to the Persian Gulf command, and he also served in Korea with the 7th Major Port at Pusan. Captain Doody's decorations include the Bronze Star Medal and the Commendation Ribbon with Metal Pendant. He replaces Maj. Truman P. Lambert who departed this week for a new assignment in Germany.

Headquarters Company Has Week in bivouac

A week in bivouacs began for members of Story's Headquarters Company as they moved into the field for the LOTIS-5 exercise being staged this month. The over-the-shore maneuver, a Transportation Training Command logistical problem, puts the company in tents as it operates from the beach where Dukws and other vehicles load, transport and unload cargo in simulation of an actual combat supply operation. The exercise involves virtually every unit

Red Cross Gets $700 From Story Personnel

Emergency call by the American Red Cross for funds for flood relief brought a last-minute $700 as military and civilian personnel at Story dipped into their pockets after pay day. Their response was in answer to a message from Col. George E. Woods, Jr., who had urged them to "give what we can and help the Red Cross to help people who may be our relatives, friends and neighbors — but who are, at any rate, fellow Americans in need of a helping hand."

The Countess met her husband while in Vienna, where she worked at the American embassy and with the communications department of Army Intelligence. She is a native Virginian and a former resident of Norfolk. She is the widow of Navy Captain Dewey Walbridge.

During their recent brief visit with "Grandma Vellines" the Count and Countess showed pictures taken at their wedding in 1911 at Mirabel Palace in Salzburg. Their honeymoon was spent at the famous White Horse Inn, at St. Wolfgang, near where Franz Josef, last emperor of Austria had a summer home.

Following service in World War as an Austrian army lieutenant, he Count produced motion pictures in Austria, Germany and Poland. Among his notable productions was the English version of "M." starring Peter Lorre. He also served as assistant director of "Signal Rouge," starring Eric von Stroheim.

In 1942, after being under constant surveillance by the Gestapo, Count Lukawiecki was flung into the concentration camp at Auschwitz. He was sentenced to death when a Polish officer escaped, but was spared when he established that he didn't even know the officer.

Later orders came to put 50 Polish prisoners to death. The Count recalls "we were stripped of our clothes, our hands were tied behind our backs and our numbers hung across our chests. We were marched into the prison yard. The first 25 men were taken into the adjoining lot and shot. We saw and heard it all.

"Then the officer said 'Stop.' Orders had come from Himmler to shoot only 25 instead of 50. The rest of us were sent back to camp," the Count continued.

During the last weeks of the war he was shuttled among three Austrian prison camps, then was released on May 6, 1945. "It was the American Third Cavalry that released us," he says and it was a special meeting and a large number were present.

The unusual visitor was Count Eugene A. De Lukawiecki Lukawiecki. He is a direct descendant of a 16th century Polish king, King Wisniewski.

(It is interesting to note here that in those days the kingship did not pass down from father to son. The king was elected by the nobility.)

Count Lukawiecki was born in the family castle in Lukawice, then in Austria. He speaks sixteen different languages.

George Wilkinson, son of Mr. and Mrs. G. F. Wilkinson, Jr., has left for Hargrave Military Academy.

The Count also commented that Washington, D. C., was "the most beautiful city in the world." That in his estimation it was not only the capital of the United States, but also the "capital of the world."

GARDEN GUIDE

MEYER Z-52 ZOYSIA

There is a lot of publicity being given to Meyer Z-52 Zoysia Grass these days. It is a relatively new type of grass to come into this area and one that appears quite promising.

Years ago the U. S. Department of Agriculture started searching for better types of grasses to be used on golf courses. The huge Beltsville, Md., research station carried out the testing and development of the grasses in cooperation with the U. S. Golf Association, Greens Section. The outcome of their years of work was Meyer Z-52 Zoysia, the first improved strain of Korean Zoysia grass. The grass was released for public use several years ago, and since it has no seed, growers have established turf farms for the asexual propagation of Z-52. Supplies of the turf have been increasing each year and now there are sufficient quantities to offer the public the opportunity to establish Zoysia lawns.

Establishing a Lawn

Establishing Z-52 is rather interesting and is done in a relatively unusual manner for this area. The grass is purchased in plugs from a local distributor for he turf farm. Each plug is simply a 2" diameter core of soil taken from the turf farm and contains grass plant, roots and all. These plugs are then inserted in the lawn into 2" diameter holes easily made with the plugging tool the grower handles. Press the grass plug to firm it into place, keep it well watered and fertilized.

If the plugs are planted every square foot as recommended, they will spread to fill the entire lawn area within two years. A feeding of 5-10-5 or 10-6-4 fertilizer every two weeks during the growing season will prove quite beneficial.

How to Save on Cost
The expense of establishing an all Z-52 lawn can be decreased considerably if the home owner is not in too great a hurry, by establishing a small turf nursery of his own. Buy a moderate supply of the plugs and a plugging tool (tools are free with the larger orders) then work up a good planting area and set the plugs. Keep the area weeded, watered and fertilized, and within a year or two you will be able to cut many, many more plugs than you originally purchased. Perhaps you will have enough to plant your entire lawn and give some to your neighbors.

Not a Miracle Grass
Meyer Z-52 Zoysia will spread by long runners both underground and above, much in the same manner as Bermuda grass does. Some say it will even choke out Bermuda, but at least the growers all claim that it will choke out crab grass. It forms a thick turf that resists heat and drought much the same as Bermuda does. It is likewise resistant to diseases. Growers tell us that the grass does not need to be cut as frequently as most grasses used in this area, a feature which we will all relish, I am sure.

Beach Was Well Prepared For Hurricane 'Ione'

With the threat presented by the anticipation of Hurricane Ione, Virginia Beach was well battered down. Starting Sunday morning the members of the local police department called most of the ocean front hotels requesting that they remove any objects from their lawns or porches that were not securely fastened down and that might be tossed about by hurricane winds.

The city also removed its city street trash disposal cans to eliminate the possibility of their causing injury to persons on the street or damage to property. Stores and business places with large glass windows were cautioned to police officers to board heads of City Departments stood by at emergency headquarters at City Hall all day Monday and well up into the night to direct their units in any emergency that arrived. Mayor Frank Dusch; Reeves E. Johnson, Police Chief and Civil Defense Coordinator and J. White, Coordinator for Hurricane disaster stood by at emergency headquarters at City Hall until after 1 A. M. Tuesday at which time all calls were taken over through the Police Department for the remainder of the morning. During the day, Monday, the city police had to get up a road block at 4th and Atlantic to stop cars from traveling into the extreme south end of Atlantic Avenue because of the danger of mass congestion of curiosity seekers and the possibility of the strong winds breaking the telephone and power line poles off along the roadway and endangering those persons gathered in that area.

Several persons had to be called in from the piers and front locations with the aid of a loud speaker system installed on the police patrol wagon. Several persons were also chased back from where they were attempting to swim in the surf during this threatening period. Even as late as 6 P. M. Monday, two persons were forced to come out of the water near the South end of the boardwalk.

So it goes also with guests who pass through our resort for only a day. They arrive for a day of recreation at the seashore. After they have departed, another clean-up job presents itself. Sometimes, thoughtlessly, they have tossed lunch papers, bottles and other refuse on the beach, streets and the Atlantic Parkway, which the Council of Garden Clubs recently beautified and spent endless time and a great deal of money in developing. The State Highway Department cleans and cuts the grass on the Parkway at regular intervals, however it is impossible for them to give it a going over each day.

An appeal, therefore, is sent out to all of those residing along the Parkway to do their part in straightening up the area in the Parkway immediately in front of their own property after the departure of their "unknown guest."

Atlantic Avenue is our main thoroughfare. Won't YOU do your bit in helping to keep it clean?

Little Theatre To Start Try-Outs on Monday, Sept. 26

Try-Outs for the first play of the season of the Virginia Beach Little Theatre will be held Monday and Tuesday, September 26-27 at 8:00 P. M. in the workshop of the Little Theatre, located in the rear of the Community House, 18th Street and Arctic Avenue.

Anyone interested in a part in the play is invited to be present.

"Lake Love" a comedy in three acts has been selected as the opening play of the season.

There are parts for three males and four females.

The play, by Rosemary Casey opened at the National Theatre in New York in October 1953 and has to do with a famous lady portraitist who moved into the country home of a prominent widower-writer to paint his portrait. Immediately she discovers the premises to be dominated by the writer's mother, an impossible old harridan who won't permit smoking, radios or liquor in the house and browbeats everyone into a state of dejection. The painter, a woman of colossal charm fosters the romance of her subject's daughter and his male secretary, while at the same time she is the center of a growing romance with the father and his other guest, a humorous broker. She charms the bonnet off the grandmother, sets the portrait painted and pulls all loose ends together.

The cast consists of Billy Gordon, a man in his forties; Matthew Anderson, a man in his thirties; Sarah, an elderly woman; Graham Colby, in his early fifties; Janet Colby, early twenties; Mrs. Colby, twenties and a young woman, late thirties.

The play will be presented in the auditorium of the Virginia Beach High School November 7-8.

Tickets will go on sale at an early date according to Mrs. E. Ashley Haycox and Mrs. Andrew Reid, chairmen.

Mrs. Ruth Masury will direct the productions, having directed the group for six seasons.

Spencer Challenges City To Debate Annexation

W. Carl Spencer, of Norfolk, who is spearheading the movement to force a referendum on Norfolk's proposed annexation of Princess Anne County, issued a challenge Tuesday night to debate the question with anyone the City Council might choose.

Spencer, a former House of Delegates member representing Norfolk City took exception to a section of the ordinance as adopted by the Norfolk City Council.

This part of the ordinance reads: The city is amply able to assume and discharge the responsibility of government in the territory, and furnish the governmental services and facilities needed there."

Spencer contended that taxes would have to be raised if the annexation went through. He spoke Tuesday to the City Council.

"It's a little bit bearish about Norfolk," the veteran legislator

New Little Creek Elementary School Needed

The Princess Anne County School Board Tuesday said that additional school facilities needed in face of the unprecedented growth of the county called for the best thinking and definite action in the very near future.

The board set for its primary objective a 20-room elementary school to be built at "the earliest possible moment" on part of the 18-acre site of the new Little Creek Elementary School. That school was built for the 1954-55 school term. Eleven rooms were added for the school term just opened, and the school is now crowded beyond capacity, the board said. The board estimated that the new building will cost in the neighborhood of $600,000.

A second objective outlined but not of the same urgency was a junior high school on a 22-acre site in the Kempsville area serving the Little Creek area. School Board members were told by Superintendent Frank W. Cox that he estimated that the greatest State increase in pupil load had occurred in Princess Anne County. Roughly, on the third day of this year's term, an almost 3,000-pupil increase was enrolled in the entire county. Cox said the enrollment probably would be increased by a conservative 500 by the end of this month, and would increase probably by an additional 1,000 before the end of the Spring term.

The board was to open bids for an addition to the Courthouse School Wednesday, but its decision on awarding the contract will not be made until next Monday. Other matters brought up before the school board included a water supply for the new Linkhorn Park School, on the Laskin Road, and confirmation of 21 appointments in the teaching staff.

HDC Committee Has Meeting

The Annual Planning Meeting of the Hope Demonstration County Committee was held Thursday, September 15th at the Agricultural Building. Present to assist with the planning was Miss Willis, District Agent and Mrs. Elizabeth D. Deal, County Home Demonstration Agent. Also present was Mr. Dick Cockrell, the County Agent. After a brief review of the club discussions which have been held before the meeting the club made their suggestions for topics to be included. A vote was taken to determine the topic needed most of the year. Their selections were as follows:

A change was made in the Federation Goal for the coming year from Health and Safety which has been worked on for two years, to Home and Community Beautification. A Committee will meet later to determine the objectives of the work on this goal for the coming year.

There was a great deal of discussion on the problem of who buying and it is thought that this could be a topic in which many county women who are not enrolled in home demonstration clubs would be concerned. It is hoped that further study along this line can determine what help the extension service can give to the women in the County. The whole on this pressing problem.

Oceana PTA To Meet Tuesday September 27

The Oceana Parent-Teacher Association will hold the first meeting of the year, Tuesday September 27th, at 8:00 P. M. in the school auditorium.

Mrs. John Wilson, principal, will give an informal talk on school activities.

The executive committee will be announced at this time. After the business meeting, there will be a reception for the members of the faculty, in the school cafeteria.

This is the Virginia Beach office of the Mutual Federal Savings and Loan Association of Norfolk which will be opened to the public today. The office is located at 3201 Pacific Avenue and will be open from 9 to 5 p.m. tonight. The firm of Oliver and Smith are the architects for the building.

• FORT STORY TELLINGS •

His "really outstanding" job of picture taking during the recent visit to Fort Story of the Secretary of the Army Monday brought congratulations to Sgt. John F. Hamilton from Fort Story's commanding officer.

Secretary and Mrs. Wilbur M. Brucker spent the Labor Day weekend at the Cape Henry Army post, accompanied by the Secretary's executive officer, Col. Fred V. Woyand, and Mrs. Woyand. They were guests of honor at a dinner at the Fort Story Officers Mess where Hamilton, a member of the post Photo Lab, was assigned to take pictures. He also photographed their party when they went for a LEECW ride off the Fort Story beach.

This week Colonel Woyand, in a letter to M/Gt. Bill Fitzgerald of the Fort Story Public Information Office, conveyed the Army Secretary's pleasure with Hamilton's "fine" pictures.

Secretary Brucker thought they were really outstanding and I agree with him," the colonel wrote. "Your photographer did a well job under very difficult circumstances."

Equally pleased with the 29-year-old New Yorker's professional skill, Col. George E. Woods Jr. called Hamilton to his office for a very cordial "well done."

"Your able, conscientious work is a credit to this command," the Fort Story commander told Hamilton. "I know you'll continue to make me proud of you."

Some 300,000 persons visit the Shakespeare Memorial Theatre at Stratford on Avon each year. The theatre was completed in 1932. The first Shakespearean festival in Stratford was organized by David Garrick in 1769.

Costa Rica was the first Central American nation to cultivate coffee. A "coffee rush" in the 1820's soon after the Costa Ricans won independence from Spain, made coffee the country's chief export and it still leads all others.

Governor Stanley Proclaims Conservation Week in Virginia

The week of October 16-22 has been proclaimed by Governor Thomas B. Stanley as "Natural Resources Conservation Week" in Virginia.

All agricultural agencies in Virginia are being asked to take part in the observance, which is sponsored by the Association of Soil Conservation District Supervisors. In his statement, Governor Stanley said:

"Wise use of soil, water, forest and wildlife resources is essential to the economic growth of this Commonwealth and to the welfare of its citizens. We cannot afford to damage our soil, waste our water, over-cut timberland, or fail to protect and improve our wildlife resources."

"We depend on these resources for recreation, for the production of our food and clothing, and much of our shelter. Our industry, as important as it is, would become helpless without the support of these natural resources. Because each of us must depend on these resources and should cooperate to conserve them, the week of October 16-22, 1955, has been designated as Virginia Natural Resources Conservation Week.

"Land, like people, has its special capabilities. Each acre of land on every farm has a definite use to which it is best suited. Much of the farm land of the Commonwealth is well adapted to the production of row crops, while many other acres are suited for row crops or pasture will yield their greatest economic return in the production of woodland products. There remains a considerable acreage that is most suitable as an environment for wildlife."

"It is encouraging to note that already more than 35,000 Virginia farmers have developed programs of using their lands in accordance with the soil's ability to produce designated crops. I earnestly hope Virginians will continue to improve these programs and bring the remainder of the farm lands of the state under a system of wise management as rapidly as possible, thus protecting the resources on which all of us depend."

Fishing is best on cloudy days or at night. Some fishermen say that a large bonfire on the shore reflects its reflection on the water, which will attract fish to that locality.

Now is a good time to order daffodils; they should be planted much earlier than other bulbs.

DeQuincey said: "Though a great man may, by rare possibility, be an infidel, yet an intellect of the highest order must build upon Christianity."

A drop of oil or sauce allowed to penetrate into the bait will attract fish to it.

Small mydriatic pills are recommended for early spring root fishing.

Colonial Stores Enters Second Big Week of "Advertised In Life" Sale

Customers will find a great array of money-saving food items this week at Colonial Stores—a variety of famous brand names as advertised in Life Magazine.

As one company official pointed out, the first week of Colonial's great "Advertised in Life" Sale was received with enthusiastic response. We made arrangements immediately to continue the sale for another week.

Featured are budget-saving prices on best of nationally-known brands—prices so low that many housewives have already stocked their pantries during the first week. Officials anticipate that the second week of the sale will be even bigger.

In addition to the low, low prices on items advertised in Life, the regular saving on all meats, produce and groceries will, of course, remain in effect, Colonial officials emphasized.

The reduced prices on this large group of food products are in the way of a "bonus" to our customers and additional evidence of our desire always to provide the finest in food at the lowest possible prices, they said.

The big sale is on in all Colonial Stores in the Virginia area and includes stores in parts of North Carolina and Maryland.

This sale, in cooperation with Life Magazine, was planned and arranged for several weeks in advance, and now in this month we entered to take care of the expected demand and allow for the substantial reductions in prices.

Ideas for the Modern Homemaker

By Mrs. Elizabeth D. Deal
County Home Agent

A solution of ammonia and water will clean your coated or stained bottles or vases.

A knee pad will prove invaluable for many cleaning jobs. Make your own of excelsior, kapok, or an old cushion which may be folded together and covered.

Burn your grapefruit, orange, and lemon peels in the stove to clean out the stove pipe.

It's sometimes hard to remove old finish from tiny grooves on the arms and legs of furniture. You may find this trick helpful—dip a piece of twine in the paint and varnish remover and saw back and forth through the groove or rings.

If you've recently moved and inherited a stove with an oven that isn't too clean, with thick coatings of grease inside, put small open dishes filled with ammonia inside the broiler and the oven section. Leave them there overnight. The ammonia fumes loosen the accumulated grime enough to make your cleanup a much easier job.

Here's a hint for the person with a pet dog or cat: Glue an old rubber jar ring under the animal's feeding dish. This helps keep it anchored to the floor and prevents upsets.

Save the juice from your pickled fruits, such as crabapples, peaches and pears, and use to baste your smoked ham.

Safety, Power, Lower Silhouette Features of Ford Line for 1956

Safety features offered for the first time by any automobile company, power equal to the Thunderbird, and lower body silhouettes are available in 1956 Ford cars which 6,800 Ford dealers place on display tomorrow.

The new Fords will be built in four series offering 18 body styles—two more than in 1955. They are available in 13 solid exterior colors, or 21 two-tone combinations.

A "Thunderbird Y-8" engine leads the power selections available for 1956. It is installed on Fairlane and Station Wagon models, and develops 202 horsepower for Fordomatic, or 200 hp for overdrive or standard transmission. Customline and Mainline Fords offer a V-8 engine developing 176 hp for Fordomatic, or 173 hp for overdrive or conventional drive. Also, the economical Ford six, increased to 137 hp, will be available on all models with all transmission types.

Ford safety research, coupled with studies of medical groups, led to development of a "lifeguard design" in 1956 models. New door latches give added protection against the chance that doors may open under impact. They have been proved in full scale crash tests at Dearborn, Michigan.

To keep the driver's chest from hitting the steering column in a crash, the new three-spoke Ford steering wheel has its center hub recessed 3½ inches below the wheel rim.

Rear view mirrors have a special backing to prevent shattering.

Front and rear seat mountings have been strengthened so they will resist greater impact.

In addition, Ford offers two optional safety devices: Seat belts, designed to withstand pull up to 4,000 pounds, will help to hold occupants inside cars, and to prevent forward motion. Foam plastic padding for instrument panels and sun visors will help to absorb impact if a person is accidentally thrown forward.

Styling advances in the Ford for '56 include a new grille with oblong parking lights at the outer ends, set in frames which wrap around the fender sides. Body side molding is restyled for Fairlane, Station Wagon and Customline models. Restyled tail lamps and deck lid handles, a larger completely new instrument panel are offered in all models.

The 1956 Victoria is 1½ inches lower than the comparable 1955 model. Two door and four door sedans also have new tops reducing total car height almost a full inch. However, headroom was not reduced since the contour change is mostly along the top's center line, and fabric headlinings are installed closer to the steel top.

An addition to the line is the Parklane Station Wagon, a two door car which offers an eight by five foot load space with tailgate extended. It is fitted inside with deluxe upholstery and trim combinations, and has special bright metal trim inside and outside. Early in the model year, Ford will start production of a new four door Victoria style in which side pillars have been eliminated to provide all-around vision.

A 12-volt electrical system is standard on 1956 models, providing 80% faster engine cranking

Norfolk - Atlanta Now Non-Stop

A new non-stop air service between Norfolk and Atlanta on flights also serving Baltimore, Washington and Newport News will be inaugurated September 25 by Capital Airlines. It has been announced by James W. Austin, vice president of flights and sales for the airline.

The authority to operate the non-stop flights was recently granted to Capital Airlines by the Civil Aeronautics Board. Austin said. A morning flight will leave Baltimore at 7 o'clock making stops at Washington and Newport News. The four-engine transport airplane then leaves Norfolk at 9:10, arriving in Atlanta at 11:58.

A return flight departs Atlanta at 12:40 p. m., reaching Norfolk at 3:10. The flight then arrives in Newport News at 3:40, Washington at 4:47 and Baltimore at 5:33.

and more capacity to handle the increasing number of accessories being ordered on cars today. The new 30-ampere Ford generator has 61% greater power output than last year's model. Batteries have 22% more capacity.

Optional convenience and comfort features in the 1956 Ford include power steering, as well as power-operated brakes, seats, and window lifts. Air conditioning, fresh air heaters and tinted safety glass are available. This year Ford offers a signal-seeking radio which automatically selects new stations. A dual-range automatic control adjusts the set for city or country listening.

Motoring in the 'Good Old Days'

The following item is "swiped" from the Virginia Traffic Safety News. Dependent upon where the incident occurred. Road on:

In 1904 the public was evidently far more apathetic concerning its right to the highway. Private interests staging a 250-300 mile road race had an edict posted—and obeyed—which was backed by county board of supervisors, and which read in part: "All persons are warned against using the roads between 5 a. m. and 3 p. m. All persons are cautioned against allowing domestic animals or fowl to be at large. Children unattended should be kept off the road. Chain your dog and lock up your fowl. To avoid danger, don't crowd into the road."

Supervoltage x-rays in ranges up to 50,000,000 volts are being used successfully in treating cancer.

During the three years of the Korean struggle, cancer killed 20 times as many Americans as the war did.

Half of all cancer deaths in the U. S. occur in people under 65 years of age. Of this number 3,500 are children under 15. Join the American Cancer Society Crusade.

Residential expenditures in construction increased 12% last year, with an estimated 1,200,000 housing starts.

One out of four families in the $7,500-plus income group now owns two cars. Auto manufacturers say the number of two-car owners will double into the next ten years.

Shelley said: "I know the past and thence will assay to guess a warning for the future, so that man may profit by his errors, and derive experience from his folly."

HOW LONG SINCE YOUR LAST CHECKUP?

You wisely have your car checked over at regular periods because you know that care prolongs the life of the automobile. But how long has it been since you had a checkup on yourself? Your body, like a motor, requires periodic inspection and tuning-up to keep it from suffering "breakdowns" that could shorten your life. Be wise. Take care. Let the next trip you make in your car be to your doctor's office for a thorough physical checkup. Call him now for an appointment—and keep it!

Norfolk Wants To Be State's Largest City

Norfolk City in its effort to gobble up 33 square miles of Princess Anne County seems to have but one thought in view and that is to be Virginia's largest city. There are many other titles that could be attached to a city that would carry more prestige than the one Norfolk seeks, and seems to cherish. A title of being Virginia's most progressive city, it would seem, would be a more cherished title.

If Norfolk merely wants to be the State's biggest city it should consolidate with the City of Portsmouth and the City of South Norfolk and then its position would be secure from now on.

Within the past few days the Seaboard Airline Railroad announced that it will move its general office from Norfolk to the City of Richmond. This proposes a serious problem to Norfolk and Portsmouth and instead of bending their efforts to gobble up neighbors the city should be devoting its time to the prevention of this sort of move.

There has not been a new hotel built in downtown Norfolk in fifty years. Norfolk is not the home office of any large life insurance company or any large fire insurance company. There have not been any large industrial plants to locate within the city limits. Norfolk's downtown area still floods with every high tide. It still has outdoor privies scattered all over the present city. Its police force is still under-staffed and underpaid. Its schools are overcrowded beyond belief.

We do not write this just to be critical of our neighbors but we do wish to point out that if Norfolk has all this money to spend it should spend it on the people who have been paying the taxes in the heat of the day and to correct the problems we have stated above for the benefit of its present residents.

The Beach Withstands Hurricane

Although the latest hurricane—lone—merely skirted Virginia Beach and the Tidewater area it nonetheless brought gusty winds and at times created an angry surf along the city's oceanfront.

It was interesting on Tuesday to view the results of the high winds and rough surf on Virginia Beach's sand beach. While expectations were that the storm's result would take away most of the sand from the beach the exact result was just the opposite.

Between hurricanes the Virginia Beach Erosion Commission decided to replenish sand in certain areas of the beach that had been damaged by previous north-easters or unusually active surf conditions. Instead of lone's effects taking this new sand away as many expected it merely distributed the sand along the beach and left the beach in probably its finest condition in a long time.

More Dangerous Than Gun

EDITOR'S NOTE: The following editorial appears in the September issue of "The Virginia Traffic Safety News," and is well worth your perusal.

Commenting on a Virginia case involving involuntary manslaughter, Michie's "Jurisprudene" says, "It must be shown that a homicide was not improbable under all the facts existing at the time, and that the knowledge of such facts should have had an effect on the offender."

We have often wondered why traffic manslaughter convictions are so rare. With 36,308 people killed last year on the nation's streets and highways through the misuse of automobiles, any driver should realize full well that death is far from an improbable result of reckless driving. Certainly everyone should realize that a motor vehicle has become a very dangerous agency.

In 1954, the conviction percentage obtained by the State Police in all traffic cases was 94.75, yet that of traffic manslaughter only 17.66. In fact they were able to obtain the convictions of only 31 people.

Twelve of these offenders received suspended sentences or probation only. One had at least three previous drunken driving convictions, another one for reckless driving and one for drunken driving.

Along with suspended sentences, three others received fines to talling $450 and two were fined $500 and $200 respectively with no other penalties.

Straight jail sentences with no fines consisted of one of four months, two of one year, one of 18 months, one of three years and one of four years. The recipient of four years was adjudged responsible for four deaths. That of three years saw all suspended but three months although his record shows three previous convictions for reckless driving, one for no inspection sticker, one for driving under a revoked license and involvement in four traffic crashes. He who received 18 months had been previously convicted for speeding three times, once for improper passing and had involvement in three crashes.

The remaining seven received, respectively, $500 and 18 days, $100 and 60 days, $1,000 and 12 months (11 suspended), $30 and 180 days, $500 and 90 days, $150 and 12 months and $20 and 12 months.

In many cases charges of drunken driving were also placed but either were nolle prossed or combined with the more serious charge as is sometimes done.

"Keep on Killing" As long as people who mis-handle an automobile to kill can escape scot free or with a comparatively light on the wrist, they are going to keep on killing. Something must be done to make them realize a motor vehicle can be more dangerous than a gun and must be handled with every reasonable precaution.

Some states now have a law establishing an offense which can be loosely termed "motor vehicle homicide." This is classified as a misdemeanor (manslaughter is a felony) and brings a penalty more severe than for reckless driving but not so severe as manslaughter and avoids the manslaughter stigma.

Perhaps this is what Virginia needs, since our society has so much sympathy for the traffic killer that it cannot adopt a realistic attitude. He is no more considered a killer than the dangerous driver is considered a potential killer. Too many of us drive automobiles and too many of us feel "There but for the Grace of God stand I."

Fight '56 Polio Epidemics Now

By HART E. VAN RIPER, M. D.

Medical Director, National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis

Almost all of us are infected by the polio virus at one time or another. Generally, we don't even know we have the infection. We may have a sore throat or an upset stomach.

Sometimes, however, the polio virus does serious damage. It attacks the central nervous system, destroying nerve cells and causing paralysis.

If almost everyone is attacked by the virus, there must be an important reason why some people succumb and some do not. There is.

The critical battle in the fight against polio takes place, as it always has, in the bodies of human beings. It is a battle between the polio virus and tiny particles, called antibodies, which can destroy the virus in the blood stream.

When an individual is infected by the polio virus, the virus enters his system and begins to multiply. At the same time, the human system begins to produce defensive antibodies.

Virus vs. Antibody

A race ensues. If the human antibody factory works speedily enough, the antibodies destroy the polio virus in the blood and keep it from attacking nerve cells.

If the virus multiplies faster than antibodies can be produced to fight it, the virus overwhelms the body's defenses, attacks the nervous system and may cause paralysis.

For nearly all of recorded history men knew no way to influence the critical battle of polio within the human body. Then, in 1951 and 1952, research supported by the March of Dimes revealed that antibodies from other people's blood—contained in gamma globulin—could be "loaned" to an individual by injection and would give some protection against paralytic polio.

But the loaned antibodies only lasted a few weeks. And to be effective, they had to be injected before or at most within a few days after a person was exposed to polio, and it is not generally possible to tell when this is.

Obviously, gamma globulin, although of value in epidemic situations, was no final answer to the control of polio. Among other things, there could never be enough to go around (since it comes from human blood) and it is extremely expensive.

The Salk Vaccine

Now—for the first time—we have an effective means for controlling polio. The Salk vaccine, in the most extensive and careful field trial ever given a vaccine, was shown to be 69 to 90% effective in preventing paralytic polio. The vaccine now being manufactured is even more effective.

In most parts of the country we are now at the tapering-off part of the 1955 polio season. There is no doubt that we have it in our power greatly to reduce polio incidence next year. How well we succeed will depend largely on how many children receive vaccine.

First, of course, the vaccine must be manufactured and distributed. During the fall and winter large supplies will be made available for use. It is so much to hope that all of the 145,000,000 people in the United States can be vaccinated before next summer, but many millions of children will surely be inoculated, including almost all in the highly susceptible five through nine year age group.

Since polio attacks more children than adults, it is by vaccinating children that the greatest effect can be achieved, in terms of preventing cases of paralytic polio.

Is Vaccine Safe?

Every parent naturally has questions about the vaccine. Foremost is the question: Is the vaccine safe? The answer to this is "yes." Last spring, according to a U. S. Public Health Service report, live virus was found in a small amount of vaccine that had been released. More stringent government safety standards were promptly established to prevent a recurrence of this incident.

The difficulties of a single manufacturer do not, of course, reflect on the safety of all commercially produced vaccine, any more than the existence of one contaminated source of water suggests that water itself is unsafe.

During the summer there have been suggestions that a single shot of the vaccine might give some protection against paralytic polio, and so parents may wonder if such an injection is not enough. The answer is that it is not enough to give full and lasting protection.

How Vaccine Works
Here is what happens when a child is given vaccine. Some seven to ten days after his first shot he begins to develop polio-fighting antibodies. These help strengthen his defenses against paralytic polio. When he receives his second shot, the number of antibodies again rises. Then, approximately seven months later, when he receives his third shot, there is a further rise in antibodies, and he then has the full protection of the vaccine.

Thus, the child with one shot has some help in defending himself against paralytic polio. The child with two has even more help. The child with three, properly spaced, has the full protection of the vaccine.

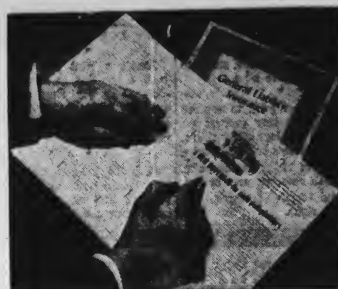

The body tries to defend itself against paralytic polio even without vaccine. What the vaccine does is bolster natural defenses. Everyone would like to know how long the effect of vaccine lasts. And no one can give a hard and fast answer, because we have not had the vaccine very long. A number of children who have received it will be followed thru the years until we do know how long it protects.

However, because the level of Sandy Peterson's nephew Pete has gone back to college. He worked on Sandy's farm a couple of months last summer to get hardened up for football.

He seemed to enjoy farm life all right—but like most city kids it took him some time to get used to a farmer's schedule.

Sandy claims that when he went in to wake Pete—on the first morning—the boy looked up startled and asked what time it was. Sandy replied it was four-fifteen. "Gee," Pete murmured, "if we're going to do a day's work tomorrow you'd better get to bed!"

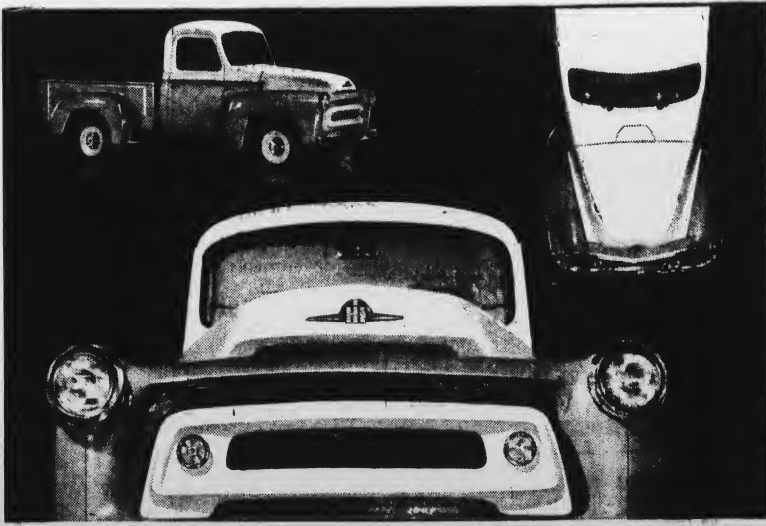

From where I sit, we must have heard a million stories like that. But they show how some people assume their customs are the only proper ones. To most city folks getting up at 4:15 seems odd, because they don't do it. Just like some people don't think enjoying a glass of beer is "right" . . . because they happen to prefer another beverage and haven't waked up to the fact that everyone has a right to his own choice.

Notes from YOUR COUNTY AGENT

By DICK COCKRILL
County Agricultural Agent

All Farm Bureau members in Princess Anne county are receiving notices this week of an important meeting that is scheduled for the Princess Anne Courthouse School room Monday Sept. 26th at eight o'clock P. M. The meeting will be a double feature affair, as follows.

The first thirty minutes of the meeting will be given over to discussion and enrolling of Farm Bureau families into group hospitalization plan. This is a service that the Directors are offering the members and John W. Potter, the organization president, is urging all members to attend and get first hand information on this most important service. Mr. Potter stated further that the group plan will save the members considerable money in comparison to the individual membership plan, and that hospitalization is a form of sickness insurance that no one can afford to be without and he hopes that enough members will sign applications next Monday night to put the group plan into effect.

During the second thirty minutes of the meeting the members will be asked to offer resolutions to develop policies to guide our county organization during the coming year and to assist in developing policies for the State and National organizations. Farm Bureau is a most democratic organization as the more than 1,600,000 Farm Bureau families in the United States do make the policies that guide the officials in their effort to be of the greatest service to American farmers.

There are many important issues facing the American farmer in the immediate future and every Farm Bureau member should avail themselves of this opportunity to let themselves be heard on how they feel the problems ahead should be solved. Mr. Potter is expecting a large attendance and active discussion on the issues next Monday night.

VPI STAFF MEMBER TO PRESENT PAPER AT MAYO CLINIC

Dr. Vernon H. Baker, research professor, agricultural engineering department, VPI, has been invited to present a paper at a symposium to be held at the Mayo Clinic, Rochester, Minn., September 23-24.

The symposium is sponsored by the Biophysics Section of the Mayo Clinic in cooperation with the Sandia Corporation of Albuquerque, N. Mex. Microwave diathermy is the main topic.

Dr. Baker explains that the electromagnetic fields generated by radar and other electronic equipment are becoming more and protection after the third shot is so high, there is reason to hope that it will last for many years.

Third Shot "Real Key"
The third shot is in a sense the real key to the effectiveness of the vaccine. This is why we will look with growing interest toward the 1956 polio season. By that time enough youngsters should have received their complete series of injections to make a substantial difference in the nationwide polio rate. Then we will be able to look forward to final control of polio within a few years.

This fall the vaccine program of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis will be concluded in school clinics in all states. In these clinics youngsters from the first and second grades will receive their second shots of vaccine, and so will third and fourth graders in schools that participated in the 1954 field trials. No first shots will be given.

The United States Congress has appropriated $30,000,000 for the purchase of polio vaccine during the coming few months. Supplies of vaccine are allocated to states on the basis of the number of unvaccinated children five through nine years of age. Each state is responsible for the distribution of the vaccine within its borders. Your local health officer or personal physician will be able to tell you what arrangements have been made in your state.

Win or Lose This Winter

The battle against polio in the summer of 1956, so far as prevention is concerned, will be won or lost this fall and winter. Success will depend on how many children are vaccinated. If we vaccinate every youngster for whom we have vaccine, next year should begin to show a significant decrease in the number of paralyzed children.

Jobs increase faster than population, multiply faster than machines. Since 1939, jobs in manufacturing have increased 70%, population 22%.

more intense as new equipment is developed. Much attention has been given recently to the effects of these intense fields on human beings. Dr. Baker's paper titled "Some Effects of Electromagnetic Energy on Biological Material" presents data which was obtained on a research project in cooperation with the Upjohn Company of Kalamazoo, Michigan.

The symposium will be attended by physicists, radar experts, electronic engineers, biophysicists, doctors of medicine, members of the Armed Forces, and representatives from industrial organizations.

Cancer Society To Hold Election

Princess Anne County Chapter of the American Cancer Society extends an open invitation to a "dutch treat" luncheon at the Pine Tree Inn, Sept. 23, at 1 p.m. Mrs. Margaret Tompkins, newly appointed president of the chapter will conduct a short business meeting at which time Mrs. Walton Saunders, nominating chairman, will be called upon to present the state of officers and introduce the board of directors. Election of officers will be held at this time and plans for the coming year activities will be outlined.

Representatives from the regional offices in Richmond will speak to the group and describe the great work being done by the American Cancer Society.

Information about the luncheon can be obtained by calling Mrs. Marguerite Roberts at 108-R.

GOOD TIME TO BEGIN

September is a good time to renew those resolutions to "eat a better breakfast." Your children need a good breakfast to start them off to school each morning. You can bring them to the table fast with really taste-tempting breakfast treats. Try trimming a plain coffee cake — either bakery fresh or homemade — with corn crunch topping. Just combine one-third cup finely crushed corn flakes, one-half cup brown sugar and one-half teaspoon cinnamon. Mix lightly with one-fourth cup melted butter or margarine. Spread the mixture over your coffee cake and warm it in the oven until the cake is heated through.

Seahawks Score In Each Quarter To Defeat Deep Creek 34-0

The Virginia Beach "Seahawks" opened their '55 season with a 34-0 victory last week at the expense of the Deep Creek "Hornets." For the Hornets it marked the opening of their newly completed stadium. A large crowd, which was well represented by Beach High students, saw the Seahawks combine a hard running backfield, an aggressive line and some smooth pass patterns into a well balanced team. Head Coach Fred Isaacs, line coach James Cook, and end coach Charles Modlin are to be commended for their fine work.

Hornets Outplayed From the first kickoff until the final whistle the Seahawks displayed plenty of hustle both on offense and defense. The Hornets put up a hard battle all the way but the more experienced Seahawks were not to be denied. They proved this by limiting the Hornets to 3 first downs while gaining 11 themselves.

Jester Tallies

In the first quarter with the ball on the Hornets 30 yardline, quarterback Tom Barnes stepped back and flipped a touchdown pass to end Morris Jester. The quarter ended with V. B. leading 7-0. In the second quarter with Kenny Sydenstricker, Donald Bathelet and Leigh Forbes carrying the ball, V. B. hammered out two more touchdowns. Tom Barnes scored one on a 9 yard run, while passing to Forbes for the other tally. The third and fourth quarters found V. B. scoring two more touchdowns. Morris Jester made good on 4 out of 5 extra points.

Backs Ronald Ridenhour, Bobby Liverman, Byron Cuthrie and quarterback Stacey Adams made repeated attempts to buckle the winners' line. Virginia Beach's forward wall was held in place by the defense work of center Charles Meschum, tackles Brian Zittrein and Frank Tarrall, and guards Louis Spruill, Bob McIver,

Cheer Leaders Selected At High School

With the opening of school and the organizing of clubs and sports among the most anxious to start the sports season are the newly elected cheerleaders at Virginia Beach High School.

Last Spring a committee of faculty and past cheerleaders picked from a group of hopeful try-outs ten cheerleaders and one alternate. A list of the following was approved by Mr. Johnson before practice began: Sandy Walsh, Gale Phillips, Frances McLean, Betty Ann Harrell, Jerry McClannan, Betsy Southerland, with Sally Southerland alternate. Those returning from last year's squad are Sandy Briggs, Linda Hearne, and Gray Schaefer. The Co-Captains this year chosen by the girls are Gray Schaefer and Linda Hearne.

On the first Monday in August they gathered to organize and plan for the coming school year.

and Pat Standing.

Harold James especially played a large part as line-backer for the Seahawks, blocking 2 Hornet punts. Kenny Sydenstricker, substituting for injured co-captain Dean Wyrick, played well both of offense and defense.

Don't forget tomorrow night, Sept. 23, when the Seahawks meet Churchland at the Va. Beach Stadium.

FT. STORY SPORTS

The National Division title of Fort Story's intramural softball league was finally decided last week as the Navy Harbor Entrance Control Base (HECB).

Since many of the girls had little previous experience in cheering, there was much work to be done.

These Virginia Beach girls have gained recognition for their original cheering attire. At the first game they plan to wear Bermuda Shorts which they inaugurated last year due to the warm September weather.

The faculty sponsor this year is Mrs. Jo Ann Madlin, along with the assistance of Miss Patricia Bowry. Here's hoping for a great season and if the team and student body are as enthusiastic as their cheerleaders we surely will have it.

Squad won the last of a see-saw three-game series with the 461st DUKW Company's "Barracudas" in a high-scoring 16-8 slugfest. The sailors won the first game, 12-3, and came back to cop the finale after dropping a 7-1 decision to the Barracudas in the second contest. A five-game series between HECB and Headquarters Company, 5th Transportation Terminal Command "B" — American Division champs — will decide the post intramural championship.

Re-opening of Story's bowling alley is set for October 1 in preparation for the onslaught of keepers practicing for Story's intramural bowling league opening later in the month. Nine companies will vie for the crown held by Headquarters Company, 5th Transportation Terminal Command "B", last year's champs.

The Fort Eustis All-Stars' sole victory in the recent Second Army baseball championships came as the result of a neat two-hitter by Norm Chandler, a Fort Story hurler on the Eustis squad. Chandler's bat helped as his line drive single drove in the winning run in the 2-1 contest. The All-Stars were twice defeated in the double elimination event by the Fort Lee Travelers, eventual tourney champs.

Story Cadets will sport new uniforms in their Navy Major Inter-Service Basketball League campaigning this winter, according to coach Jimmy Pace of the 604th DUKW Company. The scarlet, blue and gold outfits are not the only change the team will introduce, since it faces an entire rebuilding job with all but one of last year's squad gone. Coach Pace, an all-around athlete at Texas University before he entered service, is presently holding down a halfback slot on the Fort Eustis football team, but will return in time to get his netmen in shape.

Birdneck Garden Club Meets At Home Of Mrs. E. Ashley Haycox

Hurricane Ione appeared to have a soft spot in her heart for the Birdneck Garden Club last Tuesday at their first meeting of the year when she subsided suddenly Monday night, and allowed Mrs. Mabel Gray Davis of the Ocean View Garden Club to come all the way to Birdneck to conduct a flower arrangement class at the home of Mrs. E. Ashley Haycox, hostess for the meeting.

The meeting was well attended but Mrs. Davis in her efficient way was still able to give personal attention to each member's arrangements. She stressed line and design but added "Don't ever think that color is not everything, too."

During the business meeting, Mrs. R. B. Baldwin, president of the club, announced that Mrs. Karl A. Wunder had accepted the chairmanship of a Plant Sale to be held on October 1st in front of Colonial's 31st St. Store. Members were asked to contribute rooted shrubs, evergreens, cut flowers, ground covers, house plants, etc. and to have their contributions in time to "open for business" by 10:00 a.m.

Co-hostesses with Mrs. Haycox were Mrs. Everett A. Martin and Mrs. Hugh W. Lindsay. Guests attending were Mrs. Henry Plender of Birdneck, and Mrs. W. H. Rohr of Tampa, Florida.

In judging the horticulture specimens, Mrs. Davis was assisted by Mrs. R. A. Robinett, also of the Ocean View Garden Club. Ribbons were awarded to the following ladies: Blue, Mrs. Gailup; Mrs. C. M. Lovitt; Mrs. D. Stormont and Mrs. Lindsay; Red to Mrs. Haycox.

Mrs. Lodge, a native of Norfolk is a past president of the Portsmouth Women's Club, Past Regent of Hampton D. A. R. Chapter, is Chairman of the D. A. R. State Conference of 1956 and is a member of the State Speakers Forum. Mrs. Lodge spoke on Good Citizenship and told many interesting facts on the basic foundation of the Constitution; the real beginning which took place at a meeting at Mount Vernon with George Washington taking an important part in its making and also of another meeting at Annapolis, Md. before the first general meeting at Philadelphia which lasted for four months and at which time the Constitution was finally drafted and sent to the Continental Congress for adoption. She said in closing that we as Americans have a heritage to be proud of.

MRS. CONNELL ATTENDS DISTRICT MEETING

COMPOST

With cool weather here, there are some garden chores that may need attention. For example, the lawn should probably be fertilized and limed. Most home owners locally will want to plant re grass and now is the time for it. A good idea is to mow the existing lawn very short so that the re seed will be more apt to fall to the ground and thus germinate.

Check the tools needed for removing leaves, because they will soon be falling. Matted leaves not only hide the grass, but are harmful to it. A good metal leaf rake or a leaf sweeper or a leaf mulcher attachment to a rotary mower is needed. Pulverizing the leaves with a mulcher returns valuable organic matter to the soil. If the leaves are raked or swept, it is a good idea to put them on a compost pile rather than burning them. Compost is rotted leaves, grass, twigs, etc., that gardeners frequently have to dispose of. They can be piled up in an out-of-the-way place and when rotted, make a valuable soil additive that can be worked into soil when setting out plants. Compost used this way adds organic matter to the soil and increases its fertility considerably.

Actually, the best way to prepare compost is to construct a square bin of lumber or cinder blocks to a height of about three feet. A layer of leaves, etc., is put in until it is several inches thick and then a layer of good soil is added. To complete the recipe, add water and a few pinches (bushfuls) of fertilizer. Keep the center of the area lowest so that rain water will be collected rather than scattered. Repeat the layers of organic material and soil. As decomposition takes place mix the materials thoroughly and the result will be a first class gardening soil.

It is interesting to note that a large number of gardeners and some farmers (though certainly not the majority) are almost fatalistic in their belief that only organic substances should be used on plants. They feel that chemical fertilizers and insecticides contaminate fruits and vegetables, that they reduce the ability of soil to produce on a long range basis, that growing plants by chemical aid takes organic matter without returning it, that it is contrary to the natural way of doing things, etc. Several books have been written to describe the viewpoint and a monthly magazine is published by believers in "the organic method of growing plants."

As in most controversies the organic gardeners have some good arguments. However, scientific agricultural research seems to bear out the idea that plants can be grown much more efficiently thru intelligent use of fertilizers and insecticides. Organic matter in soil is very important, and is provided for in farming by growing a crop every three years or so and plowing this back into the soil to rot. It is provided for in gardening by working compost, peat moss, etc., into the soil and by using mulches which rot and are absorbed by the soil.

In actual practice therefore, a compromise is reached between the two extremes of using all chemicals (hydroponics) and of using none. Nevertheless the real organic gardeners are quite uncompromising. It is an interesting subject.

VARIATION

ON FRENCH TOAST

Like French toast? Then you'll welcome this simple but interesting variation for a special breakfast. To make orange toast delicatissimo, combine one beaten egg, one-fourth cup milk, one tablespoon sugar, one tablespoon grated orange rind and a dash of salt. Mix well. Dip bread slices into the egg mixture, lightly coating both sides. Brown on both sides in hot butter or margarine in a skillet. Serve at once with honey, syrup or applesauce. This amount is enough egg dip for six slices of bread.

BEST-BREED LIST

Each year the Government Printing Office sells cardinals of pamphlets and booklets on practically every subject. One publication has been so popular that sales have reached the ten million mark, and others have sold well into the millions. The best sellers include such varied titles as "Prospecting for Uranium," "Infant Care," "Pointers on Making

...you've had a nice summer. It's sure been a hot one... someone said the hottest in 85 years. And hurricanes, my, oh, my! Haven't they been plentiful!

Here's an invitation to good eating... Summer, Fall, Winter, Spring... a nice juicy sugar-cured ham, or Smithfield, if you prefer. A whole ham is a nice choice, for it may be served first after cooking, for a hot meal, then sliced cold for several days. Always good for sandwiches and goodness gracious, starchy me, what could be nicer for breakfast. Just slice some, turn it quickly in the hot frying pan and the scramble eggs, right in the juice. Nice for luncheon if your little folks insist on carrying their own lunch to school.

Veal Roast
A veal roast is a perfect selection for any celebration meal. It has a fine, delicate flavor. Cook it slow at 325° F. or if you are using a meat thermometer, 180°. It should be well done. If it lacks fat, place strips of bacon or salt pork over it to keep it from drying during the roasting process.

Oven-browned potatoes, buttered peas, cloverleaf rolls, a molded fruit salad and a fruit cobbler is a la mode would make a dinner fit for your king.

...and Franks
When the budget is feeling "mighty low," hot dogs, or if you had rather call them frankfurters, make a lot of good eating. So many ways to fix them and of course you don't need to be reminded that they are SO good when split lengthwise, filled with cheese, then closely tightly, wrapped with bacon and baked in a hot oven. For some quick but good baked beans, open one or two cans — according to the number you're going to feed — mix in a tablespoon or two of grated onion, a little brown sugar and bake about 45 minutes at 375°. If you like them drier, bake a little longer. A big tossed salad with the franks and beans, with some rolls — the crusty kind — makes a fine meal.

Did you know that ever since 1862, when the first frankfurter was put together in Germany, and 1863, when the frankfurter made its first appearance in the United States, more and more hot dogs are being consumed each year? Though frankfurters are a favorite food the year around, the summer months do have a slight edge on the hot dog consumption. In fact, it was predicted in June that each person would eat 15.85 hot dogs before Labor Day, 1955. Did you?

Haven't you heard folks say, "Couldn't eat another bite" after you've served the main course? Well, bring out this dessert and they'll change their minds.

HAWAIIAN APPLE PIE

Pasty—
2 cups sifted flour
1 teaspoon salt
2/3 cup lard
5 to 6 tablespoons water
Sift flour with salt. With a pastry blender or two knives, cut in half of the lard until the mixture resembles corn meal; put in remaining lard until mixture is the size of small peas. Sprinkle water over mixture, about a tablespoon at a time and blend with a fork until mixture is moistened. Shape into a ball and cut in half. On a lightly floured board, roll out half the dough to 1/4 inch thickness. Line a 9-inch pie pan. Roll out the remaining dough for the top crust.

Filling—
5 cups thinly sliced tart apples
1 can crushed pineapple (approximately 9 ounces)
1/2 cup granulated sugar
1/2 cup brown sugar
3 tablespoons flour
1/2 teaspoon cinnamon
1/4 teaspoon nutmeg
1/2 teaspoon salt
3 tablespoons butter or margarine
Mix sugars, spices, salt and flour. Place half the apple slices and half the well-drained pineapple in crust. Sprinkle with half the sugar mixture. Top with rest of fruit, piling up slightly toward the center, then add rest of sugar mixture. Dot with small pieces of butter or margarine. Put on top crust, slash in several places, and bake at 425° for 40 to 50 minutes.

Bye, now...
Nylon, in plastic form, is now being used for many hospital utensils because of its lightness of weight and extreme toughness. Nylon utensils don't clatter and are not affected by cold sterilization or detergents.

If your household duties get boring, try making a game out of it and see how you can simplify your work. Here are some suggestions which may lead you to think of others.

Leave out any part of a task which you can save time and energy. Here are some examples: Placing shirts on hangers rather than folding if space permits; rack drying instead of towel drying for dishes; using a big measure instead of a smaller one; and making a bed in one trip around it rather than several.

Combine any tasks you can. Make one operation in place of two of some of these: Serve food in baking dish in which it was cooked; fold pillow covers as you iron; cut biscuits with knife instead of cutter; and remove the clothes from dryer while damp to save dampening.

Eliminate tasks which you can, such as washing walls, shades, woodwork and drapes, by using a vacuum cleaner attachment often enough.

Use a furniture wax to both clean and polish furniture in place of two operations.

RECIPE OF THE WEEK

Creamy French Dressing

(Makes 1 1/2 cups)

1 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon dry mustard
3 tablespoons sugar
3 tablespoons catsup
1/4 cup undiluted evaporated milk
1/2 cup salad oil
3 tablespoons vinegar

Measure all ingredients except vinegar into mixing bowl. Beat with rotary beater until well blended. Add vinegar all at once and beat thoroughly. Dressing will be creamy thick. For a thicker dressing, increase oil to one cup, beating in half at one time before adding vinegar. Store in covered jar in refrigerator.

10th T Battalion Celebrates First Anniversary of Founding

First anniversary of the 10th T Battalion was celebrated with a field day on the post parade ground in which battalion units took part in competitive sports, with refreshments to boot. The 10th, which was built up one year ago when it was designated the 5th T Battalion, has grown steadily since that time. It now comprises, in addition to its Headquarters Detachment, five Dukow companies, the 344th, 347th, 460th, 606th and 607th — and one terminal service company, the 565th, currently in the Arctic area on Operation SUNEC 56.

Charity Fund Drive Committee Appointed

Appointment of a committee for the United Charity Fund drive which runs from September 30 to November 3 has been announced. Named president was Maj. Herman Nadler, acting commander of the 10th Transportation Battalion. Other members are Maj. William F. Dooey, Maj. George L. Williams, Capt. John P. Cunningham, Capt. Wallace W. Langford, 1st Lt. Robert Kinnear, 2nd Lt. Philip J. Moran, Mrs. Doris S. Shome and Harry Holland. The drive will cover all charities which members of the command in the past have been asked to support individually throughout the year.

344th Dukow Company Has Six Re-enlistees

Six members of the 344th Dukow Company, a 10th Battalion unit, gratified their company commander, 1st Lt. Jack J. Schwartz, by re-enlisting for a six-year period, with the Post Adjutant, Capt. Warren L. Green, administering the oath of allegiance. All six are anticipating early reassignment overseas. M/Sgt. Rollin E. Stanton and Pfc. John F. Post, Jack A. Turner and Howard T. Lepore will go to Europe, and Sgt. Leroy S. Emmons and Pvt. Willie H. Perrin to the Far East.

10th Battalion Will Participate in Support Problem

The name unit of the 10th Battalion, the 344th, will have troops, vehicles and equipment taking part in the latest combat support problem to be staged at Fort Eustis from September 23 through October 7. The company is sending 31 amphibious truck drivers and 16 other men along with 14 Dubois and the new, larger Super-Duck. Officers in charge of the group will be 2nd Lt. Robert K. Haynes.

Plans Being Formulated For Jamestown Anniversary

Preliminary plans for Story's role in the 1957 Jamestown Anniversary celebration were discussed at a meeting of representatives of the Order of Cape Henry 1607 with Col. George E. Woods, Jr., post commander, and Lt. Col. John W. Daly, his executive. The 350th anniversary of the founding of the colony will be given elaborate four-day observance. Story, as the site of the Cape Henry Memorial Cross which marks the first landing of the colonists on April 26, 1607, before they went on to Jamestown, will figure prominently in the celebration.

Captain Fitzgerald Acting Executive Officer

Tenth Battalion Headquarters has a new arrival as Acting Executive Officer. He is Capt. Lester P. Fitzgerald of Houston, Texas, recently returned from a three-year tour of duty in the Far East. Captain Fitzgerald, with twenty years of Army service behind him, served in Korea from July, 1950, to May, 1953, with the 351st Highway Group, and more recently was stationed at Sendai, Japan. His previous foreign service includes two years in the Philippines, from 1946 to 1948.

"Far Shore" Exercise Has Only Minor Mishaps

"Far Shore" phases of exercise LOTS-5 wound up with an efficiency developed by long training as ships and landing craft taking part in the week-long operation returned to Fort Eustis for discharge of cargo and equipment. Despite choppy seas of Cape Henry, the exercise was marked by only a few operational mis-

Col. Jas. Wolaver On 12-Day Air Tour

The 10th Battalion's commander, Lt. Col. James F. Wolaver, will cover a wide area of the far north during a 12-day air tour for which he will be absent from Story until early October. Colonel Wolaver on his return will have first-hand background to be had on and orientation officer for his and other units taking part in SUNEC 56. His tour will take him to Peperrell AFB, Newfoundland; St. John's AFB, Goose Bay AFB, Labrador; Probiar Bay and Esfin Island, Canada, and Thade and Sondrestrom, Greenland. During his absence the 10th is commanded by its executive officer, Major Herman Nadler.

Two Young Officers Receive Silver Bars

Silver bars of first lieutenant glitter on the collars of two young officers of the 370th T Battalion. They are former 2d Lts. Robert A. White, Jr., of the 461st Dukow Company and John G. Jones of the 570th Terminal Service Company. Both entered the Army in

The man who had to live

This man has sat in the hospital corridor for four hours.

The parents of an injured child are sitting across from him.

In a matter of minutes a surgeon will come from the operating room and tell them the child, just nine, is dead.

The man will rise to his feet and face the parents. There will be nothing he can do and little he can say. He will wish with all his heart that the accident had not happened.

Now, of course, it is too late. The child is dead; the man must live.

He wasn't speeding, and he was on his side of the street. The child ran directly into the path of his car.

But in his heart, he's guilty. He forgot the carelessness of youth. He failed to remember that youngsters think and act like youngsters. He failed to think for anyone except himself. He failed a nine-year-old child.

Schools are opening throughout the land, and millions of youngsters are on the go. When you drive your car, drive safely, and think for those youngsters as well as yourself. You may save a life — and spare yourself a tragedy you'll have to live with the rest of your days.

For the Sixth Time...

The coveted E. H. Harriman Memorial Gold Medal has been awarded to the Norfolk and Western Railway for the most outstanding record in safety and accident prevention among the nation's major railroads during 1954.

Something New on Our Highways

The Virginia State Highway Department soon will have in operation a new device for weighing trucks which will do away with the necessity for stopping the vehicles. If one is overweight, a red light will flash as it rolls across the platform.

Safety Council Advises Care In Use Of Tools

Proper handling and storage of farm tools would decrease farm accidents, the Virginia Rural Safety Council says.

National records show the most common unsafe practices in the use of hand tools are (1) failure to use the right tool for the job, (2) failure to keep tools in proper condition, and (3) failure to keep them in a safe place when not in use.

The Council offers these safety suggestions:

Keep wood handles firm and smooth to save injury to the hands by splinters.

Keep blades of cutting tools sharp and shelve or set them to the proper angle.

When the striking end of a cold chisel or other impact tool begins to crack and spread, smooth and dress it to prevent injury by splintering steel or diverted blows.

Grind screwdriver blades so that the tip has a square edge and a parallel surface; then it won't slip out of the slot so easily. Use the proper screwdriver for the job at hand.

Use wrenches that fit snugly to prevent injury caused by slippage. Don't use a piece of pipe on the handle to get more leverage, and don't use shims to make a large wrench fit.

Examine hammers, hatchets and axes carefully to be sure there is no danger of the head flying off and causing serious injury.

Many Things Needed When 100 New Families Move Into City

What happens when a hundred new families arrive in a medium-sized city?

To begin with, it means about 460 new people, including 100 children, 67 in grammar school, 33 in high school, says Changing Times Magazine.

This calls for 2.2 new rooms in grade school and 1.65 new rooms in high school, which will cost about $120,000. Four new teachers will have to be hired. The 100 families will add about $30,000 a year to the school operating budget.

Besides teachers, the city will need four-fifths of a new employee in the police department, and two-thirds of a new fireman, upping the police budget by $4,510 and the fire department budget by $2,820. All sorts of extra jobs will have to be done, from collecting taxes to collecting garbage. Add four new city employees at a total price of $12,000 to $15,000.

The water department must pump 10,000 gallons more each day. Traffic will be increased by 140 cars and trucks. And the city may have to add 500 new volumes to the city library, part of a visiting nurse, and, yes, a fraction of a cell in the city jail!

The Virginia Division of War Veterans Claims frequently handles cases, it reports, in which the veteran has failed to make a clear and valid designation of beneficiary or selection of optional settlement, or change of beneficiary to provide for changed dependency status, so that his real intent is frustrated. Example: The veteran had married and set up his own home under a GI loan but had not thought to change his insurance beneficiary from his mother to his wife. The wife and children could lose the home.

Four options are possible in specifying how the proceeds of National Service Life Insurance are to be paid out.

First, the veteran can elect to have the insurance money paid in one lump sum. In such a case the beneficiary may select one of the other three options. A beneficiary cannot select option one if the veteran has specified some other option.

Option two provides for limited monthly payments, ranging in number from 36 to 240 months in multiples of 12 (3 to 12 years).

Option three provides monthly installments for life, with 120 installments guaranteed. A monthly sum will be paid throughout the remaining lifetime of the designated beneficiary, no matter how long he or she may live. However, should the first beneficiary die before 120 installments have been paid, the remaining installments up to 120 will be paid in one sum to the insured's (not the beneficiary's) estate. The amount of the installment depends on the beneficiary's age at the death of the insured.

Option four provides monthly installments during the life of the beneficiary, and guarantees total installments equal to the face amount of the policy.

FALL MONTHS PROVE SEASON OF DANGER

Since 1931, Virginia traffic fatalities during October, November, and December have comprised 30.44% of the total. In 1954, the darkness, increased drinking, the football weekends and holidays are the main reasons given by the experts.

Veterans Should Check Insurance Beneficiaries

Veterans of World War II and Korean Service who have kept National Service Life Insurance in effect should assure themselves that they have designated the person or persons they now wish the insurance paid to in the event of death.

Check Moisture Before Silage Crop Is Put Up

When a ball of finely chopped silage, squeezed in the hand, holds its shape but very little juice runs, it will make good silage if all other conditions are right, say VPI specialists.

If the ball falls apart when released, the silage may be too dry and needs water added.

Another test of when a crop will make good silage is to shove an ear of corn in the silage patch. If the grains have begun to dent, it is ready to cut for silage.

Silage harvested too early not only makes poor silage but may have too much moisture to keep well.

Chopping of the silage also may affect its quality. Corn and cane stalks chopped into one-half to three-quarter inch chunks is approximately right.

All silage will need careful placing and even spreading in the silo (whether upright or trench) and even packing.

If the silage is mature enough, contains the right amount of moisture, is cut fine enough, properly spread and packed, and the silo well covered, there should be very little loss of silage and feeding value.

Many people like to cover a trench silo with building paper before covering with sawdust, dirt or finely ground limestone. Plastic covers also are available and can be re-used.

Lambs Gain Faster On Pelleted Feed

Lambs reach market weight sooner on pelleted feed than on the same feed fed separately and loose.

George A. Allen, Jr., associate animal husbandman at VPI, says this has been shown in tests at the U. S. Department of Agriculture's Research Center at Beltsville, Md.

NO FARM FIRE... Keep sparks from flying when burning papers or other trash around barns or houses. Use concrete reinforcing wire, and hang a lid on top.

About the same amount of feed was used per day under both systems in the Beltsville tests, but more of the pelleted feed was eaten and less was wasted. Savings in feed resulted from the reduced number of days needed to fatten the lambs to market weight.

Reasons for the faster gaining rate with pelleted feed are not exactly clear. The scientists who made the study think the lambs found the pelleted food tastier. Absence of dust in the pelleted feed may be a factor, and less bulkiness in feed may also appeal to lambs.

On a diet of 48% yellow corn, 5% blackstrap molasses, and 50% No. 2 alfalfa hay, lambs gained an average of 0.31 pound per day on loose feed hand-fed, and 0.34 pound per day on loose feed self-fed. On the same diet pelleted and hand-fed lambs gained 0.42 pound per day. To put on 100 pounds of weight required 572 pounds of hand-fed loose feed, 508 pounds of self-fed loose feed, and only 772 pounds of pelleted feed.

Similar results have been noted in lamb feeding tests carried out by state experiment stations.

Whether the extra benefit gained from using pelleted feed is enough to meet the cost of pelleting has not been determined.

Green Feeding Has Place On Some Dairy Farms

Green feeding, the practice of cutting hay or pasture crop and feeding it to cattle green, has a place on some dairy farms, says Dr. G. C. Graf, head of the dairy science department at VPI.

The practice by-passes drying hay by making silage, and is beneficial when pasture is short or when crop land is too far from the barn to pasture. It is also known as wet silage, or silage, dry-lot feeding of green grass, bunk feeding, etc.

Dr. Graf says very little research information is available at the present time on the value of green feeding or how it can be used in a summer feeding program. In a test at VPI, production was maintained better than when cows were on pasture.

Thirty cows were fed for 20 days on green feed from 5.5 acres. The intake per cow per day was 91 pounds, and it took one man 75 minutes daily to do the job, counting cutting, hauling and feeding time. The feed had to be hauled 1.1 miles.

There is some known advantage when the cows do not tramp the feed down, and they do eat whole plant storage yields per acre are higher than when pastured. It makes possible controlled roughage feeding, reduces the feeding costs, prevents soil compaction. It also makes possible more uniform quality feed, more uniform milk production and better heat control. Under the green feeding system more crops are adapted to summer feeding, and manure is concentrated in a much smaller area.

However, Dr. Graf also lists some disadvantages. More equipment is needed, and green feeding lies up forage equipment. Extra labor is needed, and it is an every day task. A special feeding area is required, as is a sequence of forage crops. Machinery must be maintained, stored by equipment may be needed, and rainy weather may interfere. Further, as practice is not adapted to all soils or hill land.

The use of green feeding is spreading especially among the larger herds in certain areas of the United States.

Corn Earworms Threaten Soybeans, Peanut Plantings

Farmers are being advised to keep a watchful eye on their soybean, peanut, late cotton and snap bean crops.

Arthur F. Morris, associate entomologist at VPI, says corn earworm outbreaks are still a threat to those crops. Damage has been reported from states south of Virginia, so watch closely for at least another two to three weeks.

Mexican bean beetles are still threatening late snap bean crops in eastern Virginia, although populations seem to be below normal at this time. There are enough adults and newly laid eggs on bean plants to furnish stock for a heavy build-up if weather conditions stay favorable.

Potato leafhoppers are fairly numerous on older plantings of snap beans in the eastern part of the state. The infestations on alfalfa in all parts of Virginia continue to increase, and damage will occur from now until cold weather insect controls are used.

Other insects present and threatening truck crops and late gardens are Colorado potato beetles, flea beetles, pickleworms, harlequin bugs and spider mites.

Box Elder Bugs

Box elder bugs are beginning to congregate on trees, walks, etc., prior to entering hibernation for the winter. When they are together in large numbers, they are easier to control than at any other time. Later, after they enter buildings, they are extremely hard to control.

Storage grains should be checked now for insect infestation. If fumigation is needed, it will be much more effective now than during cool weather later.

Boll weevils can be expected to damage bolls that are less than half full size if controls are not used. Migrations of the weevils are reported in North and South Carolina and bolls will be susceptible to puncture for at least two more weeks.

BCIA Progress Cited By VPI Animal Husbandman

The initials BCIA are becoming more familiar to Virginia livestock men all the time.

They stand for Beef Cattle Improvement Association, and Dr. Thomas J. Marlowe, associate animal husbandman at VPI Agricultural Experiment Station, says there are now about 75 herds enrolled in the program, and an estimated 2,000 to 3,000 calves to be weighed and graded this year. The weighing and inspection of

Santa Fe Railroad Adds New Films To Loan Library

The Santa Fe Railway has announced the addition of four new 16 mm sound-color pictures to its free loan film library. The new titles include:

"Assembling a Freight Train"—a ten-minute film designed for elementary school use tells in simple language and at a moderate pace how a freight train collects, assembles, moves and delivers goods all over the country.

"Challenge for Tomorrow"—a 27-minute film produced for college level and above, is a documentary type, behind-the-scenes look at the railroad world. With a special emphasis on safety, the film illustrates the progress to meet current and future requirements of the nation's travelers and shippers that have taken place.

"Fresh for Health"—tells in 25 minutes the transportation story of perishable produce from farms and vineyards and orchards of the west and southwest to the midwest and east. The film shows how perishables are cooled in summer and warmed in winter, and the swift handling given train loads from origin to destination.

"Wheat—Its Growth, Transportation and Marketing"—is a 28 minute documentary devoted to the story of wheat, including not only the growing, harvesting and selling, but also the elaborate transportation requirements and storage aspects. The film is one of the series "How Does Your Garden Grow," featuring John Ott of television and time-lapse photography fame.

Prints are available on a free loan basis for use by civic clubs, church groups and schools. Requests should be addressed to the Santa Fe Film Bureau, 80 East Jackson Boulevard, Chicago 4, Illinois, or any Santa Fe agent.

The latest thing in continuous coal mining machinery weighs nearly 40 tons, is 37 feet long and produces eight tons of coal a minute. That's 3,600 tons every 8-hour working day.

EXPECT TO PAY MORE for your new car this fall. Check the price books will include refrigerators, electric toasters and frying pans, cutlery and linens. Also hi-fi sets, record players, musical instruments and perhaps washing machines, dryers and freezers. Whichever warnings that clothes will be more expensive are heard in the wholesale market. But increases seem more probable in spring lines than in fall and winter things.

CHEESE CAN BE FROZEN

Recent tests show that ten varieties of cheese can be successfully frozen at home. They are Cheddar, Brick, Port du Salut, Swiss, Provolone, Muenster, Liederkorn, Camembert, Parmesan and Romano.

When freezing cheese, cut it in pieces no larger than one pound, and wrap each piece closely in freezer foil. Small cheeses such as Liederkorn may be left in their original packages. The recommended temperature for freezing is 0°F. or lower.

WHEREAS, for the eleventh consecutive year, public support for an interest in the employment of otherwise qualified but physically handicapped workers is being urged; and

WHEREAS, thousands of these workers have already demonstrated that handicaps are not an insurmountable barrier to efficient and productive labor;

NOW, THEREFORE, I, Frank A. Dusch, Mayor of the City of Virginia Beach, do set aside and proclaim the week of October 2nd to 8th, 1955 inclusive, as and urge all men of business and industry to make a conscientious effort to employ disabled veterans and other handicapped citizens wherever their abilities will suffice to do the job equally well as a non-handicapped worker.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand this 28th day of September, 1955 and have caused the seal of the City of Virginia Beach to be affixed hereto.

Employ The Handicapped Week Observance Set For Oct. 2 - 8

National Employ the Handicapped Week will be observed throughout the nation the week of October 2nd through 8th for the 11th consecutive year.

Mayor Frank A. Dusch, by proclamation, has set aside this week to emphasize and highlight the abilities of the physically handicapped when properly trained and placed in suitable employment.

The Mayor's Committee is engaged in the year-around program to promote increased employment of physically handicapped workers. Mayor Dusch pointed out that physical handicaps should not be a barrier in securing employment, but that individuals should be considered for jobs solely on the basis of their training, skill and ability.

A local Mayor's Committee has been formed, with the following members:

Beach Gets Publicity In Spain-for Free

The publicity was discovered by Mrs. R. R. Rober, sister of Mrs. William L. Myers, of Virginia Beach. Mrs. Rober and her husband, Lt. Robert Rober, USN, discovered rubber balloons being sold in Jerez, Spain, with the wording, "Virginia Beach Memorial Stadium" printed on them.

The Rober family bought one of the balloons and mailed it back to Mrs. Myers. Mr. and Mrs. Myers are the son and daughter-in-law of Virginia Beach Postmaster and Mrs. Howard Myers.

Mrs. Fred Haycox Named on "Best Dressed" Roster

Tidewater's best dressed women for 1955 were presented to the television audience Tuesday night and Mrs. Fred A. Haycox, Sr. of Virginia Beach, was among those chosen. There were nine ladies from Norfolk and one from the City of Portsmouth, in addition to Mrs. Haycox.

The presentation of the eleven ladies was the Sixth Annual Best Dressed Women Fashion Show conducted by Mrs. Mildred Alexander, director of women's programs for WTAR.

Mrs. Haycox's selection marked the third time that this starling dressed woman has been recognized by the judges in this annual contest.

Erosion Fund to Get $43,000 from Taxes

Anticipated revenue for the current fiscal year which began on July 1, 1955, from the special tax is set at $180,000, but the erosion commission share of this figure amounts to approximately $43,000.

Advertising, special garbage collection and debt retirement are among the other items that the special tax is used for.

Police Board Takes Exceptions To Report of Special Grand Jury

The Princess Anne Police and Trial Board has taken sharp exception to several recommendations contained in the report of the special crime-investigating grand jury which, last month, called for a reorganization of the Princess Anne County and Virginia Beach law enforcement agencies.

The Police and Trial Board specifically disagreed with three of five grand jury recommendations and deferred action on a fourth. The Board issued a prepared statement last week.

One of the major recommendations of the grand jury was one calling for a "complete survey" of the law enforcement agencies by qualified experts in this field. "For the purpose of reorganizing these agencies on an efficient and effective basis."

In answer to this suggestion, the Police and Trial Board statement said: "It is felt by the Princess Anne Police and Trial Board that the problems of the law enforcement agency over which it has jurisdiction, the Princess Anne County Police Department, are well known and understood by this board."

"It is the opinion of the Princess Anne Police and Trial Board that present detail planning could be followed if adequate funds are allocated to the Police Department and if co-operation is given by supporting agencies."

In the matter of salaries which was brought out in the jury's report, the Board pointed out that the salaries of the police officers and men in Princess Anne County ranked second only to Arlington County in the State of Virginia.

The third point on which the Board took issue was the matter of establishing a vice squad with plainclothesmen. The Board felt that adequate personnel would make this unnecessary.

Stanton Named To Head Local Chest Drive

B. M. Stanton has been named general chairman of the Virginia Beach-Princess Anne Community Chest which will conduct its drive for funds from October 27 through October 28. It was announced by Albin R. Mathews, chest president.

In accepting the chairmanship Stanton assumes the position he has held for the past two years. In each of these years the Chest drive has been a tremendous success.

With the announcement of Stanton's appointment it was also announced that the drive's goal this year will be $300,000, an increase of $60,000 over last year.

Stanton stated Wednesday that preliminary work has begun on the drive and that the selection of chairmen for the various divisions of the drive would probably be announced next week.

Two chairmen were announced this week. They are Mrs. Paul B. Maestas, who will head the residential division of the City of Virginia Beach, and Rhae Adams, who will lead the business division of the city.

Supervisors Vote Sewage Authority, Office Additions

The Princess Anne County Board of Supervisors placed on first reading Monday an ordinance creating a water and sewerage authority and adopted an emergency ordinance to set up a sewerage system for three new developments immediately.

The Belhaven, Southern Terrace and Kemperville Manor residential areas are included in the emergency ordinance. If the Board makes the authority ordinance in to law later these plants will come under its jurisdiction.

Five men were named to the authority. They include W. A. Hess, a banker from Lynnhaven; J. Robert Addenbrook, of North Virginia Beach; R. E. Dorer, of Kemperville, and T. J. Adams, of Oceana; and Floyd T. Deary, of Oceana.

W. L. Shepherd, of the Tidewater Committee for Electric Users, asked the board's consideration in setting up a Tidewater electric power plant. He said the committee began as a study group of industrialists to discover the effect of rate increases granted the Virginia Electric and Power Company 18 months ago.

However, after studying similar municipal power operations, the group is now recommending that Tidewater create an area power plant. He cited a Jacksonville, Fla., operation showing more than $10,000,000 profits annually, $8,000,000 of which goes to the Jacksonville general fund.

In other action, the Supervisors:

Instructed Architect Bernard Speigel to go ahead with plans and specifications for an addition to the Clerk's office of the courthouse at an estimated $60,000.

Agreed to increase the $150 a month stipend to the county's 11 volunteer fire departments to $200 a month until the next fiscal year.

Dr. J. C. Wickstrom was introduced as the new assistant director of the Princess Anne County Health Department by Dr. William Y. Garrett, county health director. Dr. Wickstrom is of New York and will have spent three months with the City of Fredericksburg before his duty here, to begin October 1.

Council Denies Relocation Permit

The Virginia Beach City Council, acting on reports from the city engineer and building inspector, have denied an application of William J. Vakos to move and relocate an aid building now located on the Ocean front near 28th Street.

The reports recommended that the move be denied for several reasons. The majority of the council upheld the officials, but Councilmen Everett and McClannan voted approval of the application over the objections of the city engineer and building inspector.

HATCHETT NAMED CITY MANAGER BY COUNCIL; HELD POST IN 1951

W. Russell Hatchett, who served as town manager of Virginia Beach just prior to its becoming a city, was appointed city manager at a meeting of the city council last Thursday.

Thus, Hatchett returns to a post he resigned in 1951. His appointment came on a 3 to 2 vote of the five-man councilmanic body. Mayor Frank A. Dusch and Councilmen Frank D. Tarrall and John McCombs voted for the appointment, while Councilmen McClannan and Everett opposed the appointment.

Hatchett will take office on October 1 at an annual salary of $7000. He fills the post that has been vacant since the resignation of Philip Ansell almost two years ago.

The appointment was proposed by Councilman Tarrall and the motion was seconded by Councilman McCombs. The proposal brought on a heated discussion, particularly between Tarrall and McClannan.

McClannan focused his remarks to the political view while Tarrall contended that he had given the matter careful consideration for more than a year. Tarrall opined that Hatchett was well qualified for the position while McClannan stated he did not feel that he (Hatchett) was qualified. In the discussion McClannan lauded the accomplishments of Hatchett while he served in the post previously, but then stated that he did not feel that Hatchett could do a good job.

Tarrall repeatedly questioned McClannan's motive in what he (Tarrall) later termed a political speech by McClannan. It was also learned that McClannan had failed to attend an executive meeting of the council several days before the regular meeting although he had been notified by telephone by a fellow councilman of the meeting. It was understood McClannan stated he could not set to the meeting because of business reasons.

The matter of the appointment of Hatchett was discussed at the executive meeting, but neither McClannan nor Everett were present. Each councilman had been notified of the meeting.

Tarrall insisted that the motion to appoint the new city manager be acted upon and Hatchett was appointed on a 3 to 2 vote of the council.

Frederick, representing the Chesapeake chapter.

The new unit was endorsed unanimously by the Princess Anne County Medical Society, Dr. James W. Todd, of Virginia Beach, was the principal speaker.

The unit has a room in the Virginia Beach Community building where a hospital bed closet is to be maintained, anyone wishing to donate any equipment should call Mrs. Margaret Roberts at Virginia Beach 160 N. Those having old bedsteads or anything that might be used in patient care should call Mrs. Leonard S. Kellam at Virginia Beach 305.

From pulpits in every church in Princess Anne County and Virginia Beach, prayers for the speedy and complete recovery of President Eisenhower rose last Sunday to mingle with those from every city and hamlet throughout the Christian world.

We remember before Thee, O Lord our God, this nation's leader, the Captain of our ship of state, Dwight D. Eisenhower. APPOINTED

W. Russell Hatchett, who has been appointed City Manager for Virginia Beach, took action taken by the city council last week. Hatchett, a real estate operator here, served in the position in 1951-52. He will assume the duties of his office on October 1.

Hatchett, now in the real estate business, once served as treasurer of Virginia Beach and as Commissioner of the Revenue for Princess Anne County. He resigned the revenue post to accept the management of the city and resigned after one year to run for the State Senate. He was defeated by V. A. "Jack" Riberder.

The new city manager was a candidate for governor in 1950, but withdrew in favor of Charles A. Fawcett.

In other matters before the council last Thursday it was decided to file new planning commission three applications for rezoning.

The requests involved Pine Acres, in the south end of the beach; sections near Holly Road and 26th Street; and the area from 30th Street to 40th Street on both sides of Atlantic Avenue.

The last application carried a request to change its zoning category from Residence A to Residence B. Dudley Combs, an attorney representing one of the residents of the section, told the council.

Expect Unexpected from Children Chief Johnson Warns Motorists

Expect the unexpected from children, Chief Johnson warns motorists today in warning of school children who are expected to be on the roads during the week of the Governor's Highway Safety Committee.

"Children often are unpredictable in their reactions," Johnson said. "This is especially true during the stress and strains of school."

"Repeated warnings from school people, not to jaywalk, to beat the light, or run in a street after a ball, children are apt to forget these warnings and walk or run right into danger."

"While we are all united in a common drive against the senseless killing of our children by motor vehicles each year, we must always be prepared for the unexpected, and keep alert whenever we see a child who may be walking or playing near the street."

"Many of the 97 children killed and several thousand injured in Virginia Traffic Crashes over the past year were the tragic consequences of impulsive actions on the part of children, Johnson said. While as parents and teachers are doing our best to teach children how to protect themselves," he said, "statistics show we are not doing enough."

Birdneck Club Will Hold Sale

"Plant bargains in plants" are said to be in store for those who visit the 31st Street Colonial Store shortly after 9 a. m. on Saturday, October 1, when the Birdneck Plant Garden Club will hold its annual plant sale.

Bags of pine needles and leaf mulch, which proved so popular last year, will also be offered for sale. This is the time to "put the green to sleep" sponsors of the sale declare, and these items are expected to go fast.

Mrs. Karl A. Wunder, chairman of the plant sale, recalls that last year shortly before noon the club was "sold out," and wishes to remind those interested in this sale that early comers will be assured of best selections.

SAVINGS BONDS—A REAL BUY

to insure the safety of our children. We must depend, therefore, on the motorist and enlist his cooperation in remembering his own safety practices even if a child occasionally forgets them." "The motorist who always expects the unexpected from children and who drives accordingly recognizes the problem and is doing his part to save our children," Chief Johnson concluded. "That driver will be able to avoid a crash should a child forget."

SEAHAWKS DOWN CHURCHLAND, 19-14

By Ashley Haycox, Jr.

The Virginia Beach Seahawks wrote a Frank Merriwell finish to their game with the powerful Churchland Trainers last Friday in the Virginia Beach stadium when, with less than 30 seconds to play, Halfoack Leigh Forbes broke off tackle after taking a handoff from Quarterback Tommy Barnes and raced 24 yards to score the winning touchdown in a slam-bank football thriller. The score was 19 to 14 and the Virginia Beach win broke a thirteen game victory streak for the visiting Trainers.

The first quarter was scoreless but in the second the Trainers drove 79 yards with John Saunders making the tally on a 6 yard run. The extra point was good and at halftime the Trainers lead 7-0.

However the picture changed midway in the third quarter when Louis Sprull blocked a punt on the Trucker 30-yard line. From there the Seahawks tallied with Forbes scoring on a 6 yard run. The extra point try was no good and the score then stood 7-6.

In the fourth and final quarter the Trainers scored again as Halfoack Younger climbed a 78 yard drive and the extra point was good. From this point on it was the Seahawks ball game. Forbes passed to end Morris Jester for a touchdown on a play that covered 73 yards. Jester kicked the extra point and the score was now 14-13. Then came the final tally in the last 30 seconds that gave the Seahawks a well earned 19-14 conference victory over the Trainers. If you see any of the Seahawks squad around town, give them a pat on the back for a job well done.

Tomorrow night the Seahawks meet the Poquoson eleven in the annual Beach Bowl game. The Seahawks thus far have been defeated in this annual classic. A big parade is being planned and it will get underway at 6:30 P.M. It will proceed down Atlantic Avenue and on to the stadium. At halftime the Beach Bowl queen will be crowned, along with other ceremonies. We would like to urge each and every person to attend this game as it is well worth seeing. See you there.

Good Reasons for Home Shelters

1. In a sneak attack, or where there is insufficient warning for evacuation, any shelter is better than no shelter.
2. If you live far enough outside a target area to be relatively safe from blast and fire, there is still a chance you will be subjected to radioactive fallout from the bomb cloud. Even homes 150 miles or more downwind from major cities may lie in the possible fallout zone.
3. Home shelters are also good safety insurance against tornadoes and other types of natural disasters.

The best protection against radioactive fallout is an outdoor shelter covered by at least three feet of earth, and with a suitable device to filter out the dust.

A basement shelter will afford good protection. Closing off window wells, exterior entrances, and banking exposed walls with earth will provide additional safety insurance.

In homes without basements, first-floor areas with the least exterior exposure - such as an interior bath, utility room, or hallway - should be selected. Outside doors and windows should be shielded as much as possible.

A good safety measure against building collapse would be to build a lean-to shelter in the basement, or to have a strong table to duck under in the inside shelter area.

Whenever possible, store your emergency food supply, first-aid kit, and other essentials in the shelter area.

FT. STORY SPORTS

Division champs of the Fort Story Intramural Softball League clashed last week in the first two tilts of a five-game series despite nasty weather caused by Hurricane Ione. The results put Headquarters Company, 5th Transportation Terminal Command "B", American Division title holders, in a commanding lead in the race for post honors, as they dealt the Navy Harbor Entrance Control Base (HECB) squad two straight setbacks. The Headquarters team needs only one more win to capture the championship trophy for the second straight year. The first game saw Headquarters Company edge the National Division champs by an 8-7 score, thanks to the clutch relief pitching of Bill Tiller, who came to the aid of starter Elroy Wray in the fifth inning. Wray's yield of only one hit was offset by wildness in the early innings, but his mates backed him up with a 19-hit attack off the sailors' Windy Windham. The sailors' Windy Windham took an early lead. Norvin Powell came up twice with the bases full of soldiers and rapped two singles, driving in three runs and scoring one to provide the winning margin.

The second game found HECB blanked, 9-0, as the soldiers iced the game early with seven runs in the first frame, including a home run by Bill Kidoguchi. Windy Windham, HECB's pitching ace during the regular season, settled down after the third inning and hurled scoreless ball for the remainder of the game. However, the sailors could gain no ground on reliever Tiller's brilliant one-hit pitching and lost their second straight, dropping deep into the hole in the best-three-of-five series.

The Post football field was offered as a practice field last week to the Virginia Beach High School team after the Seahawks' game had been thoroughly wetted by the rains of Hurricane Ione. While the lousy storm's winds had largely diminished by the time it reached the Tidewater area, its rains lasted long enough to dampen any hopes of a practice session on the resort city's field by the high school griders, who quickly accepted the Cape Henry post's offer of its drier grounds.

the Fort Story Intramural League as the 604th DUKW Company downed the 458th DUKW Company by a 13-0 score on touchdowns by Henry Walpus and Lindsey Clark. The contest was marked by the enthusiasm always accorded the rugged game that is something more than "touch" football, as the bruising contact play requires that the ball carrier be pushed or pulled off balance in order to be "downed."

The first anniversary marking the activation of the 10th Transportation Battalion was celebrated by a field day on the post parade ground as troops from throughout the battalion entered into games and contests in quest of the trophy accorded the company with the highest score. Day's end saw a tie for first between Headquarters Detachment and the 347th DUKW Company, each with 26 points. The 347th piled up its points on the strength of a win in the 100-yard dash by Henry Thomas and a team first in the hardfought tug-of-war. Helping the Headquarters team gain a tie were first in the 220-yard dash by Art Louch; the sack race by Louch and Paul Vander Meer; and the mile relay by a team of Louch, John Volmer, Johnny Tenney, and Walt Basser.

"School Spirit" Club at VBHS

Tuesday morning at 11:30 James A. Johnson, Jr., principal of the Virginia Beach High School, called the first meeting of the newly formed "School Spirit" Club.

The main objects of the club are to promote school spirit and only throughout the school year, but throughout the community, also. The club was formed on the belief that V.B.H.S. activities were not receiving enough public support and also that many of the citizens of Virginia Beach and Princess Anne County were interested in the activities but were not duly informed as to the whereabouts and time of these activities. The club will bring these events to the attention of the public.

For the present time the club's attention will focus mainly on the football games and will continue to do so for the remainder of the season. The members of the club will sponsor parades, pep rallies, and be responsible for newspaper publicity.

A City Manager Is Named

The return of W. Russell Hatchett to the City Hall as city manager places on him a responsibility and challenge which we hope, and believe, he will be able to meet because of his long connection with county and city government. He has a vast knowledge of local government which would make someone unfamiliar many months, or even years, to gain.

When Mr. Hatchett resigned from the position of city manager some four years ago he did so, not because of his lack of knowledge of city affairs, but because he was unable to work in harmony with the city council. We thought then, and we think now that the city council was or sound ground in accepting his resignation at that time because in order to be effective the city manager must work closely with the city council and each must be willing to respect the other's views and authority bearing in mind that the council has the final say.

Some months ago the Mayor announced that the council, he thought, should give some consideration to naming a city manager. Last Saturday the Mayor asked the councilmen to meet in an informal session to discuss this matter. Only three of the five councilmen showed up for this meeting. Councilmen Everett and McClanan were absent. Councilman McClanan, it is understood, first stated he had to be out of town. Later he changed his story to the effect that he had to look after repairing some machinery and still later saying he did not want to go for fear he would be embarrassed, although he had run on a platform calling for the appointment of a city manager. We are sure the council gave due consideration to every applicant and we believe their decision in naming Mr. Hatchett will result in benefit to the City.

We are sure Mr. Hatchett will devote his energies and full time to this important office and that he intends fully to carry out his statement that he will cooperate with the other officials and employees at City Hall and to work cooperatively with the city council. If all the elected and appointed officials at city hall will work together putting aside any personal differences such as existed at the naming of city manager the city and all its people will benefit by this action.

Mr. McClanan, the only member who was on the city council when Mr. Hatchett resigned voted then against accepting the resignation. He then spoke and worked for Hatchett in the election that took place shortly after his resignation when he ran for the State Senate. At that time Mr. McClanan pointed out Hatchett's ability and what a good job he had done with the city. Yet, when Mr. Hatchett's name was presented last week it was McClanan who tried to make a political football of the appointment by opposing it. His selection has taken place and everyone should work in harmony for the good of Virginia Beach.

An Administrator Is Honored

Friday night the athletic plant and field of the new Princess Anne High School will be formally dedicated and will be named "Cox Field" in honor of Frank W. Cox, who has served as superintendent of public schools for Princess Anne County and Virginia Beach since 1933.

In honoring Mr. Cox in this way this highly efficient school administrator is being recognized publicly for the untiring work that has been done throughout the years in maintaining a first rate public school system in this county and city thru the most trying times in school administration history.

It is equally fitting that the athletic field at the new Princess Anne High School be named in this man's honor for the educational facility that it serves is a monument to the fine school system that Mr. Cox has headed for some 23 years.

Mr. Cox is a native of York County and is a graduate of the College of William and Mary where he received his bachelor of arts degree. He later obtained his masters degree from the University of Virginia.

The growth of the school system under Mr. Cox's supervision has been phenomenal. Statistics show that when Mr. Cox first became superintendent of schools the system employed 90 teachers and had an enrollment of 3,500 students. Today Mr. Cox supervises a school system that employs 450 teachers and has an enrollment of 13,500 pupils.

Superintendent Cox has grown, too, with the growth of the school system he heads. Mr. Cox is recognized throughout Virginia and the Nation as an able and aggressive administrator and an expert in school administration.

The Sun-News is proud of the fine public school system to be found in Princess Anne County and Virginia Beach and recognizes the important part that Mr. Cox has played in attaining these high standards.

It is fitting and proper that the Cavalier Stadium be named in honor of this man and we congratulate school officials and Mr. Cox, in particular, for the fine administration we have within our educational system. The dedication tomorrow night will be a symbol that future generations may appreciate the work and labors of Frank W. Cox.

We Welcome A New Business To The Beach

Virginia Beach continues to grow day by day and its growth is particularly noticeable in the expansion of its business area and the many fine new businesses that have come to the Beach. The latest addition to the business fraternity of Virginia Beach is the Mutual Federal Savings and Loan Association.

The Mutual Federal Savings and Loan Association opened its new office last week at 3201 Pacific Avenue, a tremendously attractive building that is a credit to the firm it houses and is a great asset to Virginia Beach. The Mutual Federal is the largest of its kind in the State of Virginia.

The investment made by Mutual Federal in opening an office in Virginia Beach is proof of the confidence that this institution has in the Beach. We are certain that this confidence will be rewarded.

While Virginia Beach continues to attract new businesses it is regrettable that the Tidewater area, in its entirety, is not attracting new industries and firms. Virginia Beach and Suffolk, in particular, have drawn new businesses to its areas, but the City of Norfolk only recently lost a drug firm that had been located there for many years and now has learned that the Seaboard Airline Railroad will move its offices to the City of Richmond in 1958. While the communities around Norfolk continue to attract new businesses it is a serious matter that the largest city in the area is losing ground in this respect.

We welcome Mutual Federal to Virginia Beach and wish its officers and employees much success in the future.

A Fine Gridiron Performance

Last Friday night the followers of the Virginia Beach High School Seahawk football team were treated to a fine display of football in a game that the most ardent Beach fans hardly expected to result in a thrilling victory for the local team, although it was the unanimous hope of the local fans that the Seahawks might upset their favored foes, the highly successful Churchland Trunkers.

The victory was a tremendous one for the local squad and marked the second sport in which the Virginia Beach school has successfully defeated the Churchland representatives to interrupt a victory string of our neighbors. Last winter the Virginia Beach high school basketball team met and defeated Churchland quintet and defeated the visitors. Last week's football victory was almost a duplicate of the basketball triumph of last winter.

The local school can be proud of its

HOGGING THE SPOTLIGHT

DALE CARNEGIE

Everly Lane, 1825 Second Avenue, South, Minneapolis 3, Minn., once had a very bad case of dermatitis caused from wearing jewelry, but more particularly from tense nerves. Her whole body was like a piece of raw, runny beefsteak.

Every day for weeks one of her doctors preached to her about working too hard and worrying too much. She realized she probably worked too hard but her work had never caused her to worry. Finally she came to realize that she was tense most of the time. She tried to relax but that was impossible and she was utterly miserable. Her doctors did help by feeding her four different kinds of sedatives every day for months.

One summer her sister, who lived with her, was ill for seven weeks, and she suffered right along with that sick sister, who had three relapses. Each time Evelyn broke out in a rash all over her body. When she improved, Evelyn's skin cleared up, but when her sister had another relapse, she broke out again.

athletic record in the short time that it has been in existence. The fine teams that have been produced are a tribute to the school officials, athletic coaches and the students. The Virginia Beach High School is making its mark in Virginia high school circles, both scholastically and athletically. The community can well be proud of this educational institution.

Our congratulations to Coach Isaacs and his lads for the splendid victory scored last Friday night over the favored Churchland Trunkers, who had been undefeated in 12 straight games.

WORDS AND THOUGHTS

M, PET PEEVE

Read the other day an article which said it won't be too long before air conditioning will be like radio — in every American home. This is a development that will get my wholehearted support.

I think there should be air conditioning in every home, and just wonder if there isn't some way to "cool off" a whole city. Seems like it might be possible. Someone could devise a huge fan or some device that would blow cooling air down on hot summer streets. If we can make it rain, why couldn't we also stir up some cooling artificial breezes?

If you don't think mankind is making itself look foolish trying to "beat the heat," how about the lady who was asked to give up her lease when she went to pay her rent in a "shortie" gown? And the one-man drive an ambitious young policeman undertook when he became appalled at the sales shopping in the business district of a Midwestern city in hats and shorts skimpier than Bikinis? And why do you think it is that kids just can't resist the temptation to crawl inside and shut the door when they come upon a discarded ice box in a junkyard? They're trying to get cool, man, get cool!

And then there was the news story about the workers in a factory which manufactures air conditioners. When the temperature soared near the century mark one day they all walked off their jobs. It was just too darned hot to work, they said. I think this could be considered an endorsement of the company's product and probably an indication that the modern city will no longer be for a 5-cent cigar or a car in every garage. We have a 40-hour week, there's trend towards guaranteed annual wages — but we won't have a peaceful country until we get universal air conditioning.

Board, he had read of early efforts whereby scientists tapped the brain with a wire to record its electrical impulses, and knew that the present machine grew out of these experiments, but put them in reverse, sending signals to the brain, rather than drawing impulses from that organ. It's "operation" to create the plug-in mind had been done years before, and was as common as food pills in this age in which he lived.

"Oh, yes. The food pill!" He took one from his waist pocket and swallowed it. "Breakfast." The device began filling his mind with the news of the previous night, complete with color images from all sections of the world. "All Khan went again," the image in his brain said. "Russia rattles sabre." So they've gone back to them!

For a full hour he was "fed" with news, an occasional comic strip flashing through his head to relieve the hum-drum of news. Promptly and on the dot, when the hour was up, his feet carried him down to street level (no conscious thought was necessary) and he began to walk in what direction he knew not. (Actually it was towards the zoo, as his Master-Auto-Cranium-Director had some old-fashioned ideas that romance could be found there.)

Everything took on a rosy hue a shade between ammonia and lavender, and he almost fell in love with a slightly skinny girl, which turned out, on closer examination to be a lamp post.

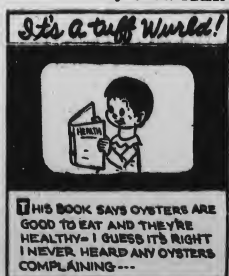

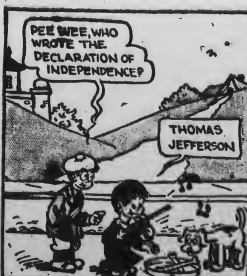

"Love, ah love!" he muttered as his feet carried him forward. Soon he was seated on a bench in the ecological gardens. A female figure slid into the seat beside him. Soon he had her in his arms, and then began dragging her to the nearest magistrate's office to make it official.

"Love... Romance... Ecstasy... and all that Stuff!" His little heart automatically speeded up. And then the synchronological master clock (timed by the sun, moon and Galaxy CVLIX) chimed the hour of five.

The Master-Auto-Cranium-Director clicked off on the lot. Horatio was on his own again. And he looked at the female baboon at his side, recently escaped from her cage in the "Anthropoid Section M-3 of the zoo!" Ah... Romance!

Beach Kiwanians Join Newspaper Week Celebration

Kiwanians of Virginia Beach will join the nation in paying tribute to the newspapers of America during National Newspaper Week, October 1 - 8, it was announced this week by Kiwanis Club President Will D. Baugh.

The local service club will participate in this year's observance of National Newspaper Week by hearing Edwin O. Meyer, Richmond, secretary-manager of the Virginia Press Association, speak to members of the club on Wednesday evening, October 5. Newspaper representatives of the local papers and radio have been invited as guests of the club.

Purpose of the observance of National Newspaper Week by Kiwanians and by other participating groups is to draw public attention to the importance of maintaining freedom of the press. National Newspaper Week, having its beginning in 1929, is sponsored by Newspaper Manager's Association, Inc. This year's slogan is "Your Newspaper Fights for Your Right to Know."

In announcing the Newspaper Week observance, Baugh pointed out that Kiwanis clubs in almost 4,100 U. S., Canadian, Alaskan and Hawaiian communities would pay tribute to the press in a similar manner. This is the 17th year that Kiwanis International has actively participated in the observance of National Newspaper Week.

J. A. Raney, the service organization's international president, who called for this year's observance of National Newspaper Week by more than 241,000 members of his organization, described a continuation of "freedom of the press" as vital to the democratic governments of the United States and Canada.

Colored RC Unit Attains Goal

The colored division in the annual Red Cross has reached its goal of $500, according to alter T. Russell, chairman of that division.

During the regular dates of the drive last year, this division reached a total of $476, but Russell reported Wednesday that the additional funds have been collected to place the colored division at the quota as set by general drive officials.

HYBRID GRAIN SORGHUMS HOLD MUCH PROMISE

Hybrid grain sorghum seed is expected to be available to growers in limited quantities for the first time next spring.

In the next five years, they expect that most of the more than 10,000,000 acres now annually planted in open-pollinated varieties of grain sorghums may be planted with new superior hybrids. Some experimental field trials have given yields for hybrids that are 20 to 40 per cent over varieties currently in use, a gain at least equal to that which farmers obtain from hybrid corn.

Most noticeably, scientists have done these things: Dwarfed the stalk, making a plant easier to harvest and handle and less of a drain on plant food and water; straightened up the goose-necked head, also a handling advantage; brought out varieties resistant to root-rot (periconia); and very important, cut down the time of maturing.

LATE SEASON AID FOR BEES

Attention to several items also will help produce a better honey crop next year.

Unite weak colonies with strong ones. Provide new queens in colonies with an abundance of bees but an old queen. Feed two parts of sugar to one of water to all colonies not weighing 75 or 80 pounds.

Reduce the entrances to keep mice and cold winter winds out of the hive. Provide a windbreak; none is available naturally. Corn stalks stacked behind the hives make a good temporary windbreak.

KENNY SIDENSTRICKER and DON BATCHE.
LOW—These boys are in heated contention for starting assignments at left halfback. Both boys possess speed and plenty of drive. Either is a capable starter and much is expected from both of these kids.

FRANK TARRAILL—Playing fourth season - transferred from Center and is slated to team with Zitrain to give the Seahawks a pair of the most aggressive tackles in conference. Terrific linehacker on defense. Big and powerful.

Pineapple Scotch Bars are an elegant sort of cookie with a rich butterscotch flavor, yet can be made quickly. The tempting pineapple filling between crunchy oatmeal crusts makes them a special treat. Made to order for entertaining with coffee, they are just as good with milk for the youngsters since they are so wholesome. They are good travelers, too; practical for anyone in your family who takes his lunch to school or work.

When you bake Pineapple Scotch Bars, better bake a lot!

Pineapple Scotch Bars
Filling: 1/4 cup sugar 1 1/2 cups crushed pineapple, lightly drained
 1 1/2 tablespoons cornstarch 3 tablespoons apricot jam
Crust: 1 1/2 cups sifted all-purpose flour 1 1/2 cups uncooked rolled oats
 1/2 teaspoon soda 1 cup brown sugar, packed
 1/2 teaspoon salt 1/2 cup shortening
Filling: Blend sugar and cornstarch. Stir into pineapple with jam. Cook and stir over low heat until clear and thick. Cool while making crust.
Crust: Sift together flour, soda and salt. Mix with oats and brown sugar. Work in shortening until mixture is crumbly.
 Pat half into 9-inch square pan. Spread with filling. Press rest of crumbly mix onto filling, pressing it in so the oats will not flake off and become dry.
 Bake in moderate oven (375 degrees) 35 to 40 minutes. Cool. Cut in bars or squares next day.
 Makes 24 bars.

PRICES PAID BY FARMERS FOR MOST FEEDS ARE DOWN

Prices Virginia farmers are paying for most feeds are down from last year.

Consequently the product-feed price ratios for livestock are much more favorable this year than last for all except hogs, which have dropped sharply in price because of the increased supply.

help maintain favorable feed ratios for livestock farms.

Certain other items used in farm production haven't changed much. There is little change reported in wages paid for farm labor. Fertilizer prices show either no change, or a slight decline. On the average the prices paid by farmers for items purchased are about the same as last year.

FORUM MEMBERS PIONEER IN SELLING ON GRADED BASIS

Virginia 4-H club members are pioneering in showing and selling their hogs on a graded basis. Recent 4-H shows and sales at Orange and at Bristol, amply demonstrated the value of grading the animals.

The Orange and Bristol events were the first in Virginia, and believed to be the first in the nation, where the 4-H hogs were shown on a graded basis. Heretofore, the basis of showing and selling has been on weight.

All 4-H swine events next year in Virginia will be on a graded basis.

Grading made it possible for the 4-H club members to benefit from the quality of their animals. The U. S. No. 1 grades sold for about $1.00 per cwt. more than the U. S. No. 2 grades. Of a total of 240 hogs sold at the two events 71 per cent graded No. 1, and brought an average price of $18.58 per cwt., as compared to $16.50 on the Chicago market the day of the sales.

Twenty-two percent graded No. 2, and brought $17.72 as compared to $16.50 for the same grades

Child Safety In Home Area Of Prime Importance, Says Garrett

By DR. W. Y. GARRETT
Medical Director
Princess Anne Health Dept.

Home area accidents are the number one killer and crippler of our children.

Home area accidents account for more juvenile deaths than any of the six leading diseases—more than pneumonia, congenital malformations, cancer, tuberculosis, leukemia, and heart disease.

Home area accidents kill more children than that most publicized killer of them all—traffic accidents.

The annual toll adds up to more than 12,000 children killed . . . 50,000 permanently crippled . . . and 1,500,000 seriously injured each year in accidents.

The problem of accident prevention in childhood is unique. No endowed foundation, no research laboratory and no inspired investigator is going to develop a vaccine, serum, antibiotic, endocrine extract or operation that will prevent accidents. Though interest, thought and statistical research can be stimulated at the community level, the ultimate means of any accident prevention program in childhood are the parents.

From the moment of birth, until at the age of 10 to 14 months when he can toddle a little, the infant is at the complete mercy of the people around him. He must be given 100% protection from being dropped, being allowed to fall, having objects dropped on him, hot liquids spilled on him, dangerous objects placed within his reach, and being placed in potentially fatal environments.

One to three years is the age of new found ambulation and indefatigable explorations . . . the dangers are legion. This young child must be given 100% protection against danger, but he must be exposed to minor ones.

At the very onset, this trying period must be marked by education rather than rigid discipline. What better time to learn, under supervision, than when the child is not at all liquids in bottles are potable, that pins are sharp, and that small falls result in hurts that need no sympathy? Behind any educational program at this age, however, will be repeated searches for, and eradication of, objects or conditions are hot, electric threats to the child's life or health. The particular hazards of this age are the street and the driveway, electrical outlets and appliances, fire and heat, machinery and poisons.

From the age of 3 on, education supplants protection. Protection must still be supplied for incomprehensible and as yet unlearned dangers. Yet, from this age on, the child must be able to rely on protection rather than instruction, the weaker is his position.

Safe self-conduct is a firm of behavior, and like any other behavior, it is largely set by the time the age of five is reached; thereafter, it is subject to growth, but little change in fundamental shape. The desirable balance of curiosity and caution, experience and urge for new experience, cause and estimated probable effect is established in the child only by a carefully thought out program of education.

Four-Lane Divided Highways Prove Safest for State Traffic

Four-lane divided highways with controlled-access facilities and wide medians are the safest roads in Virginia, a comparative accident study by the State Highway Department disclosed today.

The study, which extended from January 1, 1952, through December 31, 1954, covered sections of the following types of four-lane highways in the state: Undivided, divided with a median not wide enough to protect vehicles making left turns, divided with a median, and controlled-access — the Shirley highway, the state's most modern road.

Statistics gathered by the accident study section of the Department's Traffic and Planning Division during the three-year period showed that the accident rate of 180 and the death rate of six persons per 100,000,000 vehicle miles for the Shirley highway were lower than the comparable rates on the other types of roads studied.

Four-lane undivided highways such as US Route 1 were the greatest killers, with a death rate of 19.4 and an accident rate of 288. However, four-lane highways divided by only a narrow median had the greatest accident rate, 614, and the next highest death rate, 14.8, for every 100,000,000 vehicle miles of travel.

On four-lane highways divided by a wide median, but without the grade separations and other features of controlled-access highways, the accident rate was 293 and the death rate 8.2. The average death and accident rates on rural highways in the period of the study were 9.7 and 348, respectively.

J. P. Mills, Jr., Traffic and Planning engineer, said the majority of accidents on roads where traffic is separated by medians occur at crossovers and at interchanges. He listed excessive speed and driver inattention as the chief causes of such accidents.

In some instances, Mills pointed out, roads had to be four-lane to carry heavy traffic although sufficient right of way could not be adequate right of way for wide medians on new projects, especially at intersections.

The accident study was confined to four-lane highways and did not compare the death and accident rates on other types of roads in the state.

Traffic engineers said the study showed that on four-lane highways accident rates generally increase with the volume of traffic. However, where congestion is caused by exceptional heavy traffic, the trend is reversed and the accident rates begin to decrease.

Let's take
the NEW '56 FORD!

It's the fine car at half the fine car price!

4. The new 302-h.p. Thunderbird Y-8 will give you a new lease on driving enjoyment. It's available in Fordomatic Fairlane and Station Wagon models. You can have the "GO"-packed 176-h.p. Y-8 in Fordomatic Mainline and Customline models, or Ford's new 137-h.p. Six is available in any model.

6. Note the deep-center design of this new LifeGuard steering wheel. The wheel rim is over three inches above the post to help cushion the driver in case of an accident. It's a feature of new LifeGuard Design which Ford spent over two years developing . . . to give you added protection in case of an accident.

3. Here's what you ride on. This frame has five cross-members including a special K-bar member up front. It can really take it! By the way, the control arms of Ford's Ball-Joint Front Suspension are angle-mounted to cushion out the head-on as well as the up-down shock of bumps.

7. Here's Ford's new LifeGuard door latch. It is another member of Ford's new LifeGuard family. A double-grip locking engagement reduces the chance of doors springing open under unusual strain of impact. Chances of serious injury in accidents are less when passengers remain in the car.

Well, that covers the important points. But there's a lot more. So we'd like to invite you to come in and see the new '56 Ford for yourself. Then you'll see the colorful new exteriors and interiors, the quality workmanship that is evident everywhere. Then you'll learn the full story. When you do, you'll know that Ford is the fine car at half the fine car price.

QUICK-EASY PECAN RICE TIMBALES

NOW HERE'S A FINE SUGGESTION that's both new and "newly"... chopped pecans in rice timbales for added flavor and texture. And they're so simple to make when you use packaged pre-cooked rice because this recipe requires no "cooking." All that is necessary is to add the rice to boiling salted water and let stand, then mix it with the other ingredients. With your own pet cream sauce as the final touch—plus glazed carrots for color contrast—you have an easy-quick dish with a real gourmet touch.

PECAN RICE TIMBALES

1 1/2 cups (5-ounce package) pre-cooked rice
1/2 cup chopped pecans
1/2 cup boiling water
2 eggs, slightly beaten
2 cups condensed cream of mushroom or cream of chicken soup
1 cup chopped pecans
1/2 cup chopped onions
1/2 teaspoon poultry seasoning
1/4 teaspoon pepper

Add packaged pre-cooked rice and salt to boiling water in saucepan. Mix just to moisten all rice. Cover and remove from heat. Let stand 15 minutes.

Combine remaining ingredients. Add rice and mix well. Spoon into 8 well-greased custard cups. Bake in hot oven (375° F.) 30 minutes. Remove from oven. Let stand about 5 minutes. Unmold on hot serving plate. Serve with creamed eggs, creamed mushrooms, cheese sauce, tomato sauce, or gravy. Makes 8 servings.

PECAN RICE LOAF. Use recipe for Pecan Rice Timbales, baking mixture in well-greased 8x4x3-inch loaf pan in hot oven (375° F.) 60 minutes. Remove from oven. Let stand 15 minutes. Unmold on hot platter. Makes 8 servings. (ANS)

Garden Club Hears Talk On "Use Of Herbs"

The Cavalier Garden Club held its first meeting of the fall last Wednesday, September 21, at the Princess Anne Country Club.

Mrs. F. G. Barham, president of the club, welcomed three new members, Mrs. F. Reid Irvin, Mrs. L. S. Hodges and Mrs. Charles Wertz.

Mrs. Walton Saunders announced that the second workshop on arrangements would be held on Tuesday morning, October 18, at 10 o'clock, in Mrs. Barham's basement.

Mrs. G. C. Tietman, Horticultural Chairman, Tidewater District, Virginia Federation of Garden Clubs, gave a most interesting talk on "Herbs." Instead of just telling how and where they may be grown, she gave unusual bits of history connected with their use and origin. She said that had it not been for the spices of India, the American continent might have even yet been undiscovered.

Award winners at the meeting were: Spoilsman, Mrs. James Perkins, gold for marigold; blue in open class; Mrs. J. G. Traffon, Jr., red in open class. Arrangements, Mrs. C. G. Baughman and Mrs. E. A. Hoffmeister, blue ribbons.

Plants In Cans

A transition is taking place in the concept of growing shrubs and trees. Several years ago it was unheard of in the Tidewater Area, but the nurserymen in Florida and California have been using this method for many years, and it is catching on all over the country. The new idea is that of growing plants in tin cans. Normally we think of a nursery as a place where acres and acres of land are planted with ornamental shrubs, but now are beginning to see those field planted shrubs gradually being replaced by hundreds of tin cans each containing a shrub or tree. At first thought, this probably seems to be a rather odd way to grow plants, which it is, but it is decidedly the trend of the future.

REASONS FOR CANS

Let us look at the reasoning behind growing plants in tin cans. Today in all types of business, the goal is toward well packaged, attractive products. Why then should not the nurseryman follow this sound business principle and package his products in clean, uniform, easy to handle cans instead of hard to manage burlap "sacks"? Now a burlap covered plant is still a necessity in the case of large plants, but usually there are crews of workmen present to handle plants of this size, so that the "do-it-yourself" gardener is not left out, we have come up with the pre-packaging idea of canning plants.

Growing plants in cans has the added advantage of having them all ready to go when a customer wants them. No more loss of valuable weekend gardening time waiting for your plants to be dug. And no more worrying about the roots that are cut off and left in the ground when the plants are dug. A canned or container grown plant has all of the roots inside of the can and when you plant it in your garden, you are getting all of the roots, therefore plant losses are almost unknown.

Having the proper soil mixture is a concern to all gardeners as well as nurserymen. With container grown plants the exact type of soil best suited to the individual plant is achieved by blending the various soil components.

From the nurseryman's point of view, container grown plants take less space in the nursery do not have to be cultivated as frequently as field grown plants, and are easily irrigated as required. They do not have to be pruned, and they do not have to be dug and burlapped, a costly process at best.

Remembering again the requirements of the home gardener, container grown plants may be planted whenever convenient, some this weekend some next. They will last indefinitely and continue to grow in the cans if watered. Last but not least container grown plants may be planted at any season of the year—spring, summer, winter or fall. Since all of the roots go with the plant, there

Lions Hear Talk on Fire Prevention

The Bayside Lions Club, meeting last week in the Ames Room at the Norfolk Airport, with D. J. Wilkins, president, in the chair, heard Norfolk Fire Chief W. J. Lewis speak on fire prevention. Introduced by Bates Reese, program chairman for the meeting, Chief Lewis made the point that fire prevention is not a one-week-a-year proposition, but must be continually practiced, if the annually mounting fire losses are to be reduced.

Thirteen youthful members of PAIS (Princess Anne Athletic League) were guests of the club. They are members of the Bayside Lions basketball team. This team is sponsored by the club, and Anthony Zavelnaki, manager of the team, spoke on the record the boys made during the past season.

Apple Promotion Dates Are Set

Old Dominion apple producers, with a current crop estimated at being slightly in excess of five million bushels, enough for every Virginian to consume a bushel or more, will be given an all-out advertising and promotional effort during the third annual Virginia Apple Harvest Time.

Dates of the All-Virginia effort have been set for October 5 thru October 15, according to a joint announcement made here by E. Blackburn Moore, of Berryville, Chairman of the Virginia State Apple Commission, and Edward M. (Ned) Jones, of Washington, President of the Virginia State Horticultural Society.

Moore pointed out that Virginia apple advertising and promotional efforts during the past two seasons have met with success. This year, for the first time, the advertising push will be directed by a Virginia firm (Cabell-Eanes, of Richmond). The two previous efforts were managed by the Albert M. Wearstler Agency, of Youngstown, Ohio, and Greenwood.

"The Horticultural Society realizes," said President Jones, "that the Virginia apple producer has a real stake in selling his product to the consumer. The Virginia Apple Harvest Time Campaign, beginning next October 5, represents the Virginia apple industry's effort to properly discharge its responsibilities."

"There are enough apples right here in Virginia," said Robert J. (Bob) Rea, Mount Jackson orchardist and packer who is chairman of the Advertising Committee for the State Apple Commission, "for every one of our Virginia folks to be able to buy and to consume more than a bushel apiece. If our people can give that kind of support to the Virginia farmer's products, all will consider it a good year."

Two of Virginia's best-loved varieties — Delicious and Stayman — will be featured during the promotion which will have the combined backing not only of the Apple Commission and the Horticultural Society, but also the Virginia State Chamber of Commerce and the Virginia State Department of Agriculture.

"From past experience we know that the advertising and promotional efforts through newspapers, radio and television media have been successful in the highly populated areas of Norfolk and Richmond," Rea recalled.

Westbury Road, Diamond Springs, are receiving congratulations on the birth of a daughter, Anne Bowling. She was born September 3 at DePaul Hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Barbato, 6847 Norlina Road, Diamond Springs, announce the birth of a son, born September 18 at DePaul Hospital.

EVERYTHING FOR NOTHING

Why do we worship God — if we truly worship Him? Why do we seek Christ? The answer is that we, if we worship and seek truly, we worship and seek for nothing.

We do not worship God so that we shall have better adjusted personalities and lead more pleasant lives. God is not a fool. The Almighty is not for use. We worship God just to worship God. The experience cannot be justified by human considerations. The experience is itself a finality.

Perhaps the family will offer an answer. Why do a husband and wife raise a family? Is it to take advantage of income tax deductions? Is it so that they will have the children? Is it so that they will have company in the house? Such considerations sound silly. You do not have a family FOR anything. Having a family is basic to human beings. It is the garden of God and His righteousness and all these things shall be added unto you.

This faith of ours in Christ is big. It is important. It is bigger and more important than we realize — we people who think we are doing God a favor if we go to church, once in a while. It is bigger and more important than any human objective. It is the one thing on earth no man can give us. It is the one thing that is bigger than any man and worthy of all men. It is the one and only absolute. Kierkegaard, the Danish philosopher, understood this very well. He said: "There is something definite I have to say . . . I dare not die without having uttered it. The instant I die and thus leave the world I shall in the very same second be infinitely far away. In a different place where within the same second the question will be put to me: 'Hast thou uttered the message quite definitely?' And if I have not done so, what then?"

"TO REMEMBRANCE OF ME"

For almost two thousand years the Sacrament of the Lord's Supper has been celebrated by Christians everywhere. Though variously interpreted by the churches, though administered with different rituals, it has always remained our unifying bond . . . the Communion of the Church with her Lord.

On World Wide Communion Sunday Christian congregations all over the globe will assemble to celebrate this Communion. Each will follow its own accustomed usage, exercising the right of religious freedom that the free peoples of the world treasure so highly. And as millions receive the Sacrament they will be conscious of the joyous faith that unites them with one another and with Christ.

This is a century of crisis in which those who treasure their spiritual heritage must stand together . . . must face with courage the alarming growth and ruthless power of an atheism dedicated to the overthrow of both freedom and religion.

Join your fellow Christians at The Lord's Table!

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his neighbor's sake. (3) For his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his love and support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

New Navy Promotion Plan For Doctors And Dentists

A new promotional procedure for the Navy medical and dental officers being considered for the ranks of Captain and Commander during the present fiscal year has been announced by the Navy this month.

It provides for new service credit for time spent in professional education and training and will disregard the normal selection percentages that control the upper grade promotions of regular Navy line officers.

The new time feature will reflect four years of constructive service credit for professional education, plus appropriate constructive credit for internship and professional experience. This is designed to compensate for the long and expensive professional education and training that must precede actual practice for doctors and dentists.

Officers eligible for promotion under the new program are those on active duty who would have been in the promotion zones announced in ANVAV 60. This also includes "Tars" (Training and Administration for Reserves) and Waves with comparable professional experience.

The purpose of these promotion measures for physicians and dentists is to insure maximum mili-

Concentration Of Radioactive Dust Poses Threat

When atomic or hydrogen bombs are exploded close to the ground, they suck up into the mushroom cloud millions of tons of atomic dust and other material. This material becomes highly radioactive.

Some of the radioactive particles will spill out in the immediate area of the explosion, but others may be carried by the upper winds for many miles. Sooner or later they settle to earth. This is called fallout.

Normal amounts of radiation are harmless. It is only when it is present in concentrated amounts, such as are created by ground bursts of hydrogen or the larger atomic bombs, that radioactive fallout can cause serious injury or death to those who remain in the open without protective cover.

Your civil defense officials, in consultation with the Weather Bureau, will keep you posted on the direction of possible radioactive fallout, should an attack occur, and tell you what to do.

The best way to survive the hazards of radioactive fallout, or any other threat an enemy may use against us, is to be prepared—know the facts—learn what to do, now!

FORT STORY NEWS

Hurricane Jane
Lands Story the "Go By"

Hurricane Jane found this post at the tip of Cape Henry napped down to take the worst blasting the King-dad winds could inflict. But once again the critical period was out in watch-and-wait order. A "Condition One," which entails evacuation of dependents and of troops to emergency shelters, was never called, although all sections of the command were alerted to get on immediate notice. High winds caused only minor damage; trees were abnormally high and the offshore waters rough, but when the skies cleared, Story could give thanks for missing the swirling lone death the Carolinas.

Waters Stand by
For Flood Evacuation Use

Fort Story's amphibious mission, built around the durable amphibious truck, inevitably played a role in hurricane evacuation plans for the surrounding area. Ten DUKWs stood by for move to the flooded Carolina region. The 612th Transportation Company, a unit of the 376th T Battalion, sent three of its DUKWs to Ocean View on Chesapeake Bay, for stand-by evacuation duty. The vehicles were manned by Sp3 Perry Rutter, Pfc James Smith and Pfc Gerald Tompkins, Archie Block, Irvin Newman and Dale Dotson, with 2d Lt. Lloyd A. Hendrickson as officer in charge.

DUKWs Make Trip
To Washington for Regatta

Other DUKW news includes the first trip made by the amphibious trucks to the nation's capital since 1948. Occasion was the President's Cup Regatta in Washington Harbor in which Story's two DUKWs that are reserved for distinguished visitors, took part. 2nd Lt. John C. Benton, Jr., of the 612th DUKW Company, was in charge of the amphibious and their drivers on the six-day trip. The two DUKWs and their operators were from the 612th and 461st DUKW Companies. The former was represented by Cpl. John E. Roby and Sp3 Russell V. Borden; the latter by Cpl. Jas. P. Harrison, Sp3 Dalford Mayes and Pfc Robert E. Bradley.

Gets Silver Bar

Another second lieutenant in the 376th T Battalion got his silver bar last week. He's 1st Lt. John T. Willison, former battalion adjutant and now commanding officer of Headquarters Detachment. Lieutenant Willison, whose home is in Canonsburg, Pa., has been at Story with the 376th since May, 1954. A graduate of the University of Tennessee, he entered the Army in March of that year.

458th DUKW Company
Has New Commander

New commander of the 458th DUKW Company, a 10th T Battalion unit, is Capt. Claude H. Curry of San Mateo, Calif. He comes to Story from the 2nd T Port Command at Yokohama, Japan, where he was assigned from July, 1953, to June of this year. Earlier he served for ten months in Korea at the port of Incheon. Captain Curry's overseas duty also includes almost two years at the port of Manila. He replaces

FORT STORY FANTASY MURAL

An entire wall of the Lighthouse Tavern, the beer hall for enlisted men at Fort Story, shimmers with the fantastic undersea creations of Sp3 Ric hard J. Redd. The talented young artist, a member of the Post Information and Education Section, contributed this eye-catching mural which is decidedly appropriate, considering that the Atlantic laps at the Fort Story beach only a few yards away. Photo shows Redd applying finishing touches to his work.—Army Photo by Sgt. Wm. Couch 1st Lt. Vincent M. Russo who is leaving the 458th to spend three months as an observer with the Old Dominion Stevedore Company in Norfolk.

Ft. Eustis Army Band
Plays for Post Parade

Story troops paraded last week on the post parade ground to music by the 384th Army Band from Fort Eustis. Col. George E. Woods, Jr., reviewing officer, had as his staff the post executive officer, Lt. Col. John W. Daly, Maj. Marcus A. Petterson, Maj. Glennis L. King and Capt. Warren L. Green. Commander of troops was Story's deputy commander, Lt. Col. Frederick G. Ward. Later Colonel Woods congratulated Headquarters Company, 5th Transportation Terminal Command "B" and its commander, Capt. Gordon E. Cawthorne, for being selected as best marching unit.

Commendation Ribbons

Commendation Ribbons with Metal Pendants were presented by Colonel Woods to two members of the command during the garrison review. First Lt. Thomas S. Berry of Erie, Pa., was commended for his service as Plans and Intelligence Officer in France where he was assigned at La Rochelle from May, 1952, to April of this year. Lieutenant Berry, a veteran of World War II service in both European and Pacific Theaters, now commands the 804th DUKW Company. Decorated simultaneously was M/Sgt. James A. Bradley of Littleton, W. Va., whose award commended his service as Chief Storekeeper in Yokohama Depot, where he was assigned from December, 1952, to last May. Sergeant Bradley is now supply sergeant at the Post Motor Pool.

Fall Social Activity
Ushered in by Formal Dinner

manding General of the Transportation Training Command, Brig. Gen. and Mrs. Rush B. Lincoln, Jr., and TTC's Chief of Staff, Col. and Mrs. Edward W. Sawyer.

461st DUKW Company
Graduates Class

Another class of the eight-week school for operation and maintenance of the amphibious truck was graduated by the 461st DUKW Company, which conducts the course. Col. George E. Woods, Jr., presented certificates of course completion to the 62 students, of whom two were Navy men. He had special congratulations for the honor student of this 52nd graduating group, 20-year-old Pvt. Rene B. LaPerrier of Bellingham, Mass.

Captain Langford Now
Terminal Ordnance Officer

Terminal Ordnance Officer for the command is Capt. Wallace W. Langford of Washington, D. C., formerly associated with the Cities Service Oil Company in that city. A veteran of World War II service in Europe, the captain more recently saw overseas service in Puerto Rico where he was stationed from April, 1952, to last May. He includes the Bronze Star Medal among his decorations.

Surf and Sand
Being Enjoyed

Story's beaches have reopened in the wake of Hurricane Jane to give sun enthusiasts a last end-of-the-season chance to deepen their summer tans or frolic in the surf. The Post Signal Office this week completed the job of re-installing telephone communications

CONSERVING PREPARATION FOOD IN "WASTE" TIME

Modern household equipment saves the homemaker energy but presently encourages her in preparing more food at home, according to research of the use of a homemaker's time by the New Orleans (Louisiana) Experiment Station. To help housewives manage their time more efficiently, Winifred Wiegand made a study how 250 farm and city homemakers in her state spent their working time.

The women who had freezers or electric mixers spent more time on basic preparation of foods than those who lacked these conveniences. Mrs. Wiegand says that those who had electric mixers often did more baking at home. Most of the freezers were in farm homes and farm homemakers prepared more complicated meals than city homemakers, the study indicated.

The farm homemaker in this study averaged more than 7 1/2 hours a day on house work plus about 1 1/2 hours on farm or other work. The full-time homemaker in the city averaged slightly over 8 hours a day on housework. The employed city homemaker averaged more than 4 1/2 hours on home and garden tasks plus about 7 hours paid employment. Thus the employed homemaker has the longest working day.

About a fourth of the homemaker's time of all these women was spent in preparing food. Employed homemakers spent almost as much time in getting meals as full-time homemakers. As might be expected, food work took most of their working time at home after their employed work. A number of these busy women rated the pressure a steep climb for saving time in cooking.

The study showed that meals for smaller families of 3 or 4 persons took about as much time to prepare as those for larger families of 5 or 6 or more, but cleaning up after meals for 6 people, often because of the many food utensils used in preparing and serving food to young children.

FLAME-RESISTANT FINISH FOR COTTONS

An improved flame-resistant finish for cotton cloth, much superior to previous treatments, has been developed by U. S. Department of Agriculture scientists at the Southern Regional Research Laboratory, New Orleans, in cooperation with, and on funds supplied by the Army Quartermaster. The new finish may in the future be used to make safer uniforms, tents and other cotton fabric items for the military. It may also some day be used to make cotton cloth for civilian clothes—work garments, for example, or campers' or woodmen's outfits, or fire-resistant cotton goods for women's clothes or for curtains, bedding and upholstery fabrics.

Two fire-retardant chemicals, previously used in separate "flame-proof" processes developed by department scientists, are skillfully combined in the new treatment. It is this combination that has resulted in finished cloth that passes the most stringent laboratory tests for flame resistance. Both of the earlier processes gave a durable finish and made fabrics both flame and glow resistant—that is, they did not catch fire when held against a flame or continue to smolder when heated enough to char them. The new combination gives cotton cloth that is even more fire-resistant. It also is slightly lighter in weight, is more durable and less stiff than previous fire-resistant fabric and the finish stands up well after many bunnings. It adds wrinkle resistance and rot resistance to the fabric.

A piece of strip iron, bent and drilled as shown, will make twisting easy when you tie wires or barbed wire to fence posts. The twist not only does a neat, tight job—it also saves your fingers.

However, scientists say that before cotton goods finished by this newest method will go on sale, the unusual chemicals required must go into commercial production and the process must be taken by cotton goods manufacturers.

WAFFLE IRON AT TABLE OR PATIO

Convenient summer or autumn baking at the dinner table or on the terrace for an outdoor meal? Call on the waffle iron. Elaine K. Weaver of the Ohio Experiment Station reports that waffle irons may be used to bake corn bread, corn fritters, drop biscuits, oatmeal drop cookies, brownies, date sponge cake, French toast, spice cake and gingerbread.

It pays to get an iron with a heat control—or at least with a heat indicator. Mrs. Weaver advises. With a heat control you can set the dial for the temperature needed and never worry about too much or too little heat. A heat indicator shows the amount of heat, she says, but doesn't prevent over-heating.

Brown grids—at least 3/4 inch square—can bake more crisp waffles than small sharp grids, Mrs. Weaver finds. She also says grids all iron with a rim or tray to catch any batter that happens to drip over. Another recommended feature is insulated handles and legs. Well-insulated handles prevent accidental burns and a waffle iron which has legs that are insulated or raised up from the table won't mar the table top.

SEASONAL PLentiful

Bountiful summer crops, many and varied, will bring a wide choice of foods at reasonable prices to your table at this season. The plentiful foods list includes beef, pork and young chickens as choices for the main dish. Markets the country over will offer beef in abundance—a variety of cuts and grades, with the "good" grade especially prominent. Responsible for the big supply of pork, due on the market now, is the spring pig crop which was somewhat larger than that of the spring before. As for those popular young chickens—broilers and fryers—they will continue plentiful into October.

To keep company with these plentiful specials, there will be large supplies of rice and a large crop of late summer potatoes, due to hit the market just about now.

Stores will offer lots of fresh lemons and limes as well as frozen and canned juices; the makings of a refreshing lemonade or limeade for the youngsters as they come in after school. Milk and milk products will continue in plenty this month—also good choices for after-school refreshment.

Fresh fruits will include fresh Italian grapes, also called purple plums, and grapes, Thompson seedless, Tokay and Malva

Planting Time Critical Period For Good Seeding

The success of a seeding is largely determined by what is done at planting time, says J. F. Shouder, Extension Pasture Specialist, Virginia Polytechnic Institute, at Blacksburg.

"The use of adequate fertilizer is essential in establishing and maintaining productive pastures," he reports. "Following many seeding operations, one can easily observe areas which were missed by the fertilizer spreader because of the poor growth or the total loss of seedlings. In all parts of Virginia you can see unproductive pastures from which desirable grasses and legumes have disappeared or make but little growth due to the lack of plant food in the soil. In the same areas of the State, you can observe top producing pastures which have been well fertilized over the years.

"Proper fertilization is also important in maintaining clovers and other legumes in mixtures. If the supply of potash is low, legumes are unable to obtain suf-gas, as well as blue corn cobs. Vary the deserts in packed lunches with these "easy to eat" fresh prunes or grapes.

Canned grapefruit sections will continue to be plentiful on grocery shelves. Grapefruit seedlings and halved Thompson seedless grapes with lettuce make an attractive salad bowl mixture.

Also on the market are large supplies of canned tuna. Vegetable fats and oils will continue plentiful for cooking and salad use. There are also large supplies of lard, a favorite shortening for pastry.
